published by the students of Iowa State College and the Bomb Publishing Board Ames, Iowa

We Dedicate This '56 Bomb to James H. Hilton

PRESIDENT James H. Hilton knows that a healthy educational institution, with an eye to the future, must plan for growth. The Bomb of 1956 is dedicated to prexy Hilton as a tribute to his forceful handling of this neglected problem. Aware of the increasing demands made on the scholastic and social facilities of Iowa State College, Hilton donned seven-league boots and strode off to Iowa's Legislature with a concrete, consistant plan to meet these demands.

The results of Hilton's planning and presentation are already evident on the campus. Students are now living in a new dormitory — West Gate. Linden Hall plans have been approved and the dorm is moving toward construction. Staff salary increases have allowed ISC to bid for, and hire, a continuing high quality of educator.

But Hilton hasn't stopped with these accomplishments. He has looked to the future, and is preparing to meet the almost doubled enrollment expected by 1970. This is the kind of thinking that builds a college.

President Hilton has been here less than three years. We dedicate to the man, his accomplishments, and to his future plans for ISC.

FOREWORD

This book is Iowa State College. In a few short years, the graduates of today and tomorrow will have scattered around the globe, and many of them will carry this bound memory with them. Their library will contain this year of college, just as surely as if they mounted Beardshear Hall on their mantlepiece. Graduating seniors of 1956 will be the newest grist for the global mill, and are honored in this book by placement at the front. While graduates of an earlier year debated and compromised among themselves, to modify the shocks inherent in existence, these seniors have prepared.

This yearbook is designed to grant a moment of reprieve for busy men and women, to evoke a memory of an earlier time and place, of preparation.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The staff of this 1956 Bomb pays tribute to the students and faculty whose aid and guidance, and cooperation played a vital role in this publication. The staff also wishes to bow to the freelance photographers who assumed special assignments and carried them out so well, to writers not connected with the staff who volunteered their time and efforts toward the copy in this book.
Innovations are hard to achieve, and only through the endless patience of posing groups was the new yearbook format possible.

This is Beardshear Hall, as every student on the campus has seen it, at one time or another. A student's short four years at college are as transitory as these moving people are to the marble pillars of Beardshear's entrance. We are but shadows on a stone.

SENIORS

DIVISION OF AGRICULTURE

AGRICULTURAL advances are based on education. This educational job was given to the land-grant colleges over fifty years ago in a loosely-knit bill. Since then the colleges, Iowa State included, have developed an educational program based on the farmer's requirements — determined through the extension service and through the requests of the sons of the farmers.

Farming has become a specialty — and the field of agriculture has developed specialists. With an average of 30–50 thousand dollars investment for each farm worker — an amount surpassing industry's average — the farmer, the rural advisor, and the agricultural educator have been forced to specialize.

Seed now comes from commercial producers. Hormones are being fed to red meat animals. Experts study genetics. These advances are startling, but the future, now developing in the minds of these agriculture graduates, promises even greater things to come.

Hartman, Forestry; Hobart Beresford, Agricultural Engineering.

AGITATION by Iowa farmers, for agriculture instruction, coupled with the Land Grant Act of 1864, culminated in the formation of Ames College.

From the original 264 acres of experimental and model farms south of the college, Iowa State experimental agricultural activities have grown to serve the state and nation through research, extension and resident instruction.

The Iowa Agriculture Experiment Station was first established in 1888. Now, working with a yearly budget of nearly $3,400,000, research workers probe into agricultural problems and return an estimated $300 to Iowa farmers for every invested dollar.

It is through the joint efforts of agricultural and home economics extensionists that research findings are brought to the people in understandable, applicable form.

On the campus itself, through resident instruction, men and women are trained for life work in the business of farming and related agriculture fields.

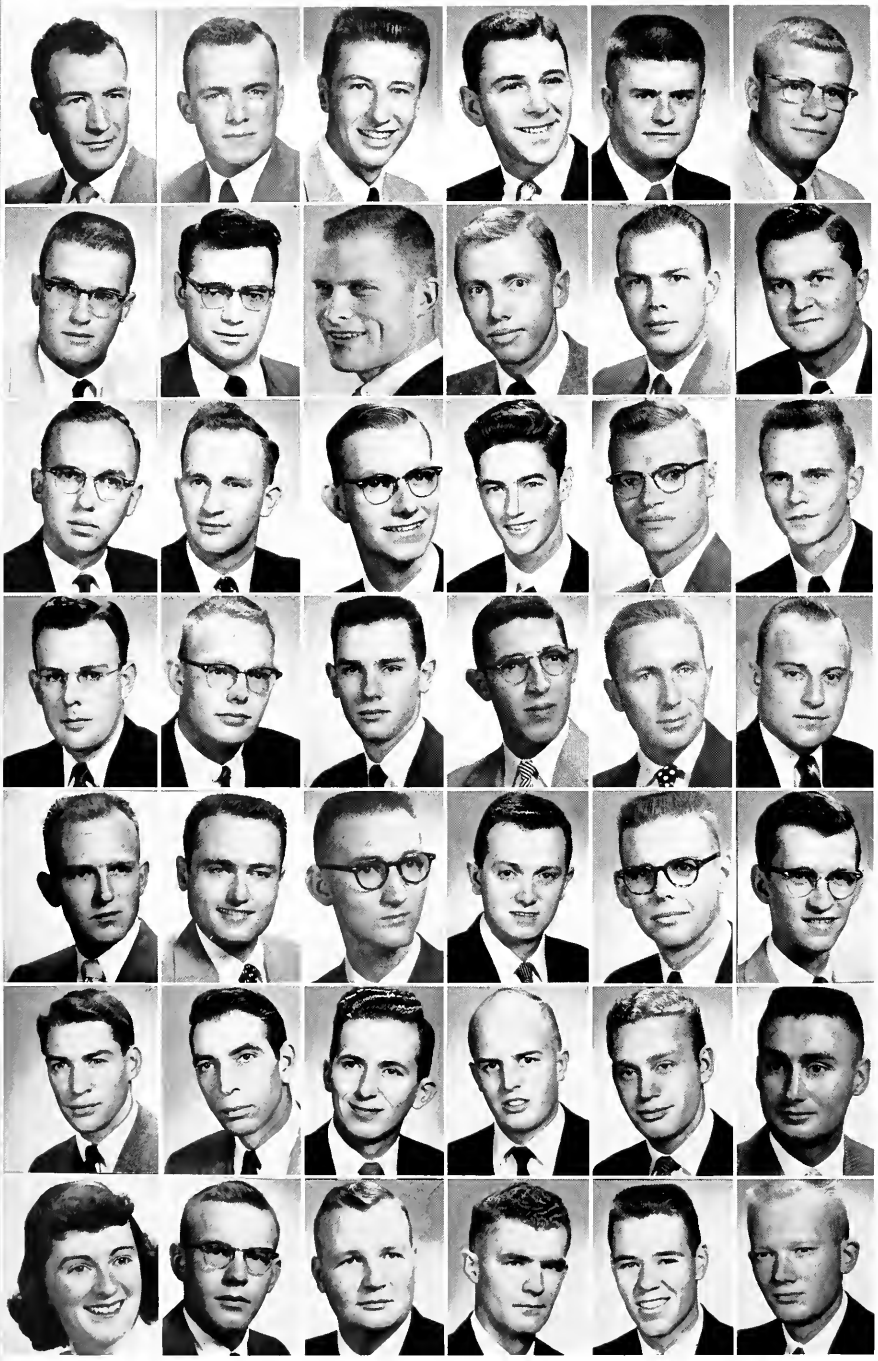

Determing what information reaches the student and how and by whom these facts are presented is partially the choice of the students.

The faculty relies heavily on teacher and class rating committees including students selected by Agriculture Council. This representative body also sponsors divisional events, including the All-Ag Banquet, the Harvest Ball and two divisional open houses.

DIVISION OF ENGINEERING

IN AN ERA OF proposed travel to the moon, faster-than-sound airplanes and mechanized society, engineers and their knowledge are becoming an essential part of every-day life.

Engineering progress in household equipment, automobiles, television, and highway improvements have become a safeguard to our peace of mind. Developments in the instruments of warfare have become, more or less, a safeguard to our peace.

Working from annual grants of approximately $422,000, research workers in engineering at Iowa State contribute their share to national progress in the engineering fields. Extension workers take these results into the field and apply them. Students, receiving the facts in classrooms, learn them for application to the research and study of the future.

MECHANIC Arts" curriculum of Ames College in 1864 included studies in mechanical and civil engineering. Further specialization, developed in 1873, increased the scope of the engineering field to include ten major departments.

These ten departments now give instruction to some 3,300 student engineers, making the Division of Engineering the largest in the college, surpassing the Division of Agriculture by nearly 1,000 students.

Courses in the three main engineering halls — Marston, Electrical Engineering and Agricultural Engineering — stress the analytical and thoughtful approach to problems.

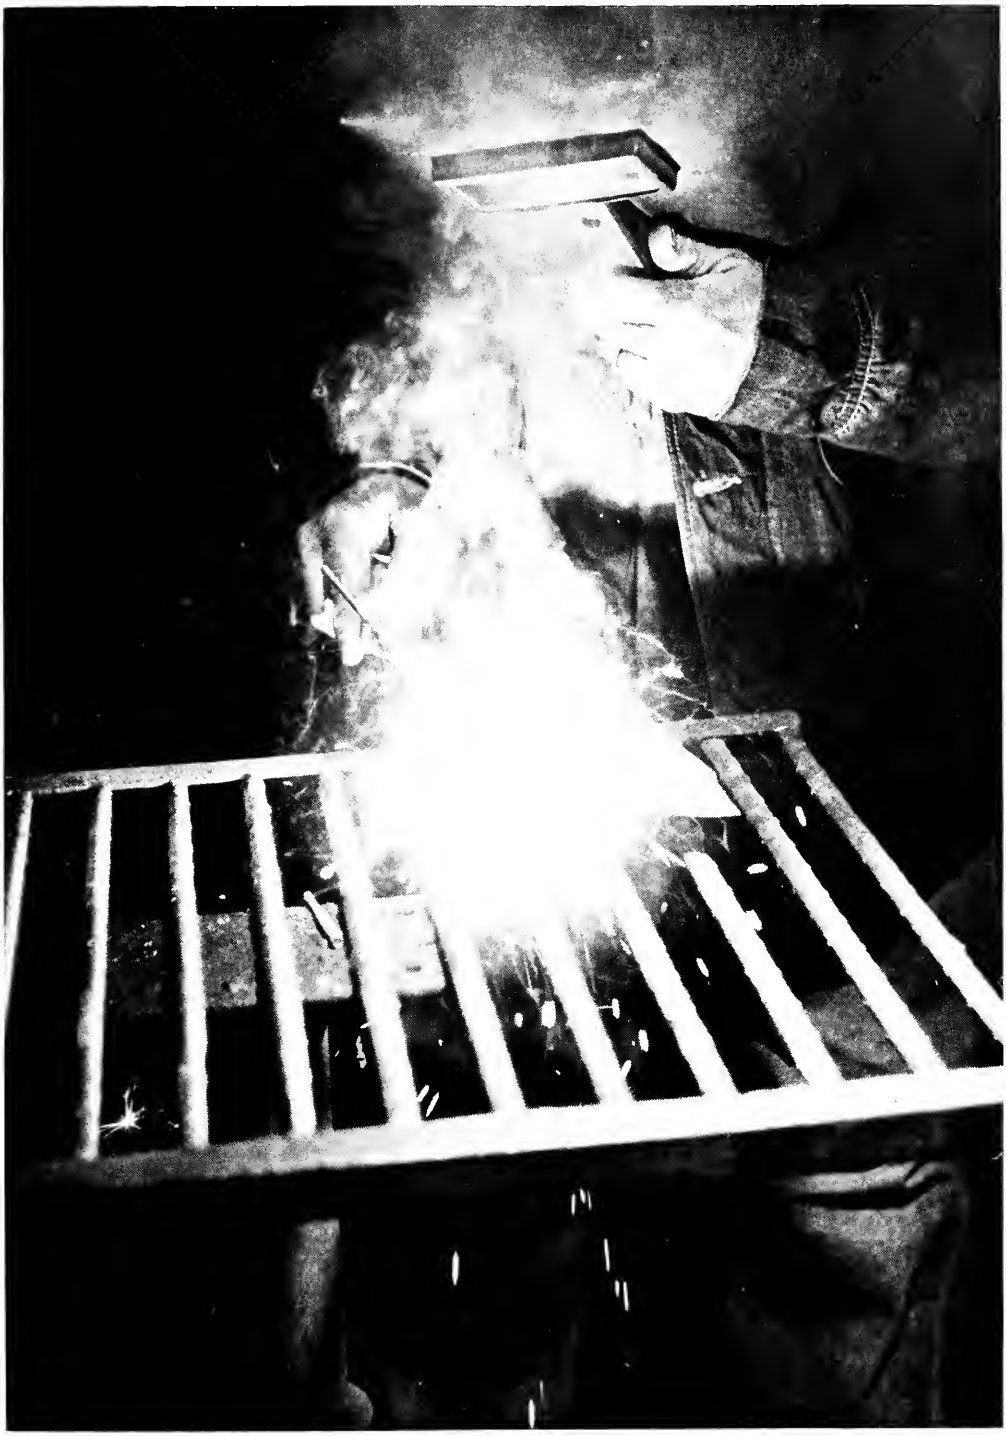

Evidently this goal is achieved, for the division consistently ranks among the nation's top ten engineering schools both in standards and in enrollment.

The students of the division are united through their governing body, the Engineering Council.

Socially, the group promotes two large college functions, the Engineers' Carnival and the Christmas Ball. The Carnival is an all-college event. The Christmas Ball, promoted for the first time this year, replaced the Engineers' Ball.

DEAN HELEN LeBARON

DIVISION OF HOME ECONOMICS

AMONG THE many changes that have evolved in American life over the past 50 years, perhaps the most outstanding concerns the role of the American woman in society today.

Formerly women were expected to stay home and meet the needs of the family. Theirs was the responsibility of bearing and raising the children, furnishing palatable food and a clean, comfortable home.

Now they are in equal demand by America's vast industrial program. Her education must equal that of her male co-workers. She commands comparable salaries. She is trained in research to work side by side with the farmer, the scientist, the engineer, and the doctor.

Today's woman may select marriage, or a career or both. It is the purpose of the Division of Home Economics to prepare her equally well for either.

ALTHOUGH not included in the original plans for Ames College of Agricultural and Mechanic Arts, practical studies in home management were introduced shortly after the college's founding as a department in the division of agriculture.

"Domestic Economy" was first taught as a type of short course with rotation work in kitchen, dining room and laundry techniques. A two year study course including some science was in effect by 1884.

Despite lack of suitable housing and insufficient funds, new courses of study were added and enrollment steadily increased.

As a result of the general campus reorganization of 1913, the former department became a separate division with P. Mabel Nelson as its first dean.

Now lacking only two years toward a century of growth at Iowa State, the division offers Bachelor of Science degrees for completed study in nine home economics fields.

They now represent the third largest student group on campus, but home economists are occupying the same classroom space allotted the division a quarter of a century space ago, when enrollment was approximately one-fortieth its present size.

A three-step building program to relieve strain on faculty and students was begun this year with the addition of a west wing.

1st row: Grace M. Augustine, Institution Management; Margaret I. Liston, Home Management, Dean Helen LeBaron; Florence Fallgatter, Education; Margaret Warning, Textiles and Clothing; Elizabeth Beveridge, Household Equipment. 2nd row: Marjorie S. Garfield, Applied Art; Assistant Dean Julia Faltinson; Glen R. Hawkes, Child Development; Ercel S. Eppright, Food and Nutrition; Irene H. Buchanan, Placement Director; G. Guiot, Physical Education.

The new west wing will provide 21 new classrooms and laboratories as well as a lecture hall with 180 seating capacity. An auditorium for all-college use also is planned.

Because of its direct effect upon the students, the addition is of major concern to Home Economics Council, the division's representative student group.

With membership from each divisional club, the Council attempts to coordinate the nine clubs and bring students a wider knowledge of the home economics profession.

Council activities include the United Nations Tea and the Home Economics Ball.

DIVISION OF SCIENCE

DR. HAROLD V. GASKILL, Dean of the Division of Science and Director of the Industrial Science Research Institute at Iowa State College since 1938, left this year to serve private industry.

President Hilton aptly described the wide-spread feeling of loss when he said ". . . all of us at Iowa State College deeply regret Dean Gaskill's leaving."

Gaskill was granted leave in 1951 from the college to serve for nearly two years in Washington, D. C., as Chief Scientist, United States Army, and deputy for Research and Development, Office of the Chief of Staff, United States Army. He was awarded the Army Meritorious Service Award in recognition of his work.

DEAN HAROLD V. GASKILL

EASILY the most diversified division at Iowa State, the Division of Science meets the needs of those seeking a liberal arts education as well as those desiring a highly technical education in the physical sciences.

Stress in instruction is largely on the basic fundamentals which are to be applied later in the business world. However, "Science With Practice" is carried through in many fields, especially in television, journalism, education and most of the physical sciences.

The bulk of the research funds comes from government agencies. Research also is financed by an annual $100,000 allotment from the state and other special grants.

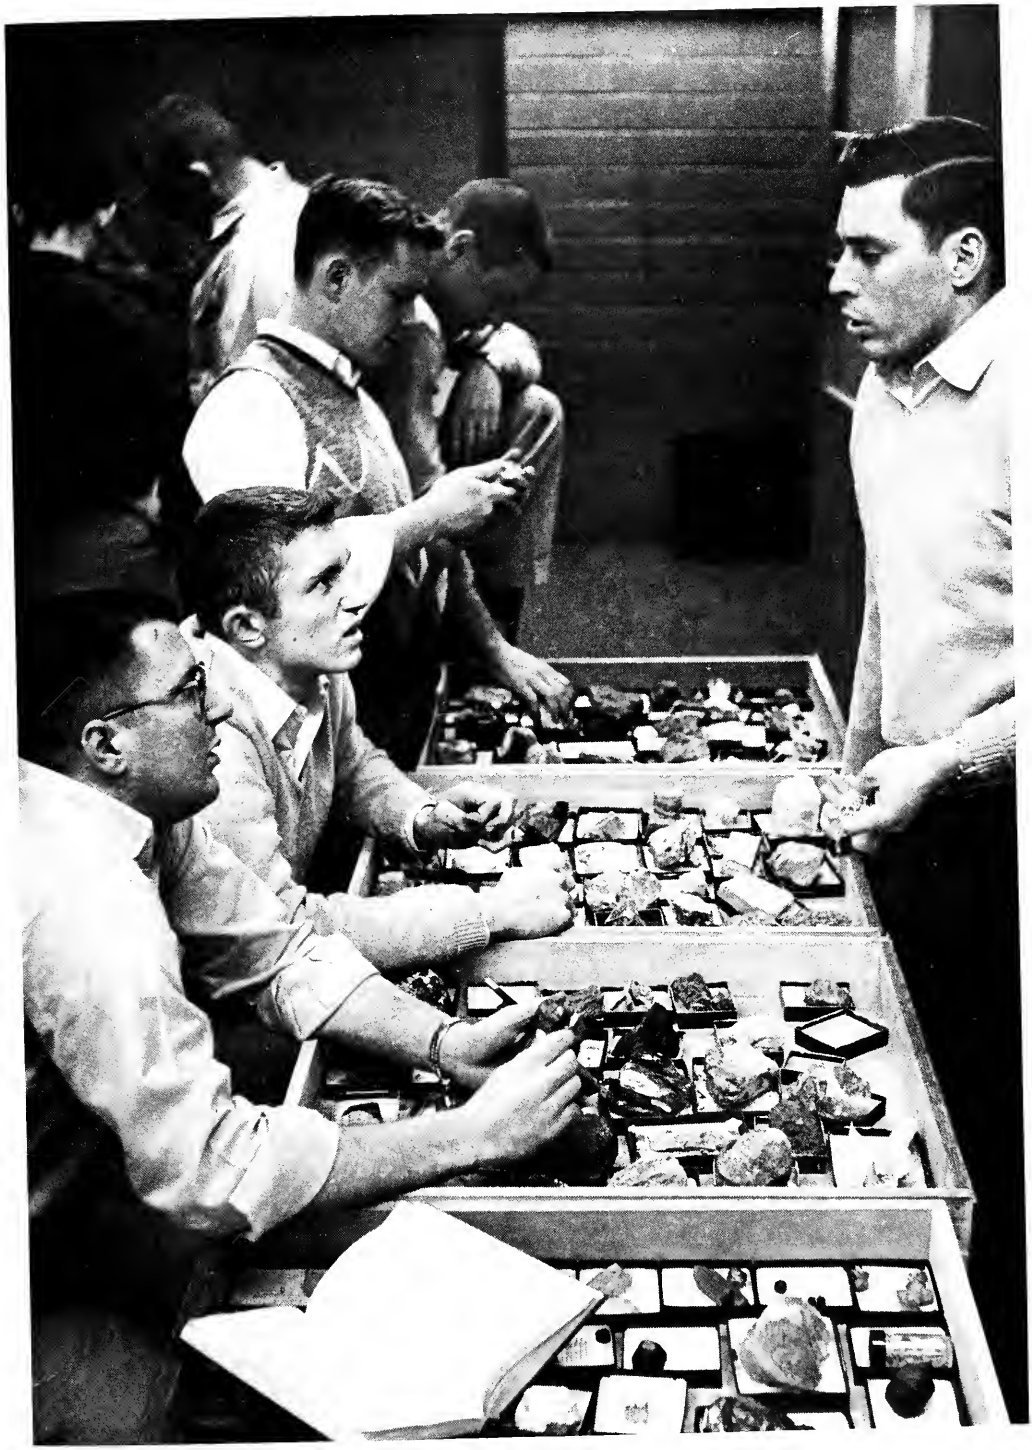

Although the division is best known for its work for the Atomic Energy Commission, other classified material is being worked on for other agencies in a variety of departments.

Students participate in their division through departmental clubs and Science Council. The council, a representative group, deals with the curriculum study and sponsors "The Scientist," divisional publication.

Science students opened their social season with a highly successful Christmas Ball, sponsored jointly by Science and Engineering Councils to replace the two divisional dances of the past.

DIVISION OF VETERINARY MEDICINE

DISEASE and sickness in humans and animals have plagued mankind since the beginning of time. Recent estimates by experts set $15,000,000 as the yearly loss to Iowa farmers brought about by livestock deaths.

Thousands of dollars are spent every year in Iowa to combat livestock diseases. Progress in combating "old" disease is often offset by the discovery of new illnesses and nutritional deficiencies.

To this battle the Division of Veterinary Medicine at Iowa State contributes five factors — clinical service, diagnostic laboratory service, research, extension and classroom instruction.

The state gives approximately $200,000 annually to research here. Operations in the clinic and diagnostic lab also are maintained by the state. But, materially and spiritually, the greatest investment lies in the men of the Division. United by personal and professional respect, they study to prevent disease and to save lives.

CONSIDERING the prevalence of hog cholera, Texas fever and other livestock diseases in 1858 in America, it was not strange that "veterinary studies" should be included in the first program of study at Iowa's new state college.

In 1879 the department became a division and, at the same time, the first veterinary school in the west. Now 77 years old, the Division of Veterinary Medicine is the oldest state school of its type in existence.

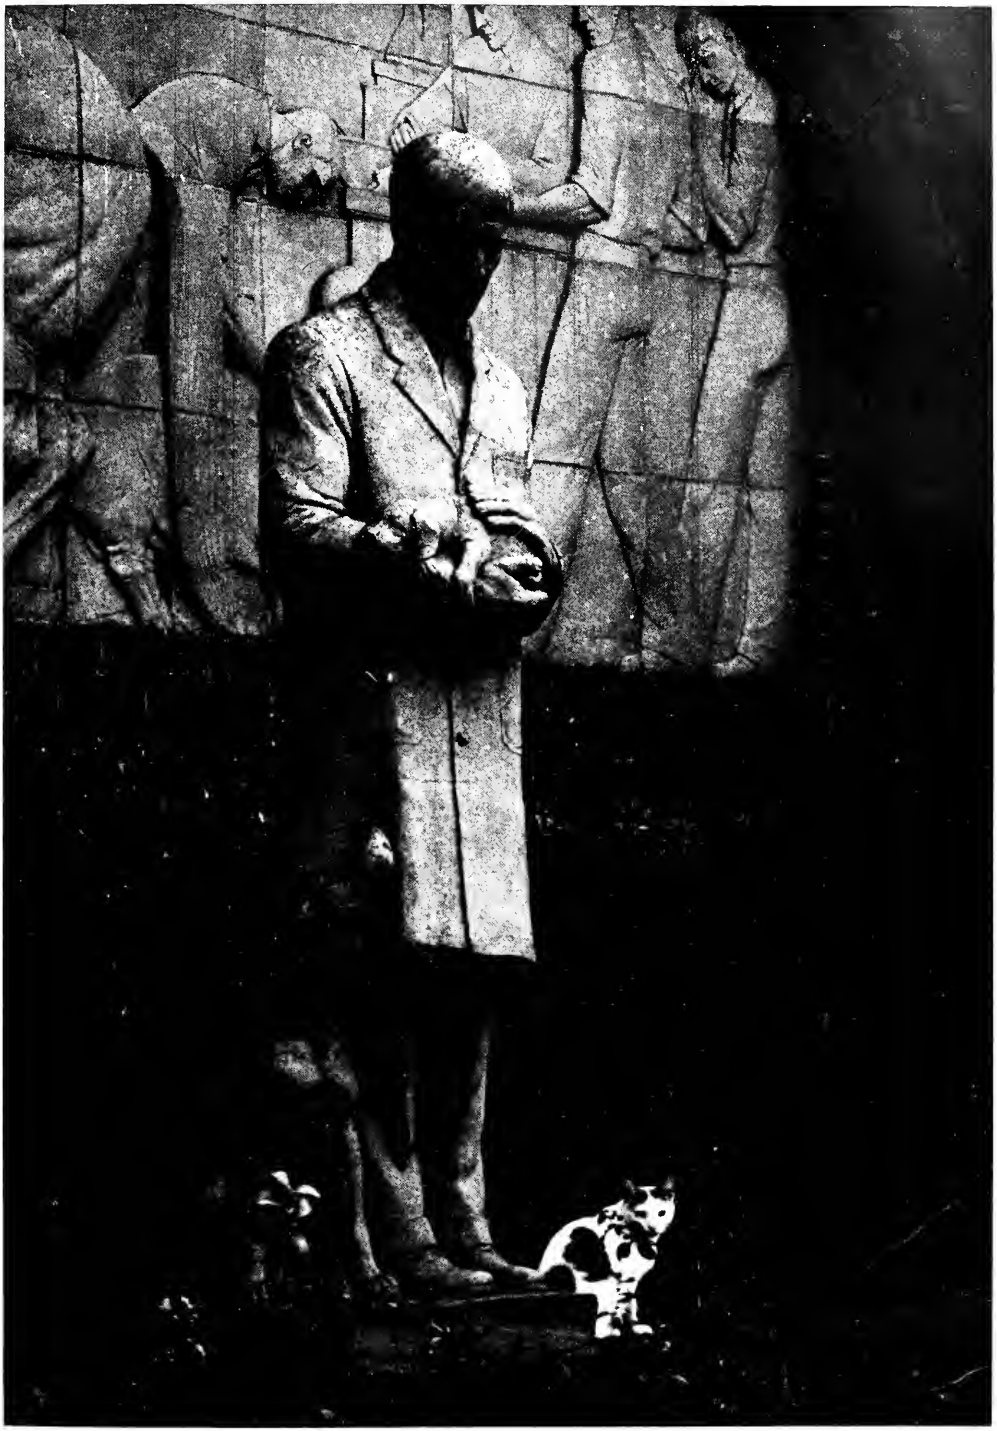

Originally a two year course, studies in veterinary medicine now encompass six years. The few original classrooms have been replaced by "Vet Quad" and the new Iowa State Diagnostic Laboratory Building.

As in other divisions, the vet meds have their student Council. Unlike other divisions, the vet meds have an Honor Code which is directly regulated by the Council. This Code is designed to instill professional ethics and pride in the students.

Council also seeks to raise the level of instruction and to supplement the program with movies and outside lecturers.

THE ADMINISTRATION

President James H. Hilton

has always worked closely with the students of Iowa State. This year, his first as Director of Student Affairs, Helser has expanded his work. He actively participates on curriculum, Freshman Days, scholarship and fraternity and sorority groups.

J. H. JENSEN

might be called the vice-president of Iowa State. As Provost he assumes Dr. Hilton's duties in the president's absence. Jensen's work is largely with the academic interests. In addition to working as a coordinator between the deans and divisional faculty members, he sets up all academic committees.

ARTHUR M. GOWAN

deals with the academic aspects of Iowa State. In his capacity of college registrar, Gowan's chief concern is with the simplification of registration procedure. He also works with Freshman Days, curriculum and Commencement committees.

VEISHEA '55

A RECORD 170,000 people crowded onto the campus to watch the 1955 Veishea Parade which climaxed the three-day festival. Classes, work, and rest were forgotten as students and visitors centered their attention and praise on the highlight of the year. Everyone agreed that it was a production unequaled; a Veishea . . . well done.

The parade well displayed the results of endless hours of work and immeasurable amounts of crepe paper and chicken wire. Crowds which lined the curving streets on the campus as well as the many television viewers were held enraptured by the 81 sparkling creations. A towering knight in silver armor rode atop a black horse; Snow White watched over seven plump dwarfs; Pinocchio, Jimminey Cricket, and Figaro followed close behind. The Phi Delts topped the other entries with their gigantic Mother Goose and expressive story-book figures, and walked off with the sweepstakes trophy.

Iowa's top man, Gov. Leo Hoegh, appraised the colorful pageant from the review stand in front of the Memorial Union. Throughout the parade, his sincere smile and look of interest bore out his words, "I love a parade."

A carillon concert by Prof. Ira Schroeder preluded Veishea's official opening. Opening Ceremonies began with the entrance of the honor guard escorting Gov. Hoegh, President James H. Hilton, Dean M. D. Helser, Provost

Phi Delta Theta, social fraternity, won the Parade Sweepstakes trophy with its portrayal of Mother Goose. This float topped 81 entries in the gigantic and colorful parade.

Forestry Open House Pole Climbing Contest

James H. Jensen, and Veishea General Chairman Robert Goodale.

A notable high point of Veishea came when the outstanding Iowa State men and women were chosen for membership in Cardinal Key and Mortar Board. Predictions of the chosen were exchanged, and suspense increased as the day of tapping drew near. Thousands of students, parents, and friends gathered around the campanile, awaiting the ceremony. All eyes followed the robed members of the two honoraries as they silently sought out the new initiates. One by one the mortar boards were placed atop the heads of the pre-chosen junior girls. Hearty slaps on the back identified the junior and senior boys selected for Cardinal Key.

The eleventh annual Veishea Horse Show offered prizes and trophies for each of the 16 classes entered. Over three hundred entries from several mid-western states made this the biggest one day show in the Midwest.

The "World Series of canoe races" was ably introduced by a "floating band" which led the crowd to Lake LaVerne from the Opening Ceremonies. Faculty cheerleaders led the crowd ambitiously, as practically everyone ended up in the water. It was a closely contested race, but Delta Tau Delta won the contest for best costumes, and Kappa Kappa Gamma raced to victory in the all-college canoe races.

The lighting of the Veishea torch by President James Hilton highlighted the Veisheathon at Clyde Williams Field. Aglow with queens and Les Brown's band, the ceremony featured the crowning of Marilyn Blome as 1955 Veishea Queen of Queens by Miss America, Lee Ann Meriweather; the announcement of Charles Duncan as Athlete of the Year; and the presentation of a 1955 Cadillac to Dean Helser.

Aching feet and determination carried spectators from open house to open house. A multitude of displays represented the five divisions and many campus activities. The dummy of a man whose mouth moved as he "spoke" to visitors in different languages greeted visitors at the modern languages open house; Iowa's weather was explained to viewers of the Agronomy display; and four local WOI-TV shows were televised out-of-doors as part of the station's open house.

The Department of Civil Engineering was awarded the Open House sweepstakes trophy. This trophy was presented this year for the first time in college open house competition.

Novelty characterized Veishea Vodvil's "Showboat of Shows." "Uncle Billy's Showboat," given by Beta Theta Pi, brought the curtain up on a family melodrama in Charlie's saloon. Portia became a barmaid, and Caesar sang "I Was High and Mighty," in the Phi Kappa Psi's prize-winning satire of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar."

A travel agency offered tickets which made dreams come true in the Stars Over Veishea presentation of "Ticket to Dreamland" at Clyde Williams Field. Dancing, a jazz combo, and choral backing were combined on the huge outdoor stage under black skies to produce the gay extravaganza. Student-written, directed,

'55 Veishea Queen of Queens and acted, the show told the story of four dreamers who sought escape into the world of their dreams. The dreams of Toyland, the Wild West, Loveland, and the Mardi Gras came true, but faded as the curtain closed.

Smooth, music, styled by Les Brown, will never be forgotten by 1955 Veishea goers. Mr. Brown and his orchestra entranced a huge crowd at the Veisheathon's outdoor concert, and filled Great Hall with their renown style for the Friday and Saturday night dances. Throngs of students and visitors filled the dance floor to listen and dance to his arrangements.

With the last note of music at the Saturday night dance, Veishea ended once more. Cars filling every available space left for home; crowds and excitement vanished together; trampled grass and bits of crepe paper remained the only witnesses of the three-day holiday. The meetings, the worries, the deadlines, and the work which preceded Veishea became memories.

Miss America of 1955. Lee Ann Meriwether. favors floats. Queen. and pizza during campus visit.

LEE ANN MERIWEATHER, the Miss America of 1955, stepped back into college life the evening she arrived at Iowa State. As soon as she finished rehearsing the Veishea Queen of Queens pageant, she visited several fraternities to watch their progress on the floats. Everywhere she stopped she admired the floats . . . and the men admired her.

At the Phi Psi house, she paused long enough to enjoy some pizza "with the stringy kind of cheese" as the work was halted.

Friday night "Lee" was formally introduced to the students as she presented Marilyn Blome with her scepter and crowned her the Veishea Queen of Queens.

Intermission of the Friday night dance was highlighted by the appearance of Miss America, Miss Blome, and her two attendants.

When Miss America left the campus, she left all with the opinion that she was not only a national beauty, but also a gracious lady. She has, it was discovered, simple tastes. To her, men are men. The ideal male, according to her, "must have blond, brunette, or red hair, as long as he's short or tall."

She hasn't done much sewing or cooking, but, she added, she didn't mind doing either of the two." When asked about marriage, she said simply, "I guess I'll get married anytime the right man comes along." She prefers a modern ranch style home, and wants "a boy and a girl, but I guess I'll keep what I have."

"Stars Over Veishea," student-directed wonder-show, offered beauty rhythm, and humor . . .

. . . as is captivated

with a bewitching tour to Dreamland.

A surprised Dean Helser accepted the students' gratitude and gift: then said softly, "Thank you very much."

STUDENTS, FACULTY, and friends created their opportunity to thank Junior College Dean M. D. Helser for 40 years of guidance and help.

The result of a secret drive for cash was the presentation of a 1955 Cadillac at the Veisheathon ceremony.

"Operation Rainbow," a drive symbolizing the pot of gold at the end of every rainbow of service, was sponsored and directed completely by Iowa State students. Dollars and dimes were willingly contributed to purchase a gift worthy of being offered as a tribute to Dean M. D. Helser in recognition of his tireless service.

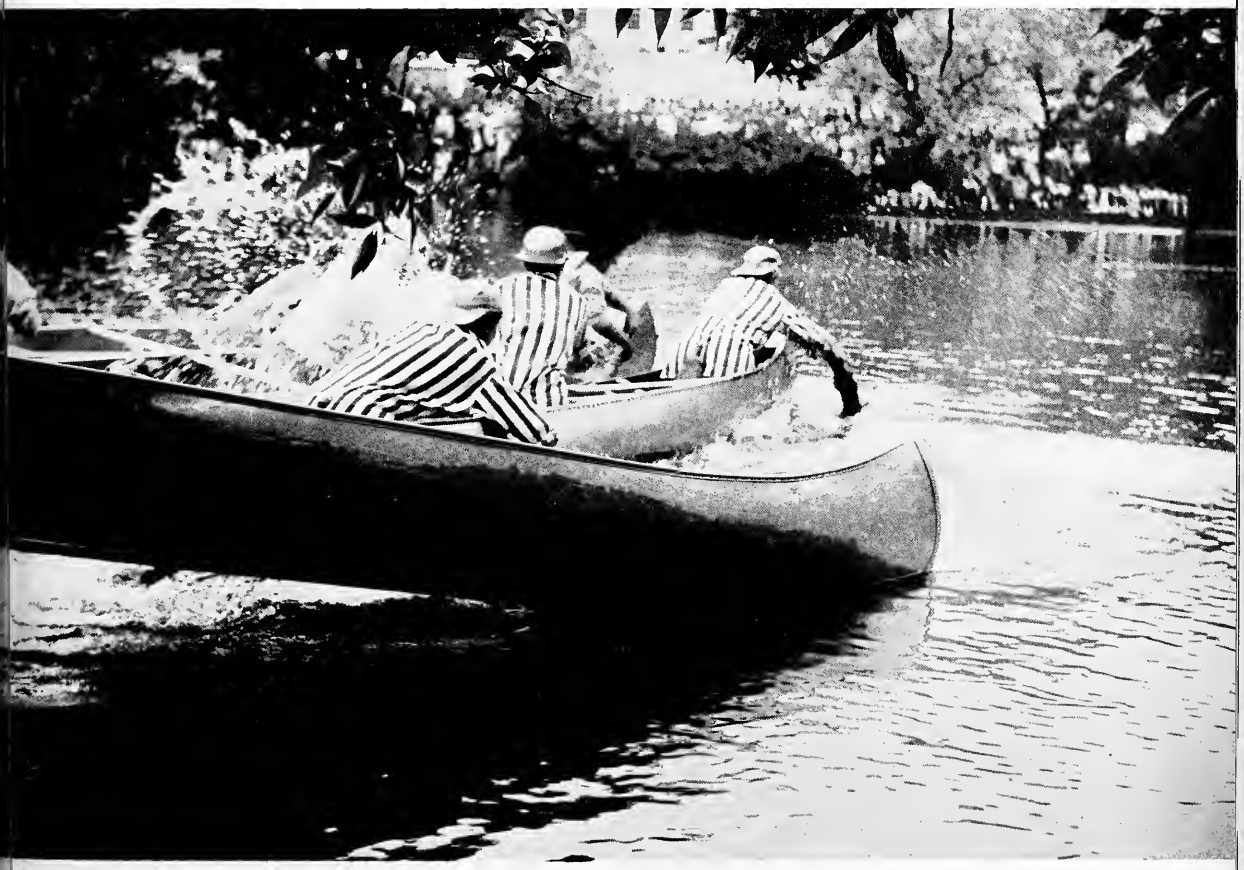

The Dean sat in the stands with his wife as Ron Moss, student body president, spoke on behalf of the students. He told of the gratitude of all for "the man who has shared his time and knowledge with his students — our beloved dean, Dean M. D. Helser."

Flashbulbs and applause exploded in the stands, and Dean Helser rose from his seat to accept the verbal tribute. Moss then asked the Dean to come to the stage. The surprised Dean was conducted through the stands, as a standing ovation surrounded him.

As Dean Helser went onto the stage, the Cadillac started up the track. A stunned, disbelieving Dean accepted the keys to the car as the cheers of over 8,000 approving students and friends filled Clyde Williams Field. Dazed, he said only, "Thank you very much."

Then, smiling, he turned to the crowd, waved the keys, and shouted, "If this is a dream, don't wake me up."

The faculty cheered while nearly everyone else ended up in the water. A closely contested "World Series of Canoe Races."

Social Bureau Boosts ISC Campus Activities

Everyone, from bridge fiends to Bach fanciers, finds a niche in one of the activities sponsored by Social Bureau.

Bridge lessons, Union 410, and International Night were a few of their social life boosters.

Play-goers and music-lovers descended by the bus-load on Des Moines on Social Bureau sponsored trips to KRNT Theater. A newcomer was Music Forum, where students presented lectures and records of everything from jazz to symphonies.

"Participation" is all the promenaders require of their members. But they mean active participation as you can see from these four dancers here. They swirl to the call, the fiddle and the bow.

Promenaders Swing it Western With Square Dancing Fridays

Dancing each Friday night, the Promenaders relax and enjoy themselves while preparing for exhibitions and television shows.

This organization consists of both open and closed groups. The latter is the group of Promenaders which attends the International Square Dance Festival and other major events.

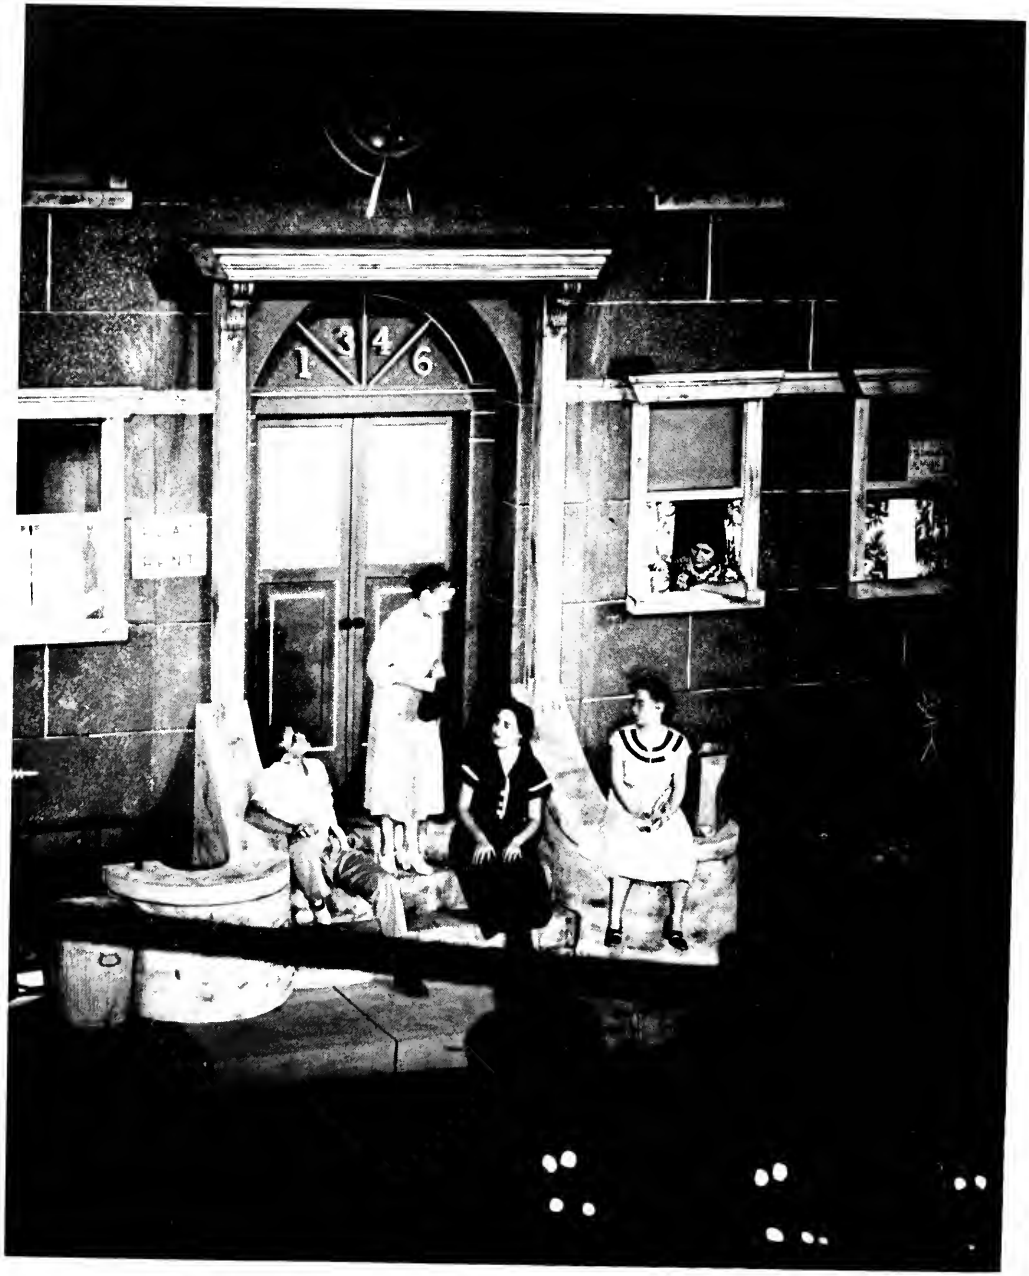

The only requirements for membership are an active interest and participation. Everyone is invited to the open dances, and many students take part.

Directly connected with Promenaders is the Callers Clinic which trains members to call the moves for the folk dances.

It's all in fun, and it's all good fun when the gals and guys gather for a Friday's evening's entertainment and exercise.

IOWA STATE PLAYERS . . .

"Double Door" followed the Veishea production by two weeks. Here Meredith Graur, the grasping mother, tries to maintain a hold on her son, portrayed by David Mills.

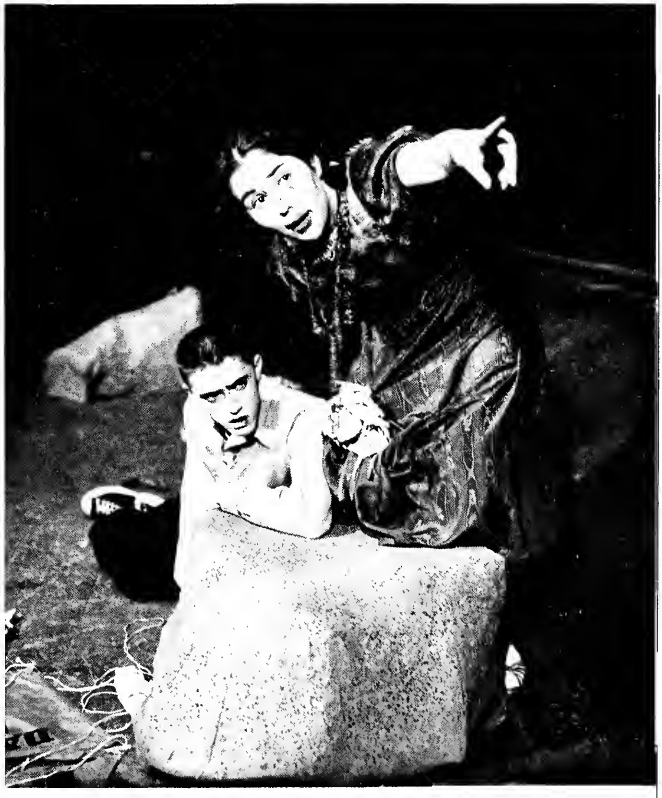

Children's Theater Added With Spring's "Shoppin' Way"

Something new has been added — a theatre especially for children has become part of the Iowa State Players organization.

Last spring, for the first time, grade school children of Ames solemnly filed into Curtiss Hall to see "Woppin' Way." By the end of the show the children were wildly enthusiastic, and Iowa State Players had permanently added Children's Theatre to their list of activities.

Children's Theatre, composed of members of a speech class which emphasizes dramatic production, directed and produced the play.

working on the productions. Loren Hansen is president of Players.

At Veishea last spring the Players presented "The Man Who Came to Dinner," a three act play. Other plays produced during the year were "Street Scene" and "The Crucible." Laboratory Theatre presented "Double Door" and "Rooming House Blues," a series of three one-act plays. An opera, "Gionne Schinchi," was another Laboratory Theatre production.

A bimonthly project of the Iowa State Players is Film Theater, where they present foreign and American films. The Theatre provides students with an educational and entertaining Wednesday evening.

Players practice in their own theater, where they gain experience in producing and directing plays. They also secure and construct properties and learn staging and make-up. Publicity is handled by the members.

On the social side, Iowa State Players take trips two or three times a year to schools in Iowa and surrounding areas and to the KRNT Theater in Des Moines. The players, besides enjoying the trip and the plays, are able to compare and contrast their plays and work with those of professionals and other colleges.

The faculty directors this year were Frank Brandt, Percy Patterson and M. Drexler.

Pat Arney, S. Jr., had plenty to talk about to Daryl Polenz, E. Jr., and Phil Johnson, S. So., in the Players' production of "Street Scene."

JOINT SOCIAL COUNCIL

MALE VICTIMS of Iowa State's often quoted and cursed ratio have found an ally in Joint Social Council. This organization for coordinating all campus social activities got into the Leap Year spirit by instigating Dames Daze, a weekend designed to give the fellows a taste of the dating rush.

Social Council encouraged coeds to dig into their mad money and take the fellows on dates during February. To give reluctant females a push in the right direction, the Council offered two trophies — to dorm and sorority — for the highest number of dates per member.

Social chairmen of each residence make up Social Council, which also promotes various social activities in addition to Dames Daze. All social exchanges between residences are regulated by policies set up by the Council. Members hash out campus dating problems and analyze time and etiquette of exchanges.

UNION BOARD

KEEPING THE students entertained is a big job in itself, but this is only one of many Student Union Board functions.

The board, consisting of divisional representatives elected in the all-college elections each spring, sees to it that there is entertainment in the Union every weekend.

Union Nite Club, Varieties, Reel Reviews, and Jazz Concert series are on the strictly entertainment side. Political forum is one of the group's more educational projects.

Working with student groups planning programs and parties in the Union is another board function. It rents space to these groups and provides free coffee for many of the forums.

On profit-making dances, the board charges the sponsoring group a percentage of the profits, which is put into the general Union operating fund.

Western songs and Gamma Phi smiles won first place in Union Varieties' opening show. Acts were judged with an applause meter, newest innovation to Varieties performances.

Booking agent Jere Wise and secretary Beth Holl.

CARDINAL GUILD ORCHESTRA SERVICE

SIX MONTHS before a dance is announced, the chairman has to select and contract the band. To contact the band personally would be difficult and sometimes impossible. Therefore, Cardinal Guild some time ago established the Cardinal Guild Orchestra Service to act as an intermediary.

In constant contact with big name bands like Ralph Marterie and many others throughout the country, the service obtains them for Veishea and Homecoming as well as securing those needed for all the other dances during the year.

STUDENT PROPERTIES BOARD

EVERYTHING from a public address system to backdrops for formal dances and window displays can be found in the Properties room.

Beginning in 1945 with a few articles left over from an ice show, the Board has developed into a business worth over five thousand dollars. Completely self-supporting, the income from rentals is used to meet overhead and expand the list of properties. The working staff of this organization includes 14 students. Their one goal — to be of service to Iowa State students and organizations.

HOMECOMING

Scrap Heap Scramble Is Newest Homecoming Kickoff Preview, Billy May Feature Orchestra

Homecoming was launched with a bang, a roar, and a cloud of smoke at the Scrap Heap Scramble.

Enthusiasm reached a pitch Thursday night as the junk yard cast-offs, decorated with garbage cans, gaudy paint, and girls, coughed their way up Union Drive to the Beardshear parking lot. The mass of cheering students streamed after the last car to a blazing bonfire for the pep rally.

No one minded the cold or the rough pavement as they danced to Howie Holst's music at the street dance after the pep rally. For more smooth music, and smoother dance floors, couples packed the ballroom of the Memorial Union Friday and Saturday nights to dance to the liquid sweetness of Billy May's orchestra.

Bar-b-que's and an evening of entertainment were on the menu for Friday night, as students jammed the stadium to hear Billy May's orchestra, the Iowa State Singers, the Iowa State Band and a host of individual acts.

Sorority and dormitory girls and an overgrown rope entertained in a new Homecoming feature, the Rope-tying contest. The Delta Delta Delta's won by tying six knots in the fat, cotton stuffed rope faster than all the other houses.

Cleaning up from The New Street Dance

Cy and Jody Dondore, Queen of Homecoming

Then came the announcement that everyone had been waiting for — Homecoming Queen Mary Jo Dondore and her attendants Gayle Anderson and Jane Grote were introduced.

The climax of long nights of late hour napkin-stuffing and painting came Saturday night when the winners of the residence decoration competition were announced. The elated first placers were Beta Theta Pi, Gamma Phi Beta, Elm Hall and Meeker House. Tau Kappa Epsilon, Chi Omega, Welch Hall and Stange House claimed second place honors.

Clear blue skies and a crisp nip in the air combined for perfect football weather Saturday, but no such fortune smiled on the Cyclones in their Homecoming game. Unaccustomed voices grew hoarse in the most spirited game of the season, but the Cyclones were edged by the Kansas State Wildcats in a 7–9 thriller climaxed by a 30 yard field goal by the Wildcats.

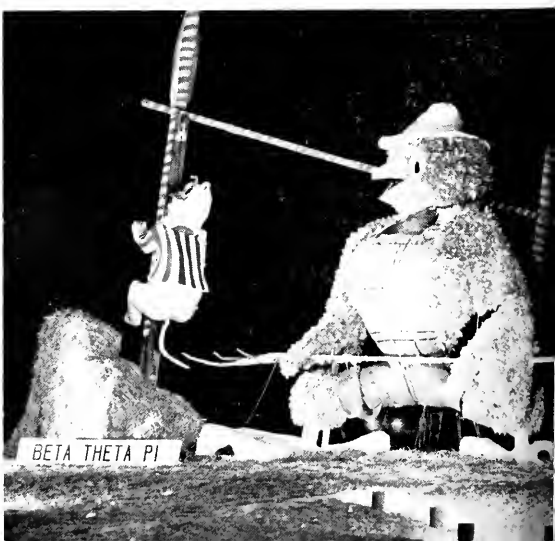

Color ran rampant throughout the game, in the marching band at half time and in the newly organized card section. This section of 1,400 students welcomed alumni back with colorful word and picture formations.

The pep rally bonfire is a tradition of Homecoming.

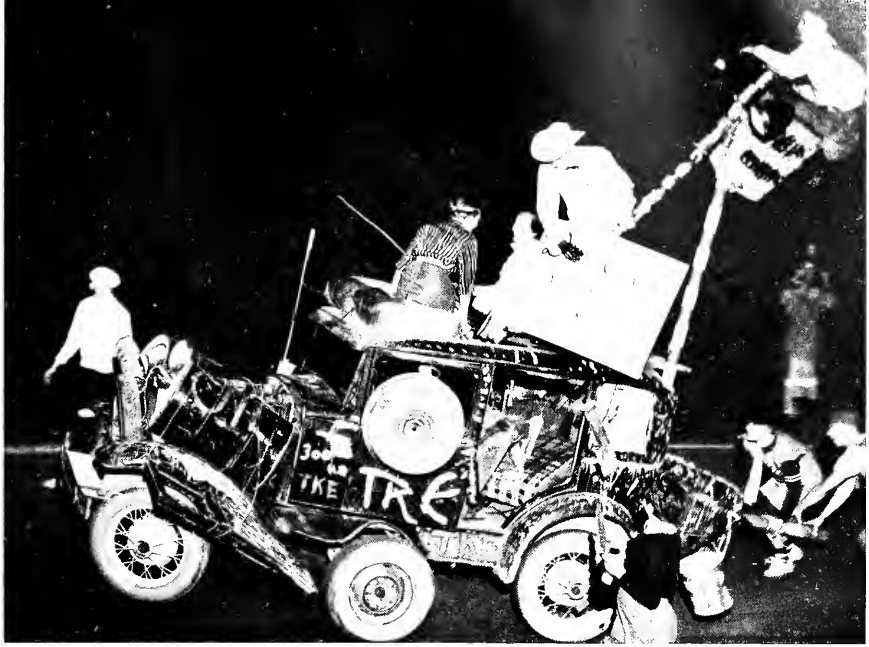

First place honors in the sorority Homecoming decorations division went to Gamma Phi Beta for their "K-State Crow Bait."

Beta Theta Pi won the trophy for their Homecoming lawn display titled "Cy Has a Heyday." Cy was 14 feet tall.

Tau Kappa Epsilon rode away with "Scrap Heap Scramble" honors when they put an extra set of wheels on an old Ford car.

The Tri-Delt quartet proved their prowess as they tied into Homecoming's newest feature contest and left with the "Knot-tying" title.

ALPHA DELTA PI . . .

AD Pi's Win Scholarship Award, Hold Formal Dance on Patio

Alpha Delta Pi girls soared to new scholastic heights last spring as they won the silver tray, a national award, for the most improvement in scholarship in the 83 ADPi chapters.

Combining social events with studies, the ADPi's had several social highlights of the year. The girls danced to the music of Armen Adams at their '55 spring formal which was held on their front patio. The theme was appropriately "May Dance" and was carried out by using daisies for the main decorations.

Fall quarter brought a combined hayride and fireside held at the Nevada Country Club. The hayride started the evening, and square dancing amidst fall leaves, corn shocks, and pumpkins at the country club served as the finale.

Ambitious pledges kept busy in December as they planned their pledge Christmas Fireside. The pledges planned the annual party and entertained the actives. All the girls gave their dates humerous gifts in rememberance of the evening.

Winter quarter saw ADPi's taking their dates to dinner at a night club and then going back to the house for a formal dance.

ADPi's celebrated Parents Day in their own traditional way. The football game with open house afterwards were part of the fun. A mother's party was held for the mothers while the girls had dates with their fathers. After hours the Dads were given full charge of the house while Mothers and daughter found their boarding elsewhere.

The girls were kept busy with an exciting year of studies, activities and social events.

Getting prettied up for a date is a serious business and a mirror and the advice of a sister both play an important part in the preparation.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

Alpha Gam's Take Second Place In '55 Veishea Float Contest

Veishea 1955 found the Alpha Gamma Delta girls the proud possessors of the second place trophy for their winning float.

Looking into the future, the Alpha Gams used as their theme "How Does Your Garden Grow?" with a mushroom resembling an atomic bomb cloud rising from a bed of flowers. An Alpha Gam active sat amidst them.

Talent at the chapter house isn't all tied up in float building as can be seen by the many house and individual activities performed by the members. Spring brought "Symphony to a Starry Night," the annual spring formal. A portable dance floor was layed in the backyard and lamp posts, benches, and candle-lit tables surrounded the floor.

A very special chorus line entertained at several campus functions including the Pep Jamboree, Veterinary Medicine Banquet, and the Delt Lucky Pierre party.

The Alpha Gam altruistic project this year was a campaign for cerebral palsy. A benefit card party was given for the alums to raise funds for the project.

If school and dates and everything get to be just too much, you can always close your eyes and catch a quick cat nap, as per example here.

Blome Chosen Queen of Queens, Lawn Display Wins Second Place

Royalty reigned in the Chi Omega house last spring when Marilyn Blome was chosen as 1955 Veishea Queen of Queens, an honor coveted by any Iowa State coed and residence.

Homecoming 1955 brought another honor to the Chi O's in the form of the second best display in the sorority division. Papa covered the entire front of the house and in his hands he held a huge pizza pie with wildcats mixed in. The theme: "Let's Cut K-State In Pizza's."

Harvest Heyday has turned into an annual event with the actives playing hostess one year and the pledges the next. The informal fireside featured humorous skits and refreshments.

Finals are in everybody's mind, but no play is a bad thing. The Chi O's pick this time of the year to hold their winter formal. "Carnation Christmas" revolved around the sorority's flower and a carnation Christmas tree was the main decoration. To complete the holiday air, pine boughs and white carnations were tied together and placed on the walls.

One of the Chi O's special projects is supporting a war orphan from Korea. The 12-year-old girl, whose name is Chung Kab Jo, receives monthly allowances from the chapter and writes occasionally to the women.

At Christmas time, they sponsor a party for children of alums. Santa Claus is a special guest and his bag contains popcorn balls and candy canes. Needless to say the Chi O's are just as thrilled as their guests.

Off to class, bundled up for the cold Iowa winters, or perhaps it's the library they are going to visit.

$50,000 Addition Provides Eight New Tri-Delt Rooms

While other campus residences were hunting all over the countryside for a place to expand, Delta Delta Delta turned its backyard into a $50,000 addition. The eight added rooms include a recreation room and a utility room. The rec room was open for the Tri Delt's house formal in December and the rest of the building was ready for occupancy winter quarter. A modern scheme is present in colors, furnishing, a fireplace the length of one wall, and a huge delta in the ceiling that may be lighted.

Secret Pal week came along winter quarter just a week before Valentine's Day. During the week, 'pals' shined shoes, did laundry and bought crazy gifts. On Valentine's Day, everyone revealed their identity.

The presentation of the Delta Delta Delta Scholarship award is peculiar in that for all the years it has been given, the receiver has never been a member of the sorority. Persons are judged on need, scholastic record, and leadership.

Fall quarter found the Tri-Delts sharing two events with other Greek houses. The Phi Gam-Tri Delt football classic was held for the second time with the women securing the victory. Each house had a cheering squad and a pep band. Dinner was served at the Phi Gam house following the event.

At Christmas time, a Kappa Sig man dressed as Santa Claus, and the Tri-Delts and Kappa Sigs entertained orphans from the Ames area. Every child received a gift and was a guest at dinner.

Spring Buffet is an annual dinner held at the chapter house. The meal was served in the sunken garden and after feasting on shrimp, ham, chicken and many other dishes, couples watched television, played bridge, or attended a movie.

DELTA ZETA . . .

Jitterbugging DZ's Take First In All-College Fall Contest

The aroma of Italian spaghetti and meat balls, floated around the small Italian cafe located in the Delta Zeta house. Their annual "Pasquele's Party" featured an Italian motif with red checked table cloths, candles in multicolored wax-dripped bottles, and Italian menus.

The Delta Zetas started the year off properly with a "first" trophy. Toni Miley and her partner won the first annual All-College Jitterbug Contest.

Still another form of dancing found the Delta Zetas and their guests under pink and lilac clouds watching the "Shadows in Violet" at their annual spring formal. Lilac curtains with spring flower tie-backs and a white trellis and garden bench lended the "spring fever" touch to the dance.

Spring quarter also featured a convocation of all the Delta Zeta chapters in Iowa. DZ sisters from the University of Iowa and Drake University spent the day at Iowa State College attending State Day.

The Delta Zetas competed in Sor-Dor spring quarter by singing "Great Mother Heart of Delta Z," "Why Was I Born," and "Iowa State Marching Song." Attired in white formals, blue stoles, and silver crowns the DZ's won second place in the sorority division.

Outstanding in extra-curricular activities, many of the girls held high positions on Homecoming, Veishea, and publications.

Stan Kenton is popular with these Delta Zeta women, as witness this record player scene. Yes, there's some Kostelanetz on the floor, waiting.

GAMMA PHI BETA . . .

Social, Cultural Contributions Made by Gamma Phi Beta

During the Christmas holidays, the house at 318 Pearson Street was the scene of much activity. December 10 was the big day for the Christmas formal. The highlight of the dance was the visit from Santa Claus who brought all sorts of toys and gifts for the boys from their dates. Later these toys were donated to the Lutheran Children's Home. Besides having fun themselves, the girls also brought good cheer and happiness to others less fortunate when they serenaded the shut-ins in Ames.

As far as collecting a few trophies was concerned, the Gamma Phi's did pretty well during the past year. Both in sports and in music they came out on top. The Chuck Sohn Memorial Trophy was awarded to the girls for winning first place in the Sor-Dor Sing. They also won first place in the WAA volleyball and swimming tournaments.

The Gamma Phi's not only worked together during the school year but also during the summer months through their special projects. The girls sponsored two campus for underprivileged girls. One was held in Colorado, while the other one was in Vancouver, British Columbia.

The Gamma Phi pledges also took active part in many social festivities. The first event of the year was the Sigma Chi Watermelon Bust. It seemed, however, that this years pledges weren't able to stretch their arms far enough to hold on to their last year's title of Miss Watermelon Bust. Another pledge project was the Fireside they gave in November. Each girl and her date created a costume that would suggest the name of a record, and a prize was awarded to the best dressed couple.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Actives Win "Powder Bowl" Receive Varieties Skit Trophy

With the start of another year the Theta house was again buzzing with activity. The revival of the Phi Delt "Powder Bowl" saw many enthusiastic pledges practicing football.

Their efforts paid off as they won the three games scheduled thus giving the actives a chance to try their luck at beating the Alpha Gam's. The Sunday after the game the two finalists were given a dinner in their honor and a trophy was presented to the lucky winner.

Fall quarter also saw the Theta's busy at work on their Homecoming decoration. The girls built a 3-D cat representing the Kansas Tiger and next to it they put a large clock with the motto "Time to Put the Cat Out." Besides decorations, the girls showed their skill in the rope-tying contest and the Theta sextet sang at the "Pigskin Prevue."

"Spooky" things were in the air as the Theta's crawled through their basement window with their dates for the Halloween fireside. Each couple went through the "Spook House" and then proceeded upstairs where there were dancing, games, cider and doughnuts to help pass the evening.

The Theta's certainly held their own when it came to winning trophies. The pledges of the 1955 class won the scholarship trophy while the actives were proud to claim Sally Brunn when she was elected president of Mortar Board. The girls also came out on top with their Varieties Skit and won a trophy for it.

Other social events of the year included exchanges, entertainment of foreign students, the annual spring formal, and many fun-filled picnics and parties in the spring.

Theta's groceries sometimes never get even as far as the refrigerator before being raided. They were caught here by the camera of a sister.

KD's Entertain Dates Royally— Pledges Take Second in Grades

The Kappa Delta's have certainly put their two-level terrace to good use in the past few years it has been built. During the spring and early fall the KD's have found it a wonderful place to relax. And what a setting for a party!

Japanese lanterns, basket chairs, and huge leis of real flowers provided atmosphere for the KD's Hawaiian party which was held on the terrace. Pineapple punch and shrimp were served and records provided music for dancing.

The sorority flower served as the theme for another Kappa Delta function — the White Rose formal. A garden of roses was the main decoration and the KD's dates were given stud boxes with the sorority crest on them for favors.

Acacia won the annual spring baseball game and the KD pledges walked away with second place honors in pledge scholarship competition. And Lambda Chi Alpha members shared the fun at the joint Christmas party.

Kappa's Win Canoe Races: Begin Spring Retreat Tradition

Kappa Kappa Gamma never had a happier, more bedraggled group of girls than the winners of last spring's Veishea canoe races. The fun and the award made the effort seem worthwhile; Lake LaVerne never had it so good.

The Spring Retreat, a new annual event, had its origin last spring. After all the plans were made, the members took off for a weekend at the 4-H Camp at Boone. There they spent their time relaxing, singing, and forgetting studies.

The fall fireside introduced a hilarious scavenger hunt; the evening ended by roasting delicious kabobs in the fireplace at an Ames home. Then, in winter quarter, the Kappa pledges gave a formal dinner dance at the Hotel Sheldon-Munn. Spring brought about a delicious steak fry, complete with all the trimmings.

The 44 Kappa's have as their housemother Mrs. Mary Hayinga, and their president is Nancy Calvin. This year the KKG's, whose flower is the fleur de lis, had 20 pledges.

Each year, at Christmas time, the girls busy themselves with plans for the annual party for needy children. This year, however, they sponsored a hot lunch program for a family of unfortunate children.

PI BETA PHI . . .

First Place Veishea Float, Spring Formal Highlight Year

The Pi Beta Phi arrow really soared this year into Veishea. They hit first place in the sorority float division with their float entitled "Their Finest Hour" featuring the flags of the different countries in the world.

Pi Phi's and their dates tip-toed through the tulips at "Tulip Time," their spring formal. Arlen Anderson's band set the mood for dancing with a Dutch windmill, a false ceiling of multi-colored paper and Dutch shoes filled with flowers for decorations.

The children from the Lutheran Children's Home were entertained at a Easter Party by the Pi Phi's and Delta Sigma Phi's.

In honor of their new housemother, Mrs. Gertrude Reed, the Pi Phi's gave a tea at the chapter house. The purpose of the tea was to introduce her to Iowa State College and give her an opportunity to meet the other housemothers on campus.

The Pi Phi's gave their house over to their fathers on Parents' Weekend during fall quarter and to the mothers during spring quarter. The parents were royally entertained by their daughters and were exposed to sorority life for a week-end.

Party decorations and studies don't bother this sleeper a bit. She finds the modern furniture quite comfortable.

SK's Redecorate, Treat Parents. Sponsor Sigma Snowland

The SK's had their calendar full. Last fall the girls held a house-warming party to celebrate the redecoration of their recreation rooms. There were several additions, including a mural of the campanile and the Union fountain which was painted by one of the Dads. Spudnuts were served on canes and the cider was served from jugs.

Open house was held after the Homecoming game for parents and guests. Then, on Halloween Eve, record titles were used as a basis for the costume fireside.

In November, the Sigma Kappa's held a buffet supper, honoring their parents. The SK trio sang songs from "Oklahoma." Later, eight girls flew to Kansas City for the Province Conference and the celebration of Founder's Day.

Christmas brought about a gala celebration. A tree trimming fireside was spent in decorating a 16-foot tree with strings of cranberries, popcorn, lights, and tinsel. A little later, they sponsored Sigma Snowland, a buffet dinner followed by a dance. During this season, too, they serenaded several old folks' homes with carols.

"Legend in Lavendar," the spring formal officially welcomed spring. Decorations included a lily pond and a wishing well.

ACACIA . . .

Hard Work Earns Rewards—
Stage Yuletide, Spring Parties

Under the leadership of Richard Kerr, the Acacia's had a busy year. Their annual fall trip to the Eastern Star Home was work and plenty of it, but after those windows were sparkling clean and the storm windows were in place, good appetites took care of the meal which they earned.

Time out for sports! It must have been worthwhile time, because the Acacia house is possessor of the Class C ping pong trophy. A lot of fun and inflated egos resulted from the Acacia's winning the softball game from Kappa Delta.

Pleasant changes in the schedule — a dinner exchange with Freeman Hall and dance exchanges with Elm Hall and Westgate.

The yuletide spirit reigned at the Christmas party for underpriviliged. Several children were invited to 142 Gray for dinner. Then, while sitting around the decorated Christmas tree, Santa Claus paid his long anticipated visit to the group. Also adding to the season's spirit was the caroling exchange with Pi Beta Phi.

As is custom with the Acacia's, the annual Sweethearts' Ball was held in February and the Spring Formal in May. With their favors of attractive little blue and white leather purses, dates left the Sheldon-Munn Hotel and the wonderful dance music to take girls back to dorms and sororities with memories of the evening.

Decorating for the Acacia Sweetheart's Ball combines pleasant good fellowship as everyone does their part.

ADELANTE . . .

The Scholars of Adelante Win '55 Improvement Trophy

Adelante received the Scholarship Improvement Trophy for 1955. This trophy is awarded to the residence which has shown the greatest improvement in scholarship over a year's time.

Of the 30 fraternities on the Iowa State campus, many of which were at one time locals, Adelante is the only local remaining. The house is run entirely by its own laws and every decision is made by the chapter itself.

"Artistry in April" was the theme for the Adelante's spring formal held at the Ames Country Club. A black backdrop provided the background for glittery silver letters and musical notes. Royal blue and lemon yellow streamers completed the decorations. Yellow and brown panda bears were given as favors.

Entertainment for the evening was highlighted by the crowning of the Lady of Adelante and singing by the Adelante chorus which received honorable mention in Sinfonia.

Christmas found the Adelantes entertaining children from the Wilson Elementary School. The house was decorated with appropriate Christmas trimmings. The program consisted of a surprise visit from Santa Claus, who had gifts for all.

Fraternity scrap books lend continuity to a constantly changing flow of members. And they are pretty good for laughs, as well.

Fraternity Fills Busy Schedule With Events, Parties, Sports

No, not dancing, but just bending an ear to the music while the Electrical Engineers criticize the tonal quality of the player.

Homecoming and Veishea 1955 proved to be busy times for the Alpha Chi Rho's. And in between the two, parties and sports filled the calendar.

"The Flying Cloud" rambled down the street during the Scrap-Heap Scramble. The car, a 1929 Reo, gave the "Crows" a wonderful opportunity to use their decorative imagination. Also during Homecoming, may alums returned and the Phi Tau chapter honored them at a barbeque.

Veishea found the men hard at work on their float "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" which was centered around the book "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

A Paris skyline with the Eiffel Tower in the background set the mood for "April in Paris," the "Crows" spring formal. To complete the romantic theme created by the title, each girl was given a stuffed French poodle.

The Crow Combo provided music and entertainment at several parties. In sports, the Alpha Chi Rho's placed the bowling trophy in their trophy case.

ALPHA GAMMA RHO . . .

The pink rose, flower of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity, inspired the Pink Rose winter formal held in February. The Eight Sharps played music in the house's "beautiful ballroom," and the members presented their dates with sea blue jewel boxes, topped with the fraternity crest.

The AGR's worked hard all year long. They not only helped with such things as the Little International, Veishea open houses, and the Veishea Horse Show, but also managed to be among the top scholastically. Last year they placed a close second in spring quarter grade averages.

Saddles, straw bales, and antique guns filled the house's living and dining rooms with a tangy western flavor. These decorations and the Velvetones completed the setting for their Farmers' Ball.

Competition mixed with rivalry offers fun in any sense, and the AGR's and ATO's find this so. An annual spring softball game determines the holder of a brown ironstone jug for the coming year. The winners' names are painted on the jug and it is put on the mantle of that house. The losers sponsor an "Ice Cream Social" and during the year try to retrieve the jug for their own.

A Homecoming Dance is held every fall, and an alumni reception each spring. AGR's participate in eight exchanges every quarter, including dinners, dances, football games, picnics, and hay-rides.

Gerald Cornelius is president of the AGR's, and Mrs. Robert Dahlberg is housemother to the 46 actives and 18 pledges.

ALPHA SIGMA PHI . . .

Greek Week Trophy Winners Score on Relays, Skits, Dance

Two years have gone by since the reactivation of the Phi chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi on the Iowa State campus. But it hasn't taken the house long to start building up their trophy supply.

Greek Week 1955 honors were scored in all phases by the Alph Sig's and in the end, they became the proud possessors of the huge Greek Week trophy. Points were accumulated through active participation in relays, exchanges, skits, and the dance.

Intramurals brought two more filled places on the trophy shelves when the Alpha Sig's won the Class B Bowling and Class D Volleyball Championships.

The Family Picnic was held at the chapter house spring quarter. Over 75 parents and chapter members were present to see the program on the year's activities as shown by slides.

"April Enchantment" was held at the Ames Country Club during spring quarter. The club was decorated in cardinal and stone grey with small candles on the tables surrounding the dance floor providing the light. Alpha Sig's dates wore identical orchid corsages and were given small gold perfume bottles with the chapter crest as favors.

Veishea found the Alpha Sig's hard at work on their float which portrayed "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." During the annual Help Week, the group worked at one of the community churches.

"Delilah," prettied, painted, and mighty crowded. An entry in the Scrap Heap Scramble, just before homecoming.

ATO

ALPHA TAU OMEGA . . .

Boasts Seven 'I' Club Members, Sinfonia Contest Winners

Talent-plus was exhibited in the annual men's residence singing contest spring quarter, as the ATO's won first place in Sinfonia.

"Silhouettes in Snow" covered the chapter house for the ATO winter formal. Various winter scenes decorated the walls and favors for the party were small "Cys."

The men of ATO were active in ISC sports with seven members in "I" Club and Chuck Duncan as Athlete of the Year. They were also well represented in campus honoraries with actives in Cardinal Key, Knights of St. Patrick, Tau Beta Pi, Phi Eta Sigma, Scabbard and Blade, and Sextant.

The Iowa State and Drake ATO chapters held a joint formal during spring quarter in Des Moines. Favors for the formal were grey poodle dogs.

The two chapters later worked together on another project — spring quarter clean-up of the Boone Y-Camp. A day was devoted to painting, raking leaves, and improving the camp.

Country Club Dinner Dance Among Many Social Activities

The fall social swirl started early for the Beta Sigma Psi's last fall quarter. Since so many parties and other events are going on later, the Beta Sigs planned their social events so that they wouldn't conflict with any other residence.

A hayride started things off in the early part of October. After the ride, the Beta Sigs and their dates returned to the chapter house for refreshments and entertainment.

Mid-November brought the annual fall dinner dance held at the Boone Country Club. "Autumn Leaves" was the theme. A huge multi-colored leaf decorated one wall and reflected from its glitter-covered form. Tables surrounded the dance floor and on each one was a brown and an orange cut-out leaf decorating the white-clothed tables.

Children from the Lutheran's Children Home were guests of the Beta Sigs at Christmas time. The children received gifts and a visit from Santa Claus.

The annual Gold Rose formal came in May. In a setting of trellis-work entwined with gold roses, the "Sweetheart of Beta Sigma Psi" was presented with a bouquet of the fraternity flower. Crested cuff links were favors.

Raiding the refrigerator is a popular pasttime. Apples, cheese – anything available disappears inside hungry, studying students.

Beta's Win Homecoming First With Cardinal Lawn Decoration

The Beta's added another Homecoming trophy to their showcase by winning first in the Homecoming decorations this year. Their display, complete with sound effects, featured a huge Cardinal running a wildcat up a goal post with a pitch fork.

Fall quarter featured the Miami Triad dance with Buddy Moreno's band in Great Hall. This celebrated the founding of Beta Theta Pi, Phi Delta Theta, and Sigma Chi fraternities.

The annual Beta Bar-B-Q was held following the Nebraska-Iowa State game. Two 40-pound roast pigs, with apples in their mouths, were on the menu. Beta alums met all the new pledges at the affair, and dancing at the chapter house completed the party.

The Beta's Variety skit, "Showboat," was chosen as one of the top four given during winter quarter, and was presented in the Veishea Vodvil production.

Outstanding talent in the Beta group was the Beta Quartet, composed of Jim Freshwaters, Scott Smith, Rich Baldwin, and Dan Larsen. They sang for many of the exchanges and firesides held during the year.

DELTA CHI

Pledges Use South Sea Island Theme for Delta Chi Party

The social side of college life is an important one to the Delta Chi's. Parties ranged from formals to the South Seas to hayrides. Variety is the spice of life and each Delta Chi party is a speciality.

"Street of Dreams" took couples past lamp posts in front of the chapter house and into the house decorated with benches, a winding street, and lamp posts drawn on a backdrop.

To change the mood, the pledges held a South Sea Island party. Delta Chi's and their dates dressed in tropical attire and were entertained in a setting of palm trees, sand, and grass huts.

Hotel Holtz in Boone was the scene for the annual fall dinner-dance. And the winter formal featured large stuffed pandas as favors.

When Delta Chi first appeared on campus, it was called the Hau-Ki Club. It became national in 1923 and in 1933 Sigma Sigma, a campus local, was merged with the national fraternity.

Pictures are a pleasant break from small-type textbook problems and homework, particularly if they are pictures of pretty girls.

DELTA SIGMA PHI

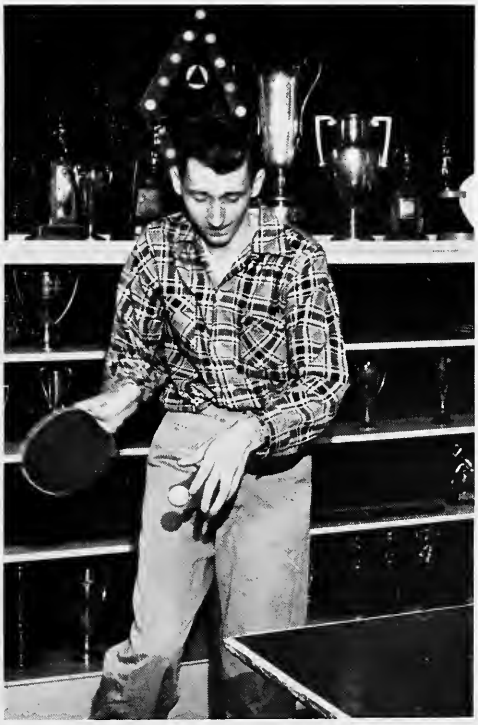

Veishea proved to be a prize winning time for Delta Sigma Phi. The big moment came when the men were awarded second place in the men's fraternity division for their 1955 Veishea float "Diving Deep for Knowledge."

The annual Apache Dance at the chapter house featured a "Frenchy" atmosphere. Berets, high heels, cigarette holders, and long strands of beads were accessories to the usual French costume. Favors for the dance were garters which were worn by the Delta Sig dates at a required distance above the knee.

During winter quarter, all the sailors dragged out their dress representing all sorts of world-wide ports and other nautical terms. The Delta Sig's also entertained at a sock hop, a record dance, and a hayrack ride.

The Pi Beta Phi's, next-door-neighbors, joined with the Delta Sig's to give an Easter party for the children from the Lutheran Home. It featured an Easter egg hunt and prizes for everyone.

'55 Veishea Float Trophy Won By Delt's Rip Van Winkle

Rip Van Winkle really helped Delta Tau Delta by waking up just in time to be the main figure of the Delt's 1955 Veishea float. He also brought the house the first trophy in the fraternity division. Real mechanics worked on Rip to make his head move and his mouth yawn to carry out the theme "Awakening to Education."

Veishea Canoe Races featured a new prize — the entrants with the best costumes. Representing the Baltimore Orioles, the Delt team dressed in beaks, chicken feathers stuck on with molasses, red tails, paper wings, and stuffed gloves for feet. And they took the three minature canoe paddles as their prize.

The Hawaiian Islands played an important part in the Delt's Orchid Formal winter quarter. Each date was presented with an orchid flown from the Islands. During the evening, the Delta Queen was crowned and serenaded by the Delta Glee Club.

Christmas is a time for Santa Claus and gifts and the Delt's and Kappa Kappa Gamma's do their best to make Christmas real for underprivileged children. The two residences play host and hostess to many such children, giving them gifts and fun for Christmas.

DELTA UPSILON

'Young Man's Fancy' Is Theme For DU's Spring Formal

Black and white clouds hanging from the ceiling — couples dancing to the music of Ellsworth Brown — the silhouette of a couple dancing in the moonlight — this was "Young Man's Fancy," Delta Upsilon's spring formal.

The DU's of 117 Ash keep themselves quite busy. They finished third in intramurals spring quarter and won the team trophy for golf. Also, during spring of '55, they were one of the eight Sinfonia finalists and finished eighth in scholarship among the fraternities. Their work project during Greek Week was to clean the Bethesda Lutheran Church and its surrounding property.

But it's not all work and no play for the DU's. They had picnic and dance exchanges with sororities both at ISC and Drake. Early in May, the DU's and TEKE's took their dates to McFarland's Lake for an all-day picnic. The day was spent swimming, canoeing, and eating.

To add beauty to the Veishea parade, the DU's built a massive knight in shiny armor mounted upon a black stallion. This float was named 4th place winner among the fraternities. For Homecoming, they again pooled their talents, and came up with a six-foot replica of Cy, the Cardinal, poised with an immense rawhide mallet over the head of a frightened wild cat.

FARMHOUSE

All-College Scholarship Trophy Remains in FarmHouse Hands

An almost permanent fixture to the FarmHouse mantle is the All-College Scholarship Trophy which was awarded to the fraternity last year after it retained the highest college grade point for three consecutive quarters.

Scholarship may have tended to dominate the scene but there was still time for many social events such as the annual Farmer's Frolic which this year featured "Brass Knuckle Inn." Couples had to whisper the password before passing under a flashing sign, announcing the name of the Inn, and through the peek-hole door.

Once inside the underworld took over and couples dressed in styles of the Roarin' 20's were entertained at the Pistol Playhouse production of "Slaughter on Ash Avenue." They danced under blue lights in the Knotty Naughty Room, and visited the Tommy Gun Tavern and Dillinger's Hideout. Favors were stuffed raccoons.

"Spring Silhouettes," the spring formal, was held at the Ames Country Club. A color wheel lighting a black velvet backdrop changed a silhouette of a dancing couple into a rainbow of color. The annual Steak Fry at the Ledges was a bright spot in May.

FarmHouse alums and members' parents were frequent guests at the house. The first planned Parents' Day was attended by over 100 parents who brought home-cooked food and were taken on an extensive tour of the house. Spring quarter all alums living in the Ames vicinity were entertained at the annual Alumni Picnic.

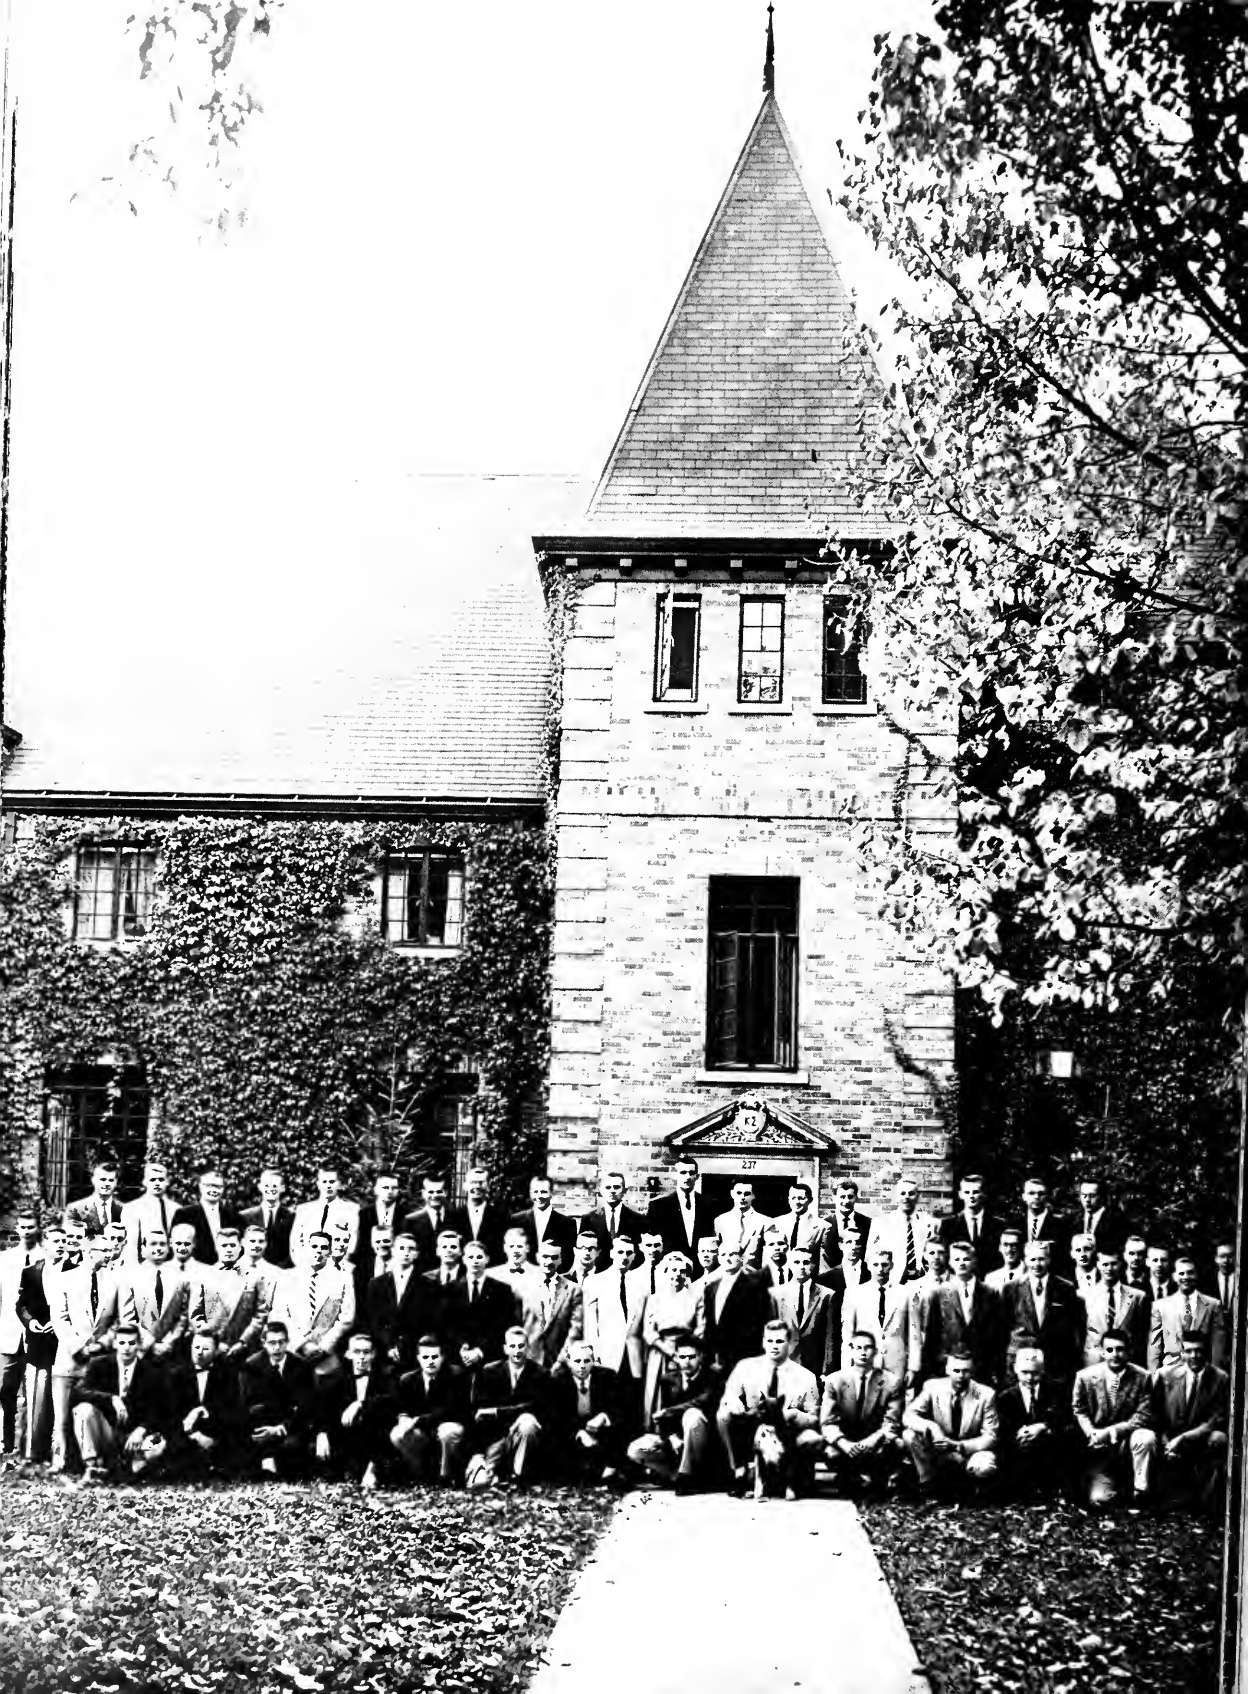

Calling for a date or not, phone numbers are handy at FarmHouse.

KAPPA SIGMA . . .

Study Rooms Refurnished With Matching Desks, Chairs

Members of Kappa Sigma found it hard to recognize their college home when they returned to school last fall. Study rooms were completely refinished with matching desks, chairs and bookcases to brighten the rooms. Completely built-in wardrobes and dresser drawers were the additions to the top two floors. Kappa Sig mothers were kept busy making curtains to go along with the other improvements. A ladies powder room was built in the basement.

Once again Kappa Sig's scored with their annual fall western party, the Kappa Sigma Bar-Nothing Ranch. An 8-ft. corral, bales of straw, and a sawdust floor provided a real western atmosphere. The girls wore western attire and received the Kappa Sig brand on their legs.

The Christmas season brought the annual Christmas party for children of the Lutheran Childrens Home. Kappa Sig's combined forces with the Tri Delt's, turning their basement into an amusement park. Santa Claus visited with presents for all the orphans.

Spring quarter Kappa Sig's entertained their parents at the Parents' Picnic. Home-cooked food was the main interest of the day, with relaxation and singing later.

The Kappa Sig's proved their musical ability by placing second in the annual Sinfonia Sing.

The traditional Black and White formal was held during winter quarter with black and white carried out in decorations and favors.

Purebred Dalmation Mascot

Gift of Graduating Seniors

The Lambda Chi's canoe team placed a close third in the 1955 Veishea races. Dressed in a facsimile of baseball uniforms, the team was nosed out in the grand finale by the Kappa Klubs.

After the excitement of Veishea, the Lambda Chi's held their annual White Rose formal. Howie Holst entertained the couples at the Boone Legion Club which was decorated with a huge crescent backdrop to resemble the fraternity's badge. White roses, the Lambda Chi flower, was also used for decorative purposes.

During the evening, the Lambda Chi Alpha Crescent Girl was presented. The seniors surprised the undergraduate members by presenting them with a new mascot named Cy. Not a cardinal, but a purebred Dalmation.

Fall quarter, the members entertained dates and alumni at various social functions. A hayride opened the fall festivities, followed by an alumni dance in October. The Blue Room party took place at the Ames Country Club.

As its theme this year, the Blue Room became an underworld speakeasy. The "dolls" and "hoods" donned their Prohibition-styled clothes and using fake money, gambled at dice, roulette, and black-jack.

The annual Kappa Kappa Gamma-Lambda Chi Alpha Christmas party for 100 underprivileged children is the highlight of the Christmas season. Children from surrounding communities are entertained at one of the chapter houses.

Veishea Sweepstakes Trophy, Harvard Trophy Year's Wins

The biggest trophy given at Iowa State was added to the Phi Delta Theta trophy case last Veishea when the Veishea Sweepstakes Trophy was awarded after the fabulous Phi Delt float was chosen the top display in the Veishea parade. It featured Mother Goose leading the way with many of her storybook characters trailing behind, all moving and complete with sound.

For the sixth time, the Iowa Gamma chapter was presented the Harvard Trophy, a national award given to the best all-around Phi Delt chapter in scholarship, campus activities, house activities, athletics, and individual accomplishments. The trophy, which has been given annually since 1925, was presented by an official of National Phi Delta Theta headquarters.

The Miami Triad is an annual celebration sponsored by the Phi Delt's, Sigma Chi's, and Beta's to commemorate the founding of the three fraternities on the campus of Miami University at Oxford, Ohio. A pledge fireside, a picnic, and a dance in the Combined Ballrooms of the Memorial Union were highlights of the Triad weekend.

Phi Delt's changed the name of their bowl game this year to the Powder Bowl, formerly the Toil-ette Bowl. Play-offs were done by the 11 sorority pledge classes with the Alpha Gam's and Theta's coming out on top. The finals were held the following week and the honors went to the Kappa Alpha Theta's. Half-time activities featured the outstanding performance of the Phi Delt Marching Band and timely stunts by the Powder Bowl card section.

The house took second place in the all-college intramural program.

Service to school and fraternity again brought the Phi Delt's the fraternities top national award — the Harvard cup.

FIJI

PHI GAMMA DELTA . . .

It would appear to the casual observer that privacy is rather limited here.

Firesides, Picnics, Exchanges Highlight Their Busy Year

Veishea 1955 brought a place in Vodvil for the members of Phi Gamma Delta. Their beautiful signing and narration of "Design in Retrospect" put a new kind of talent into the Variety Show. In presenting the act, a Phi Gam was gilded and placed in front of the chorus to represent "the stylized man."

Always look to the Fiji's for the unusual as last fall quarter proved. Their fall formal was "Fiji Safari" and the Phi Gam's surprised their dates with tiger heads mounted on wooden shields as favors.

Fall quarter was filled with picnics, firesides, and exchanges. One of the highlights of the quarter was the house tea. Guests included residence directors, division heads, and faculty members.

A close brother-sister relationship finds the Theta's and Fiji's entertaining each other at their annual winter party. The Jeff Hop, another strong house tradition, is shared with members of Phi Kappa Psi.

The classic of all Phi Gam chapters is the nation-wide Grass Skirt. Members dressed in grass skirts and leis serenaded women's residences and delivered real bones, inscribed with the date and tied with colorful ribbons, to the girls. The fellows also supplied their dates with grass skirts.

Ellsworth Brown and his band played appropriate music for the South Sea atmosphere. Loud shirts, the swish of grass skirts, and beautiful orchid leis completed the picture.

Pledges Regain Football Keg: Parties Highlight Fall

The rivalry between the Phi Kap pledges and the Sig Ep pledges sparked high last fall when a football game determined the holders of the small keg which the two exchange each year. The contest is strictly for pledges and although the Sig Ep's fought hard this year, the Phi Kap's regained it for their mantle.

Fall also found the Phi Kap's entertaining their dates at two parties. The annual Friday night "Fisheaters' Brawl" brought out all the sailor suits and flashy beachcomber outfits. The couples feasted on fish sticks and French fried shrimp and danced to the music of the Phi Kappa Combo. The house was decorated in a waterfront motif with fish hanging from the ceilings, nets draped on the walls, and undersea murals painted on mirrors.

The pledges held a western party the same quarter. Couples wore costumes "straight from the old west" and had a wonderful evening's entertainment in the old western hotel.

The Pirates' Ball during winter quarter transformed the house into a cave for the gaily costumed gentlemen and lady pirates. The skull and cross bones entrance blinked its red eyes at the couples as they entered.

PHI KAPPA PSI . . .

Phi Psi's Win Vodvil Trophy, Intramural Championship

Actors and athletes collected on their talents as the Phi Psi's won the 1955 Veishea Vodvil trophy and the Fraternity Intramural Championship. This latter win was the fifth in six years.

The favors from the Moulin Rouge costume party in May won't be forgotten for some time. They were shorty pajamas. The theme, of course, was French, and the music was provided by the band of Ellsworth Brown.

Earlier, the Phi Psi's and Phi Gam's celebrated the founding of brother fraternities at Jefferson College. This event was the Jeff Hop.

In October came the Sportsman's Dance, a casual informal party. Sweaters were considered the proper attire. Again Ellsworth Brown played; this time the favors were mugs.

Mrs. Katherine Thul, the housemother, added news of more activity. The newly-organized Mother's Club has already undertaken several projects. One of these was supplying every room in the house with new drapes.

Somehow, members even found time to build a volleyball and basketball court in their back yard.

The Phi Kappa Psi's at 316 Lynn Avenue, have a membership of 54 actives and 16 pledges this year. They are one of 59 national chapters, and were organized on the Iowa State campus in 1913.

1st row: Hubly, Vance, Horgen, Allison, Swanson, Foster, Thornberg, Hoffman, Huff, Schrimper, Dillingham, Rasmussen. 2nd row: Short, Lomax, Friske, Winter, Bertell, Anthony, Bower, Stewart, Randell, Gates. 3rd row: Flohr, Sweeney, Paulsen, Woito, Porter, Northweler, Mrs. Kathryn Thul, Gillen (Pres.), Kruger, Blinn, Knop. 4th row: Sackett, DeLurvea, Snesrud, Meyer, Wieck, Berrie (Corr. Homecoming lawn display preparations carried through into the night as the Phi Psi's worked against deadline rules.

Sponsor "Halloween Howl", Jam Sessions, Prison Riot.

Enter — through the third floor fire escape. It's the annual Halloween Howl. The costumed guests were "spookily" welcomed and could escape only through the hall of terrors. A bronze plaque was awarded to the best costumed couple.

The Phi Tau's flower, the red carnation, inspired the decorations for their winter formal, Phi Tau Fantasy. The Sheldon-Munn Hotel was the scene; the band was the 8 Sharps. Favors for the evening were Phi Tau sterling bracelets.

Help! It's a prison riot party. Girls were picked up by plainclothes men, booked at the house, and footprinted. Their dates bailed them out for an evening of fun. Each girl wore a ball and chain around her wrist or ankle. Favors came in handy — a loaf of bread with a hacksaw blade within. And when the lie detector blew up, the defendent was found guilty.

Homecoming brought out the talent for work on a float, and their version of a Scrap Heap.

Beside the usual serenades, the informal combo had jam sessions. Long winter's evenings were shortened by concerts by Steve and his guitar and Rocky at the piano.

During winter quarter, Mother Maude Evens prepares hot cocoa for the Phi Tau's at 10 o'clock each night. At Christmas, they entertain orphans from the Lutheran Home.

That before dinner break fills nicely with a bit of piano. No sheet music is needed for this — just a familiar keyboard and familiar faces.

Honor Alums at Homecoming: Crown Dream Girl in Spring

"Welcome, Alums," flashed as part of the Pi K A's Homecoming decoration's huge card section. Over 250 alums and their families were entertained at a dance at the Sheldon-Munn Hotel and at a buffet dinner at the chapter house over the weekend.

A tea for Pi K A housemother, Mrs. Bess Jones, was a fall highlight. Members of all residence groups on campus and many Ames residents attended.

Cold weather had no effect on members and their dates who dressed in grass skirts and summer sportswear for the Hawaiian Party. Real orchids, flown from Hawaii, gave the annual party a real touch of Hawaiian atmosphere. A prize was awarded for the best grass skirt.

Pinmates of Pi Kappa Alpha members were candidates for "Dream Girl of Pi K A." Miss Jane Rylander, 1955 Dream Girl, was presented with a loving cup as a remembrance of the spring formal.

The annual fall pledge barbecue found members and their dates roasting steaks over open fires.

Pi K A musical talent ran high as members played in the college band and orchestra, a local band, and formed their own house combo.

Champion Pie-Eaters of Pi Kappa Phi. These three won a fitting prize — a bronze pie plate. They are Duda, Burkett, and Hester.

The winners! Pi Kapp's became champs of the Pie Eating Contest held at Brookside between the Phi Kapp's, Pi K A's, and the Pi Phi's.

After recovering from that fete, the Pi Kapp's presented their annual Rose Ball. Held in Boone at Hotel Holst, music was provided by Carl Nebbe's Band. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of Connie King as Rose Ball Queen. The favors were poodle dogs.

In October a fireside called the "Pi Kapp Roundup" was held. The western atmosphere was complete with straw bales, branding corner, and western refreshments. All present wore western costumes.

The Pi Kapp's float won third place in the Fraternity Veishea Float Division. They also took the Fraternity Wrestling and Class B Softball Championships, and were one of the top five Varieties Skits.

It's easy to see that the 33 actives and 20 pledges of Pi Kappa Phi were busy. Probably the busiest of these is President Jack C. Devitt. These men form one of 49 national chapters. They were organized on campus in 1929 and reside at 407 Welch. Mrs. Ruth Cowles is their housemother.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON . . .

Treat Dates to Train Ride, Win Outstanding Chapter Award

Sig Alph's and their dates, who were attired in engineers' hats and scarves, favors of the annual S A E Train Party, boarded the Phi Alpha Unlimited at Union Station and headed toward Boone. Barbequed chicken was served from huge pits as the highlight of the party.

Fall quarter brought a scene from Africa as Sig Alph's went on a Safari. Members and their dates wore safari clothing and ate safari style. Favors were miniature tiger skins.

Members of Sigma Alpha Epsilon entertained the pledges of all eleven sororities at a welcoming buffet dinner in the fall.

The S A E service project of the year won them the honor of being the most outstanding S A E chapter for service projects in their district. Sig Alphas went to Story County Old People's Home, where they built a shuffle board court and painted furniture and rooms.

Spring quarter a steak and beans scholarship dinner was held. Men with grades over 2.6 ate steak — everyone else ate beans.

Sig Alph's spent long hours working on their Veishea float. The theme was "Ugly Duckling" and it was featured in the Veishea national newsreel.

Sig's Win Three Trophies, Select Watermelon Bust Queen

The Sigma Chi trophy case is overflowing with the many intramural awards which the Sig's won last year.

Three Class A places were given in All-Fraternity Softball, All-College Football, and a second place in All-Fraternity Swimming. The men also took first place in All-Fraternity Class B Volleyball.

Fall quarter started off with a bang when the Sigs invited all the new sorority pledges to the annual Sigma Chi Watermelon Bust. The "Bust" was held at Brookside Park and a pledge from each house took part in the events during the afternoon. In the seed spitting contest, a housemother nosed out the pledges. Other contests involved shaving a balloon with a razor without breaking it and finding the first watermelon. A "Queen of the 1955 Watermelon Bust" was crowned. The Sig's and the 200 pledges consumed 220 pounds of watermelon while the Sigma Chi combo furnished entertainment.

The fraternity's founding is celebrated with two other fraternities on campus — Phi Delta Theta and Beta Theta Pi. The Miami Triad was held in October with a dinner and dance at the Memorial Union. The night before the dance, the Sigma Chi pledges held a fireside for the other fraternity members and their dates.

Winter quarter brought the annual and national "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" Ball.

Swinging paint brushes quickly decorated the Sig's entry in the pre-Homecoming Scrap Heap Scramble.

SIGMA NU . . .

Sponsor Annual Relays, Present Arabian Night

Preparation for the Fifth Annual Sigma Nu Relays started early as usual. The mud pit was dug and watered to the right stage, pennants flew from the top of the porch, and the announcer and the scoreboard were perched on the roof. Actives from the sororities lined up and the gun sounded. Before the afternoon was over, the girls had walked on stilts, tossed eggs, chased greased pigs, and hopped around in gunny sacks. The Pi Phi's came out on top with the most points.

Autumn Ambers, a football fireside, featured a jitterbug contest, and the pledge-managed annual Sod-Busters' Ball took place at the Ames Country Club. Entertainment included a hillbilly skit, and cider and doughnuts were served as refreshments.

The Sigma Nu's go Arabian once a year during winter quarter. The house is transformed into an Arabian tent and the couples, dressed as Arabs and harem girls, received refreshments from the Oasis Bar.

At Christmas time, children from orphanages and poor homes were entertained by the Sigma Nu's. Santa Claus with a bagful of gifts provided a gift for each child, who had a Sigma Nu and his date as his own special host. Following the party the couples remained for a fireside and exchanged comical gifts.

During Sigma Nu Service Week, the chapter repaired and repainted a seven-room house for the Welfare Society of Des Moines.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON . . .

Specialize in Serenades - - Turn Western for Fall Party

Serenades in all seasons are a speciality with the members of Sigma Phi Epsilon. Dressed in white pants and shirts with black bow ties and blue blazers, the Sig Eps introduced their serenades with the theme song "Dream."

Every coed on campus had an opportunity to hear the special selections picked for the serenades, plus the fine preformances of the Dixieland combo in the spring and the portable organ played by Mrs. Carl McKone, housemother, in the fall.

"Knights of the Round Table" might be another name for the Sig Eps when they gather for their annual Thanksgiving dinner at the chapter house. Over 100 members sit at the huge oak dining table to feast on turkey and all the trimmings.

Intramurals proved to be one of the outstanding house activities during the year. The Sig Eps placed sixth in fraternity intramurals standings and captured the All-College Class B Basketball Championship.

The Saddle and Gun Club opened its doors during fall quarter and the Sig Eps went western. Hand-tooled saddles, antique guns, a 30-foot bar complete with stools and a brass footrail, and a gambling room were placed throughout the house. Entertainment included the Sig Ep version of NBC's "Monitor." The house combo, specializing in Dixieland, provided music, and members and their dates had their pictures taken in the saddles.

SIGMA PI . . .

Newest Fraternity on Campus Remodels House, Begins Life

Sigma Pi became the 31st fraternity on the Iowa State campus and the second in two years to become reactivated after previously securing a charter at the college.

Sigma chapter was first founded in 1914 as a local club, Affalata. It was reorganized in 1915 as Lambda Sigma Phi and later in 1922 it affiliated nationally with Sigma Pi fraternity.

The old Delt house on North Hyland was purchased and completely redecorated and refurnished from attic to basement. Every room was painted and an entire new kitchen installed. The draperies and upholstery blend in perfectly with the turquoise, bittersweet orange, and sandalwood color scheme.

The oldest fraternity west of the Mississippi played host to the Sigma Pi national secretary and Archon of the District plus numerous faculty advisors at the chapter's reactivation ceremoney in May, 1955. The Sigma chapter is the only one in Iowa.

House membership was secured through faculty members who were first approached by national officers. The faculty contacted men they felt would make good members and they in turn snow balled the facts to others. Sig Pi's are in the majority engineers, but there is a sprinkling of all other departments and divisions.

The Sig Pi's started the fall social swing by holding a Halloween fireside with orange and black streamers, flashing pumpkins and marshmallows roasted in the living room fireplace.

Take Homecoming Trophies, Treat Dates to Snipe Hunt

Homecoming 1955 was the biggest for the Tekes when they added two more trophies to their glass enclosed trophy case. Their rambling wreck, entitled "Dr. Cy's Wildcat Poison," took first place in the first Scrap-Heap Scramble held at Iowa State. The car, a 1930 Model A Ford, was decorated to the hilt and stripped of doors, hoods, and roof.

The other award was made for the "Cyclone Carousel," the Teke's lawn display, which took second place in the fraternity division. A minature merry-go-round, gaily decorated with streamers, actually moved. Other carnival features were a ferris wheel and a parachute jump.

To show recognition of their outstanding showing in campus activities, the ISC Epsilon chapter was featured as "Chapter of the Month" in the November, 1955, isue of the national magazine, the Teke.

A new type of party was inaugurated at the TKE house when the members entertained their dates on a Snipe Hunt. Couples followed clues which took them all over Ames and then headed back to the house for refreshments. A hayride, the winter dinner dance, and the annual Barroom Brawl completed the year's social calendar.

Two men begin the Homecoming lawn display which was judged second in the fraternity division. The miniature merry-go-round, with streamers, really moved.

Celebrate 100th Birthday, Crown Dream Girl at Formal

Starting the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the national founding of Theta Chi, dinner for Iowa State alumni and their daughters was held April 15, 1955.

Chuck Alexander, Howard Bronson, Charles Chapman, and LeRoy Eisenmann represented this chapter of Theta Chi at the Regional Conclave held at Fargo, North Dakota, on April 2.

Theta Chi's have two new additions to their collection of trophies — the 2nd in Class A bowling and the 2nd in Class A volleyball.

Social functions included six pledge exchanges as well as nine house exchanges. Included in their own social activities were several house parties; an informal pizza dinner, the fall French costume party, a winter informal fireside, and their Christmas party where they exchanged gifts and sang Christmas carols.

With memories of good times, Theta Chi's recall the hayride and picnic they held after the Homecoming football game and their football game with Theta Chi of Drake.

May 21st is a date not to be forgotten by those who attended the Theta Chi "Dream Girl" Formal. Wonderful atmosphere was created by water fountains and elaborate decorations as couples danced outdoors on the transformed volleyball court. At this dance the main event was, of course, the coronation of their "Dream Girl" of the year. This honor was bestowed upon Dianne Schultz, who with her charm, made a beautiful evening perfect.

THETA DELTA CHI . . .

Entertain Dates Underwater, Feast at Annual Dinner Party

When the hull of a sunken ship happened to wash up in the Theta Delta Chi basement, they scraped away the barnacles and prepared it for an underwater fireside. A giant octopus chaperoned from a dark corner of the sea floor. Sailors and mermaids enjoyed squid sandwiches, scrambled jellyfish, and whale's milk. The pledge class skit starred an old sea captain.

A hayride and fireside combined, held in October, left many a fond memory with Theta Delts and their dates. Riding in the fall air made warm cider and donuts, along with a crackling fire, welcome when the couples returned to the house.

The annual Theta Delta Chi Dinner Party was held in February at the Lincoln Inn, in Boone. A fabulous feast of chicken forced even the best eaters to turn away while food remained.

The biggest event of the social year was the "Carnation Carnival," the spring formal. Decorations featured a colorful array of flowers. Music of Ellsworth Brown highlighted the dancing.

Intramural endeavors led to the capture of three trophies. Ping-pong, bowling, and wrestling trophies were indicators of achievement.

Theta Delta Chi, located at 217 Ash, was organized on campus in 1908. Kenneth Dirks is president, and Mrs. J. L. Moseley is housemother.

Christmas is an ongoing affair toward the end of fall quarter, but the newspaper is immediate and can't wait. Both the Daily and Register get a persual.

Win Veishea Canoe Race, Sponsor Fun at 'Alpine Inn'

Theta Xi pulled out in front to take first place in the 1955 Veishea Canoe Races. The team, dressed in red, yellow, and blue striped shirts, used the forever useful paper plates to beat out the other finalists. Their reward was a fine trophy and a justifiable upset in Lake LaVerne.

Turning to fall, even with the absence of snow, the Theta Xi's planned "Alpine Inn" and created a wintery atmosphere inside, although nature wasn't doing her share on the outside. The house was decorated to resemble a Swiss chalet and an exterior mountain scene drawn to scale gave an illusion of depth and reality as it was viewed inside the house.

A hayride and spooky Halloween party set the pace in October. For the latter the house was decorated in season and each couple had to bring a record of a popular song to aid the Theta Xi Dixieland Band which played for dancing.

The members of Theta Xi honored their housemother at a tea during winter quarter. All campus residence directors and presidents were invited in addition to administration personnel and faculty.

Christmas came early to Theta Xi's just before final week. The fellows decorated a Christmas tree and placed many gaily wrapped gifts under it. Inside the packages were toys of all sorts which were given to an orphange brightening the Christmas season for all the Theta Xi's as well as for the children receiving the gifts.

Theta Xi men take an active part in many campus activities. These include the "Agriculturist," Iowa State Singers, and various departmental clubs, housing canoes and tandem bicycles for Veishea and Homecoming.

Card Section Adds to Rooting Sections

THIS IS THE second chapter in the success story of a young man who came to Iowa State in the fall of 1954. His assignment was to produce a successful football squad at a school that had been experiencing an exceptionally long grid drouth. He was presented with all of the tools that were deemed vital in the molding of a new, winning, combination: his selection of a new coaching staff, a group of already-willing young footballers, and a host of athletic scholarships. However, he was not immediately presented with the fourth and most important asset to success, the wholehearted backing of the students. Without this any coach would encounter difficulty. All too many were willing to sit back and criticize the new mentor for what they thought was a lack of progress.

Now let's stop to consider the real indications of our progress on the gridiron. If they are to be counted in games won or lost, certainly the Cyclones can lay no claim to fame. But, on the other hand, if we can sense any sort of reawakening on the part of the student body, and feel increased pride in our Cardinal and Gold, then we may look forward to future gridiron campaigns with the confidence that our fortunes are already climbing.

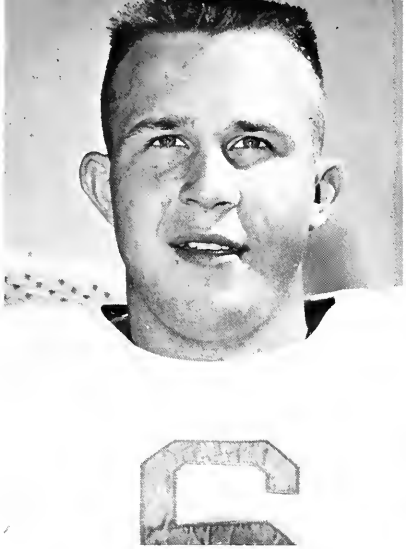

If you were in that crowd of ISC rooters that rose after the final home game against Nebraska to give their team a last cheer, you felt, for perhaps the first time, something inside that is often called school spirit . . . pride in the fact that you are a part of Iowa State College . . .

satisfaction that you can stand up and cheer after dropping a hard-fought decision to a battling opponent.

Why do you suppose Norma Turner and Norm Olsen, and the rest of our cheerleaders kept coming out, week after week, regardless of whether we won or lost, each time with more enthusiasm . . . and our new card section . . . it was lots of fun in spite of the bothersome pasteboards. It sounded pretty good to have big Chuck Duncan say over the mike "It looks great gang, nice goin'." And, finally, we can't forget the fast-stepping Cyclone marching band, swinging past the stands to the strains of the ISC Fight Song. . . .

Finally, there are those big guys down on the field . . . many of them are among the top scholars in a darn hard school. It's a pretty good feeling for them to beat a powerhouse like Missouri and still be able to say with pride that they received a top-notch education at Iowa State.

Victories . . . sure they'll come . . . they're bound to with eleven men in Cardinal and Gold working as hard as they have all this year, and the budding crop of sophomores that Vince has been bringing along. . . . But remember, other things must come first. As soon as we, the students of ISC, decide to place our wholehearted support behind both coach and team and not just sit back and gripe, we'll see the Cyclones rise to the top.

So there's your challenge, Cyclones, . . . players and students . . . you've started the ball rolling, lets keep it going.

Now, before we run down the facts and figures for 1955, lets glance at some of the familiar faces who have appeared in the Cardinal and Gold for the last time this past season.

SENIOR SKETCHES

The following few pages are devoted to thumbnail sketches of some of the seniors, who, for the past two or three seasons have shaped the fortunes of Iowa State's football team. These are the dependables, the ones of whom we speak when we mention football growth and improvement at Iowa State College . . . .

Gary (Mighty Mouse) Lutz, as he is affectionately called by his team-mates, is a 5-8, 151 lb. half-back, who makes up for his lack of size in speed and energy. During his last two years, Gary has been the smallest gridder in Big Seven competition and one of the dependables in the

The Fumble . . .

Cyclone's T-formation backfields. An All-State back from Osceola, Gary is now married and majoring in Animal Husbandry.

Big Jim McCaulley was the stabilizing influence on a young, inexperienced line that was out-manned at practically every turn. A team co-captain, Jim put every ounce of his 217 pounds into the Cyclone cause until an injury slowed him down near the end of the season. Throughout the year, opponents thought twice before slicing over Big Jim's tackle slot, and the rest of the forward wall looked to him for leadership and inspiration.

Harold Potts, the other half of the ISC right side defensive combination turned out to be about the top offensive surprise of the year. Small for an end, 6-0, 170 lbs., Harold caught 14 passes for a total of 173 yards and tallied three times for the best Cyclone Point output. In spite of his size, "Pottsy's" fierce desire and hard work made him one of Coach DiFrancesca's prize grid pupils.

Hank Philmon, from Davenport, another pint-sized half-back, possesses speed that makes him one of the fastest runners in the Conference. He has earned three football and three track letters and is another of those who can be counted on for dependable duty on both offense and defense.

Donn Lorenzon made a lot of people forget about his 1954 counterpart, Max Burkett, certainly one of the finest men to ever wear the Cardinal and Gold. A driving fullback with the ball, and a demon linebacker on defense, Donn paced the Cyclone ball-toters, averaging better than six yards per try. Hailing originally from Reinbeck, Donn is also married and majors in Farm Operation.

Mel Westoupal from West Point, Nebraska, was the other Cyclone co-captain. An All-Stater in High School, Mel certainly bore out his reputation here at Ames as he turned in game after game of hard, steady football from his end position. In addition to his athletic prowess, Mel also rates up there scholastically in Veterinary Medicine, perhaps not the easiest course in school.

The Struggle

Every team has a man that keeps things alive when the chips are down, and can be counted on to make a last-ditch tackle or vital block. For the Staters, this man was Bruce Alexander, 180 lb. halfback who is in his third season with the Cyclone gridders. First in punt and kickoff returns, and second in rushing and pass receiving, Bruce has been one of the unsung heroes of Iowa State football and will be sorely missed by future elevens.

DENVER U. 19, IOWA STATE 7

Opening day results sounded an ominous note, as the Cyclones grudgingly bowed to spirited Denver U. in a hard-played battle of defenses. A record-breaking, opening day crowd of 14,000 saw ISC stopped three times when they were inside their opponent's two-yard line. Neither squad could muster a sustained drive, and finally last year's Skyline Conference champs took advantage of a 15-yd. pass-play and a 53-yd. open field jaunt by Max Willsey to capture their two touchdown margin.

The game was not without reward for the Cyclones however, as they uncovered some promising sophomore talent like halfbacks Fred Rippel and Jack Hansen, who gave plenty of indication of some top-notch running potential.

Added color was provided to the opening day festivities with the appearance of 54 High School bands and some 4,000 bandsmen from throughout the state.

ILLINOIS 40, IOWA STATE 0

The next Saturday found Cyclone coach Vince DiFrancesca experimenting with some of his younger talent in an attempt to produce a winning combination. Nevertheless, the men of Illini presented both a rock-wall defense and a potent, all-around attack that proved too much for the green but willing Staters. After an initial drive to the Illinois 24, the Cardinal and Gold offense stalled. After that, the Cyc's found themselves in home territory for most of the rest of the afternoon.

IOWA STATE 7, KANSAS 7

The clock showed that there were four minutes remaining in the game . . . the Cyclones had the ball near mid-field . . . fourth down and one yard to go . . . should they gamble on controlling the ball or play it safe and punt?

Well, the Big Red Team gambled and lost, and eventually the Jayhawks came back to score, thus tying up the game for their first Conference win or tie in eleven tries. Except for this calculated risk, this might as well have been the Staters initial, 1955, Big Seven win.

Hero of the day for the home crew was big Donn Lorenzon, who galloped 60 yards from his fullback slot to paydirt, only to see the Kansans strike back a little later.

IOWA STATE 20, MISSOURI 14

Breaks or no breaks, Vince's boys finally found themselves on the afternoon of Oct. 16 and marked it as a red-letter day in Cyclone grid circles.

Quarterback John Breckinridge shot three pay-off pitches, two of them to end John Potts, and the other to half-back Bruce Alexander, as the iron-clad Iowa State defense shackled the futile Tiger attack for three quarters.

Then, when everything seemed to be under control, the unpredictable Missourians struck twice in the final stanza to close the gap to only six points. Before they knew it, the Staters were back on their own one. An exchange of fumbles set the Tigers back to the five with four downs remaining. But then the fired-up Cyclones held fast, running out the clock for one of the most stirring performances of their grid season.

KANSAS STATE 9, IOWA STATE 7

What commenced to be a continuance of the previous week's upset turned into defeat for Iowa State, as they fell victim to the talented toe of Jim Rushing of Kansas State. A Homecoming crowd of 18,000 saw the Cyclones pick up where they had left off, and march 80 yards for a first quarter tally. The payoff came in the form of an aerial from quarterback John Breckenridge to his favorite target, John Potts.

Then in the third quarter, the Wildcats intercepted a Cyclone pass and proceeded to score.

Surrounded . . .

. . . Lost

However, the attempt at conversion was blocked by Jerry Bartelt, and the Cyclones clung to their one-point margin. Rushing booted a 39-yd. field goal that provided the deciding tallies for the visiting eleven.

DRAKE 27, IOWA STATE 21

The fortunes of the Staters hit their lowest ebb the night of Oct. 30 against Drake's fired-up Bulldogs. The combination of a Drake Homecoming and a natural Cyclone letdown helped the underdogs off to a 14-0 halftime lead that the Staters never broke. They held even after that, outscoring their foes in second-half play but Coach DiFrancesca's men couldn't meet the Bulldog spirit. Iowa State touchdowns were accounted for by Jack Hansen, John Breckenridge, and Jerry Donahue.

NEBRASKA 10, IOWA STATE 7

Rugged defensive play by both sides just about tells the whole story of the final, 1955 home tilt. Neither team could muster a sustained offensive, and it wasn't until the final quarter when halfback Jack Hansen returned a Husker punt 35 yards and then went on over over for the score that the Cyclone's threatened at all offensively. State recovered their own kickoff but could make no headway against Nebraska's highly-touted pass defense.

Again it was a field goal that made the final difference, as Husker Don Erway angled a 15-yd. boot in the third quarter for the deciding margin.

OKLAHOMA 52, IOWA STATE 0

On the road for the last time, their many injuries and the tough play of one of the greatest all-around teams in Intercollegiate competition were too much for the traveling Cyclones to cope with. About half of their regulars were either crippled or out of action completely, and Coach DiFrancesca just didn't have the reserve strength to battle the mighty Sooners on even terms.

COLORADO 40, IOWA STATE 7

Iowa State's undermanned Cyclones found the season one game too long, as they were again victimized by Colorado's bruising ground attack. The Staters could manage seventy-some total yards and never got their hands on the ball enough to be a dangerous threat. It was the Buff's whole show, as the boys from Boulder celebrated the first big snow by cinching a third-place Conference finish.

ISC CHEER SQUAD

LED BY the antics of the bouncing cheerleaders, the Staters once more took the field against a fighting sports foe. Hard work paid off, as Cyclone spirit grew, and sports futures became brighter.

PEP COUNCIL

TO PROMOTE enthusiasm for athletes, to organize better pep rallies, and to support especially out-of-town games are the purposes of the Iowa State Pep Council.

This year its greatest accomplishment was the success of the football game card section. Other fall activities were the Pep Jamboree during Freshman Week, the migration to Kansas.

TUMBLING CLUB

ONE OF THE most exciting and interesting Veishea exhibitions is the one presented by the Iowa State Tumbling Club each year. These young people combine a clinic and show to give spectators an inside look at the art of tumbling.

This year the club performed at both the Scrap-Heap Scramble and Pep Barbeque.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

FUN, HEALTHY exercise, and sportsmanship, the main purposes of WAA, are greatly stressed in all of its various clubs. These organizations, encouraging a variety in interest, are Archery, Counselers, Bowling, Officials, Dance, Naiads (swim group), Rackets, and Hockey. The requirements of membership to most of the clubs are just an interest and enthusiasm in furthering the club's interests and activities. Naiads and Dance Club require tryouts.

Women's intramural games are arranged for by the Intramural Board, which has a representative from each housing unit.

The WAA Council, composed of the presidents of each club and of the Women's I Fraternity, co-ordinates all of the member clubs. Each year the council presents a sneak preview for new coeds at the start of fall quarter, and a spring picnic at which preview skit awards are presented.

1955 Veishea Openhouses saw WAA really come through, as they captured first place in Activities Open House, and proved what a little ingenuity will produce.

WOMEN'S 'I' FRATERNITY

THE ULTIMATE in female athletic achievement at Iowa State is represented by the Women's "I" Fraternity, under president Sandy McFarland. To gain membership, a girl must participate in 6 clubs of the Women's Athletic Association, have an all college average of 2.2, and show interest in WAA activities.

Not satisfied as just an honorary, Women's "I" sponsers service projects throughout the year in conjunction with its many branch clubs.

Fall events include a mixed volleyball meet and an Alumni Coffee during Homecoming. Winter attention is turned to Barjche, modern dance club, and an All-College Playnight. Naids show and playday round out a full year's schedule.

ATHLETIC IMPROVEMENT CLUB

MUCH OF THE credit for better sports spirit at Iowa State this year, both students and athletes, is due to the efforts of the 630 Club, an organization dedicated to the improvement of athletics on the Ames campus.

Under the direction of prexy Lanny Patten, it helps to acquaint high-schoolers with the sports and scholastic program, and works with our Athletic Department in preparing material directed to the potential Iowa State student.

Special projects of the club include a "pig roast" for the frosh gridders, keeping a sports showcase in the Union, lining up broadcasts of home basketball games, and sponsoring the "Athlete of the Week" and "Athlete of the Year" awards.

SPRING SPORTS . . .

BASEBALL

PACED BY a group of hard-playing sophomores, Cyclone baseballers overcame a lack of experience to capture fifth spot in the Conference with a 5-8 record, and provide some of the top upsets of the spring sports campaign.

The first half of the season saw Cap Timm's boys playing inspired ball as they took five of seven Big Seven tilts. Led by the hitting of John Jervis, Dick Bertell, and the other rookies, the Staters seemed to be headed for a second consecutive banner year. But a couple of bad breaks doomed ISC to wait another spring for a winning ballteam.

The first trouncing came from the hands of NCAA champs from Missouri. Equipped with practically the same team that captured the national crown, the Tigers proved too much for the green Cyclones. Then, two 10-inning 9-8 losses in a row to Colorado accomplished the final heartbreak that cemented the Cardinal and Gold in fifth place.

But what was lost in games was more than compensated for in new talent findings. Dick Bertell, rookie catcher, led the hittings department with a .329 average and 37 total bases. His all-around play merited selection to All-Big-Seven and NCAA District squads. First-baseman John Jervis turned in some fine early-season hitting and led fielding averages at .976. Plenty of potential speed was shown by second-baseman Jack Taylor, who appeared in only five games. Pitching chores were in the able hands of Steve Kostakos, Dale Drum, Phil Groth, and Gary Black, all of whom turned in some top performances.

TRACK

IOWA STATE'S improving young trackmen came through the 1955 cinder season in high fashion, as they amassed an impressive string of six dual meet victories, after dropping their first test to Chicago University on an inside oval.

In both indoor and outdoor competition, the Cyclone's margins, on the whole, were decisive enough to merit optimism for a brighter track future. Highlight of the spring circuit was a series of consecutive victories over Colorado, Kansas State, and Nebraska, during which seven meet records were established by the men from ISC.

However, in the Big Seven Conference finale at Lawrence, schools like Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas which were not faced when regular dual competition was underway, proved to have too much depth for the Ames cindermen. They captured the three top spots. The Cyclone's fourth-place finish was even then a surprise to many observers who had not ranked them in pre-season predictions.

The only man able to do better than fourth was Jake Meulenthaler, who garnered a runner-up spot in the javelin with a heave of 215′ 9¼″ for an all-time school record. Jake, who has never lost a dual meet in two years, turned in some of the top ISC performances for the year, and was a deciding factor in his team's great year.

Although he was not one of the high scorers during the season, senior captain Ken Mallas was a steadying influence on a young but eager crew.

Workhorse of the squad was John Stodgell, who, although his specialty was the 440, ran everything from sprints to relays to collect 62¼ points and pace the Cyclones in that department. His time of :48.6 in the quarter against Kansas State set a meet record and was one of the better marks in conference action.

Don Graves was a versatile sophomore, showing plenty of track-wise savy. Don ran the short-distance events and collected 34 points during the year.

Half-back gridder Hank Philmon exchanged his football togs last year, and turned to the cinder sports as a broad jumper. Together with action in the sprints, Hank bent his efforts mostly on jumping. His best showing was in the conference meet with a jump of 23′ 8″, enough for fourth place. His 57 point output merited second place in Cyclone scoring.

Except for a thrown shoe, things might have been a lot different in the conference meet. ISC's mile relay team of Dreyer, Gaves, Grand, and Stodgell were well on their way towards a high finish when the unfortunate incident came about. The winning time of 3:16 was only four seconds better than a 3:20 time by the quartet against Colorado for a meet record.

GOLF

CYCLONE GOLFERS regained plenty of par-busting prestige during the 1955 spring schedule. Going into the Big Seven meet with a record of six wins and one loss, the Cyclones battled into third-place finish, only one stroke from the top.

Coach Jack McQuire's best performer was Don Webber, ISC junior, and ex-junior State champ.

His selection as 1956 team captain gave all of the squad's "big-four" the title of captain at one time or another. John McGuiness and Dan Molyneaux, a couple of 3-year, senior lettermen, led the '53 and '54 ISC crews, respectively. Bo-bo Lee, the last of the foursome that carried Iowa State through one of its winningest years, was honorary captain for 1955.

Coach McGuire, Don Webber, Dan Molyneaux, Bob Deluria, Bob Lee.

TENNIS

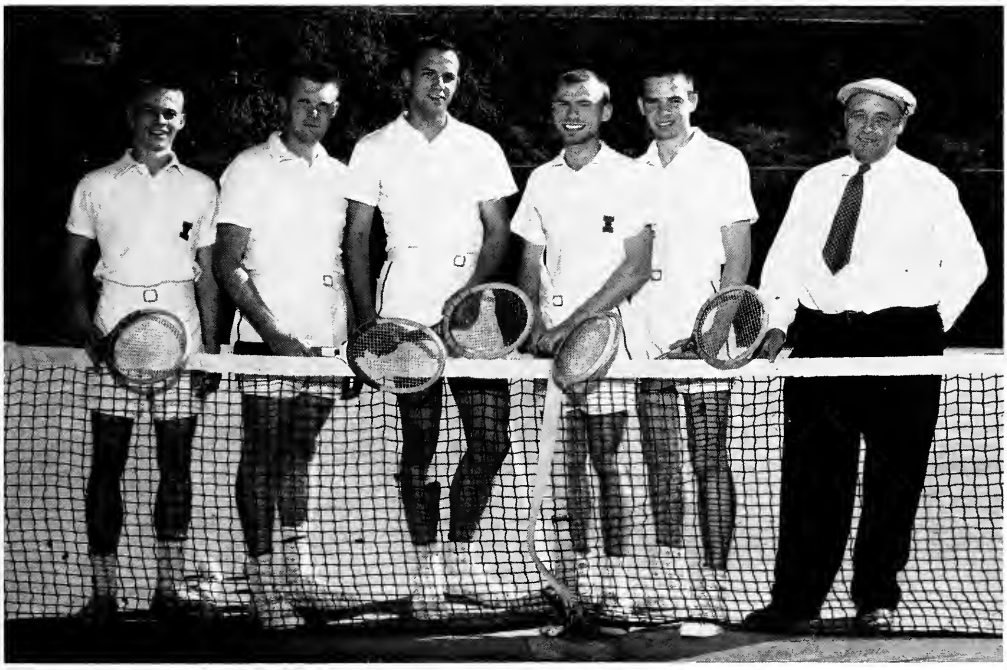

PACED BY the crafty stroking of Eddie Hoffman, sophomore standout, and Lowell Burford, squad captain, Cyclone tennis racquets took seven of 12 dual meets and also asserted themselves as a definite threat to future Big Seven foes.

Due to limited winter practice opportunity, ISC was at a disadvantage to the Southern teams at the start of the season, and fared none too well in initial competition. But as the season progressed and the whole squad improved, coach Harry Schmidt began to see some of the results of many nights of hard practice.

Highlights for the netmen came with a string of four wins, in which they took 27 matches, giving their foes a total of only two.

Throughout the year, men like Ron Sley, Ted Hampe, Paul Mattson, and Bill Wioto pushed the leaders and provided the depth needed to win.

Ed Hofmann, Lowell Burford (captain), Ted Hampe, Paul Mattson, Ron Sley and Coach Harry Schmidt.

VARSITY 'I' CLUB

PROGRAMS, programs, get your pictures of the Iowa State football team," shout members of Men's Varsity "I" Club every Saturday that the Cyclones come home for a game on Clyde Williams Field.

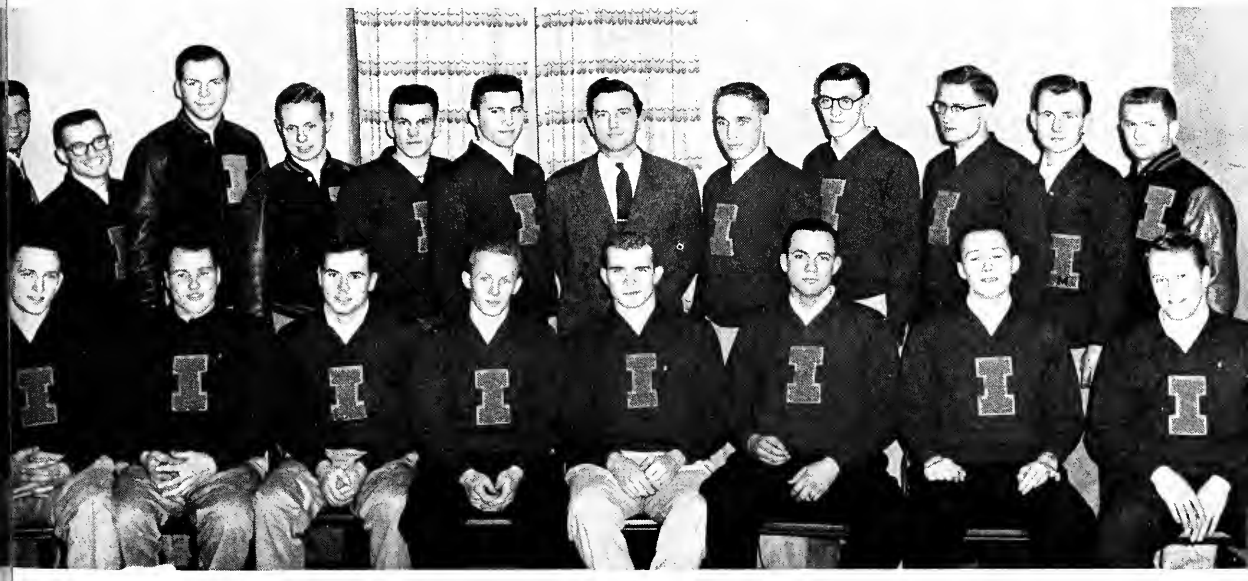

Besides program selling, the "I" Club sponsors two major events each year that are fast becoming popular with the student body. One is a Varsity-Alumni football game in the fall. Proceeds from this contest go to pay for the "I" blankets that are awarded to senior athletes upon graduation.

Then, in the spring, the club sponsors the "I" Carnival. Prizes are donated by various Ames merchants. A queen, chosen in an all-college election, reigns over the festivities and automatically becames a candidate for Queen of the Drake Relays.

CYCLONE ROLLERS . . .

ORGANIZED to provide entertainment for its members, the Cyclone Rollers have developed into one of the more popular recreational clubs on campus. Only requirement for membership is an interest in roller recreation, fellowship, and an opportunity for individual leadership offered through the club and roller skating.

In addition to skating sessions every other Friday night, the club also sponsors outings of various types. An all-college skating party is a yearly accomplishment of the club.

Under the direction of president Russell Roy, the club holds a bi-monthly business meeting when plans are made for the next two weeks' skating.

The Cyclone Rollers organization is the only club if its kind on the Iowa State campus at the present time. Occasional trips are made out of town to roller rinks in other towns.

RODEO CLUB

THE CYCLONE Rodeo Club is a relatively new organization on campus. The group organized in 1954 to increase the interest of college men and women in rodeos, to promote organized events, and to reduce the chance of rodeo hazards.

Club members have participated in many shows and hold their own practice sessions both club-wise and individually. These activities are designed to develop a team for intercollegiate rodeos. A team is composed of six members who ride saddle-broncs, Brahma bulls, wrestle steers, and rope calves. As members of the National Inter-Collegiate Rodeo Assn., they are awarded points for each win. High point winners receive valuable prizes. An additional task for the group is their Veishea concession stands.

Coeds also take an active part in club work. Competition during practice sessions is often keenest during the ladies' events.

WRESTLING

AS FAR AS the regular season was concerned, Coach Nichols started his boys off with a bang, and never let up until he had piled up an impressive 8-won 3-lost record, thereby providing continuity to the Cyclones' traditional grappling prowess.

Throughout the year, people like Dean Corner, Bob Formanek, Mel Walden, Dale Kettleson, and Kent Townley could be counted on for points when the chips were down, and it was these few who consistently carried the brunt of the Cardinal and Gold attack. Formanek, former Big Seven champ in the 157-lb. class was injured during part of the season, but nevertheless showed his superior ability by remaining unscored upon in dual competition. Corner, 137-lb. sophomore whiz from Omaha, and Frank Powell, his hometown wrestling buddy, gave plenty of promise for future ISC squads, while veteran Kent Townley amassed the brightest overall record, chalking up 37 points to his opponents' 10.

Except for the three occasions when the Cyclones fell victim to formidable foes by never more than four tallies, every meet was a lopsided State triumph. Some of the cleanest sweeps were over Nebraska 31–2, Minnesota 27–3, Colorado 26–5, and Kansas State 23–8. Altogether, the men from Ames accumulated a total of 119 points to their opponents' 88, an impressive showing in any man's league.

The end of the regular season saw conference teams journey here to Ames for the Big Seven tourney. It eventually turned into a two team fight, as the Cyclones put up a stiff fight against Oklahoma's powerful Sooners, for tourney laurels. But the boys from Oklahoma had too much all-around strength, placing a man in the finals of every event and nosing the Cyclones out in points, 88 to 67.

In spite of their defeat, ISC came out with three individual titles, two of them by sophomores who will have a big say in future Conference action. Dean Corner and Frank Powell, grappling buddies at Omaha Tech, captured the 137 and 167 classes respectively, and Bob Formanek regained his 157 lb. title.

Although it might look bad, Roy Formanek still has the upper hand enroute to a victory over Oklahoma A & M's Blubagh.

SWIMMING . . .

WHILE CYCLONE cagers led the winter sports parade in total victories, Coach Jack McGuire's dependable aquamen came through with another winning season, more than upholding their end of the ISC athletic obligation. Paced by the record-breaking antics of six versatile seniors, they fashioned a regular season's record of four wins, two losses, and one tie. All-Americans like Jim McKevitt, Loran Braught, Sandy Stewart, and Dale Lucas made conference and National marks fly all over the place, as they wound up their collegiate careers in grand style.

At the opener against Michigan, McKevitt, Braught, and Lucas all set individual marks to forge a 42–42 deadlock against that Big Ten stronghold. Then, after posting an easy 55–31 victory over Colorado, the Cyclones fell victim to Oklahoma, their regular conference nemesis.

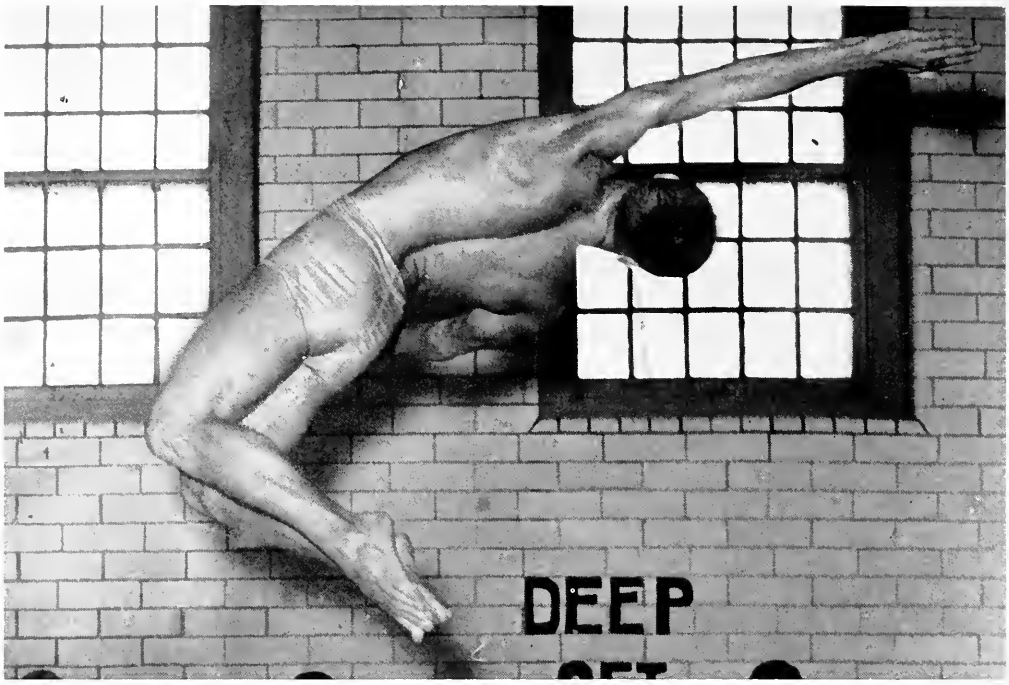

McGuire's pupils then moved back into the winner's circle, trouncing Nebraska and Loyola of Chicago, 66–18 and 59–30, respectively.

Michigan State took care of the next meet, edging out the undermanned Cardinal and Gold, 50–43, but the graduating seniors got the last word after all, as they toppled Kansas, 60–23, setting three new marks for themselves. McKevitt broke the free-style pool mark at 2:11.5, Dale Lucas smashed the pool record in the 160 yd. individual medley, and Ron Mlnarik, sophomore standout, brought down the 200-yd. breast stroke mark.

The end-of-the season Big Seven meet came out as expected with the Cyclones giving Oklahoma the only serious competition for title honors. Coach McGuire's boys could nab only one title, the 200-yd. individual medley taken by Dale Lucas. Most of the Cyclones' points were made by second places in diving, Dale Wassmuth, backstroke, Loran Braught, freestyle, Jim McKevitt, and the medley relay.

Although it was not a spectacular season, it exemplified the dependable performance that Cyclone sports fans have come to expect from a McGuire-coached outfit. Rated second only to Oklahoma in pre-season Conference predictions, the Cyclones' tankers, for the past few years, have been one of the few bright spots in a general ISC sports drought. Men like McKevitt, Braught, Lucas, and Valleau have carried the Cyclone colors to victory throughout the country, and have done as much for the name of the school as any comparable group. It is to them and the rest of the crew, along with Jack McGuire that we owe thanks for a job well done.

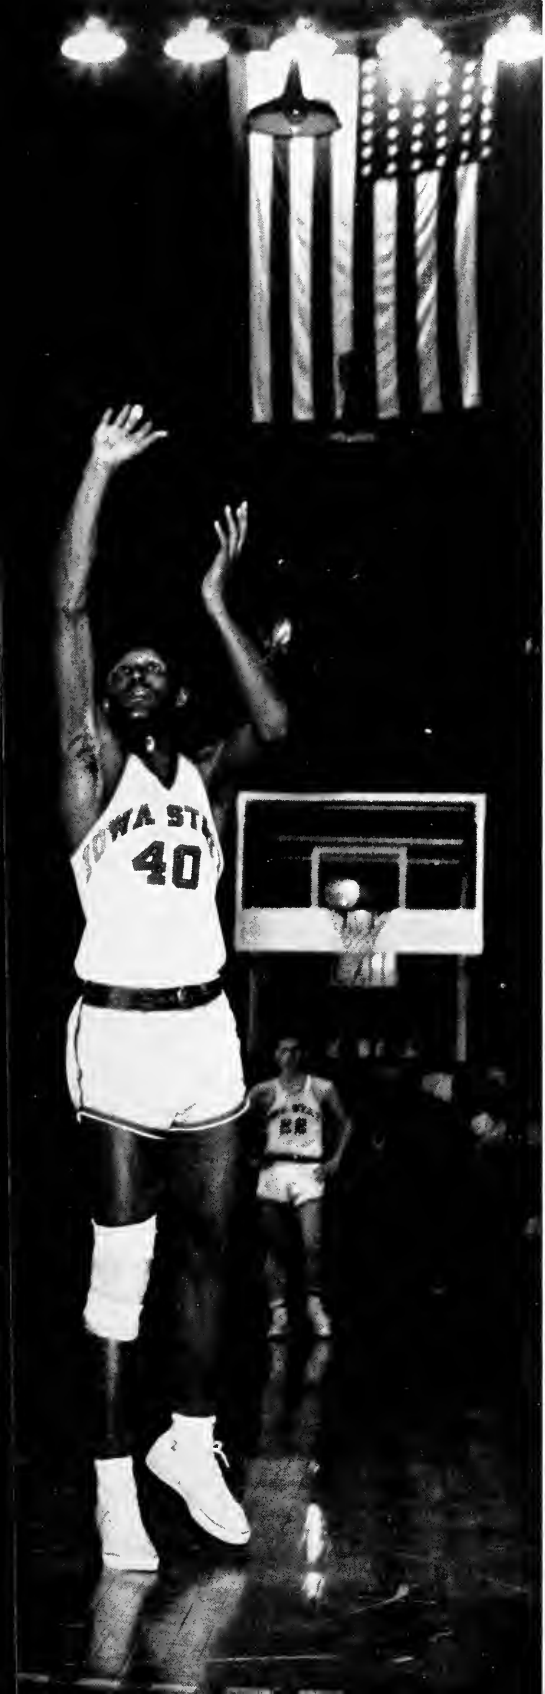

John Ryder, one of Jack McGuire's crack seniors, looks up to check his finishing time during a Cyclone dual meet.

BASKETBALL . . .

Don Medsker hooks from the pivot for two Cyclone points against the Tigers from Missouri.

IT HADN'T been like this in years. Few people could remember the time when Iowa State had had a really hot basketball crew. Sure, last year we had Chuck Duncan and came out ahead in the won-lost column. But now Duncan was gone, and the Cyclones were supposed to be relying on the talents of a couple of junior lettermen, a pair of battle-weary seniors, and two gangling sophomores. But yet here it was in January. The Cardinal and Gold had copped the Big Seven Tournament, they had sent Vanderbilt's highly-rated Commodores packing, and most of all, they had a replacement for Duncan.

Yes, by that time, few people doubted that little Gary Thompson wouldn't have a pretty big voice in what went on in Conference cage circles. Besides this, the rest of the aggregation had formed into a highly co-ordinated outfit that would eventually tie for Big Seven runner-up honors.

Lady Luck must have had her protective eye on the athletic fortunes of Iowa State one day two years ago when an energetic young Scotchman named Bill Strannigan was brought here to revive our dwindling basketball program. For since then, the revamped Staters have climbed from the Big Seven cellar to cage supremacy, mainly through the efforts of Coach Strannigan.

A thirty-seven-year-old native of Dalry, Scotland, Bill grew up in Rock Springs, Wyo., and migrated to the U. of Wyoming where he was an All American cager. After two years in the Navy and a whirl at semi-pro ball, he launched upon a coaching career that was to carry him all the way from Loveland, Colo., to Ames.

Prior to coming here, he brought a conference championship to Colorado A and M. pushing that team from last to first.

Teammates look on as John Crawford pots another gift toss for the Cyclone cause.

Last winter, during his initial Cyclone season, Coach Strannigan produced a winning 11-10 record, and worked up a spirit and desire that was to carry over into the present schedule, in even greater proportions.

The Cyclones began their big season with a string of four victories that gave fans here a little hint of what was to come. Paced all the way by Gary Thompson, who was averaging 20 points a game, and the diligent rebounding of John Crawford and Don Medsker, the Cardinal and Gold swept aside North Dakota State 86–60, Texas Tech 72–52, Tulsa 62–50, and Coach Strannigan's old school, Colorado A and M, 72–60. But the law of averages caught up with them out at Denver U, always a tough outfit. In spite of Thompson's 21 point effort the undermanned Denver crew took a close 62–65 verdict.

At last the Cyclones came home for Christmas vacation and their first big test of the year against highly-touted Vanderbilt, then ranked fifth in the nation. However the Commodores hadn't bargained on such determination, and a roaring crowd of local Ames people cheered their boys to an 87–76 victory and watched as Gary Thompson set a new Armory and team record, pouring in 40 markers. This gave him a 23 point average, and made the Cyclones heavy contenders for the Conference tournament to follow.

The following three days saw Coach Strannigan and his boys prove that all of this wasn't just luck, as they fought to the first Iowa State tourney crown in eleven years. The Staters began with a 79–71 see-saw win over Kansas State as Thompson and Don Medsker each whipped in 20 big ones.

The semifinal was really a thriller with ISC leading all the way. With three minutes remaining, Colorado came to within one point. The situation looked pretty tense until Gary coolly dunked four gift tosses to assure an appearance in the windup against Kansas.

Everybody got into the act this time, as all-around team play told the final tale. Thompson got 22, Medsker and Crawford took everything off the boards, and Lyle Frahm stole the ball four times. It was at this point that the Cyclones achieved fifth-place national ranking, the highest a State crew has claimed for a long time.

Lots of people now expected a slight letdown and promptly got one, as a combination of superstition, psychological letdown, and just plain good competition dropped the Cyclones in two of the next three tilts.

Sophomore Hayden Abbott of Kansas State started his first game and tore ISC apart to the tune of 27 points, as the Wildcats completed a 68–64 win. Our boys could gain little personal satisfaction in shading Oklahoma 58–55, and went on to fall to Kansas 68–63. This wasn't a very strong comeback for a Big Seven Tourney winner, and there were plenty of people who now wouldn't give Coach Strannigan a plugged nickel for his chances.

However Strannigan and his crew had different ideas on the situation, and promptly produced an eight game winning streak that was to carry them into a temporary tie for first place.

First the Cyclones went to work on Willie Cerf and company from Drake, 81–60, and a couple of weeks later again routed their Des Moines rivals, 87–70.

Versatile Gary Thompson pauses for a second to decide which is the best way around Nebraska's Smidt.

Colorado's charging Buffalos next invaded the Ames stronghold, presenting the Cycs with their vital test if they were to maintain any title aspirations. As predicted it was a nip and tuck battle that was all tied up at 68–68 with three minutes remaining. Gary Thompson then took charge of affairs, stalling out the remaining time, and with five seconds to go, drove in for the deciding bucket. Big John Crawford had a field day with 25 counters, and Gary contributed 21.

Oklahoma could muster only eight players to face ISC and went back South after a 71–59 drubbing. Don Medsker led the parade this time with 19.

Revenge was sweet for Coach Strannigan, as Kansas' Phog Allen made his last appearance in Ames only to have John Crawford and company mold an astounding 79–63 verdict. The Cyclones just couldn't do anything wrong, and John was hitting from all angles that night.

Even potent Missouri and their star Norm Stewart couldn't stop the rampaging Cyclones, who outfought the Tigers at every turn to pull out an 88–85 overtime win. Without the services of Thompson and Medsker for the final eleven minutes of play, Strannigan had to rely on Crawford and fireman Jerry Sandbulte in the last drive. Jerry got two in the overtime and 17 for the evening, but John was again the big gun. Dropping in 7 of 9 overtime tallies, he ended up with 28, runner-up only to Gary Thompson in a single game total.

Fighting overconfidence all the way, Strannigan got his boys geared down enough to pull out a 71–69 overtime win over Nebraska down at Lincoln. This time it was Sandbulte, who had just transferred from the Cornhusker school, that returned to haunt his old teammates by potting a side shot with seconds remaining, thus providing the margin.

Then, in spite of Crawford's 21 point effort, the Cyclones bowed to Missouri 73–66 on the Armory maples. This time the Tiger's Stewart was on, and he almost single-handedly beat the men from ISC, dunking 33 himself.

Fortune frowned twice, as Don Medsker and John Crawford both received injuries. The best that Thompson could do was 15, and Kansas State repeated an earlier win 82–62.

However, the Staters just weren't to be counted out of the picture. They promptly journeyed out to Boulder and played what was perhaps their finest all-around game of the season, routing the Buffs with a convincing 79–62 verdict. Chuck Vogt and Medsker contributed 19 and 16 respectively, and little Arnie Gaarde played one of his better floor games.

Then, refreshed from a long rest, the Cyclones gathered all of their remaining strength to swamp Nebraska's Cornhuskers in a tilt that saw Gary Thompson break the old ISC scoring record of 438 points in a single season by one counter before finally fouling out. Co-starring in one of his few starting assignments, Jerry Sandbulte outshone most of the regulars. Playing his last game for the Cardinal and Gold, Jerry racked up 27 points and made his final appearance his greatest one. After the final scramble, the Cyclones had a 94–74 victory, a seasons total of 18 wins and five losses, and their best all-around year in Iowa State history.

Perhaps one of the most colorful and popular figures in Cyclone sports circles over the past few years is that of litle Gary Thompson, a 5-10 bundle of cage wizardry from Roland, Iowa. A three-year All-Stater in high school with a grand total of 2,042 points, 823 of them his senior year, Gary started right out at Iowa State to literally burn up the hardwoods. A standout freshmen, he graduated to a starting guard position under brand-new coach Bill Strannigan, and proceeded to outdistance former Cyclone guards with 339 counters and a record of 18 free throws in a single tilt. Again this season, he was the deciding factor in many close games and provided the Stater's with brand-new scoring marks of 40 points, hammered in against Vanderbilt in the early-season upset, and 439 points in a single season. At the rate he is going, Gary is certain to break the all-time Cyclone scoring mark held by Chuck Duncan.

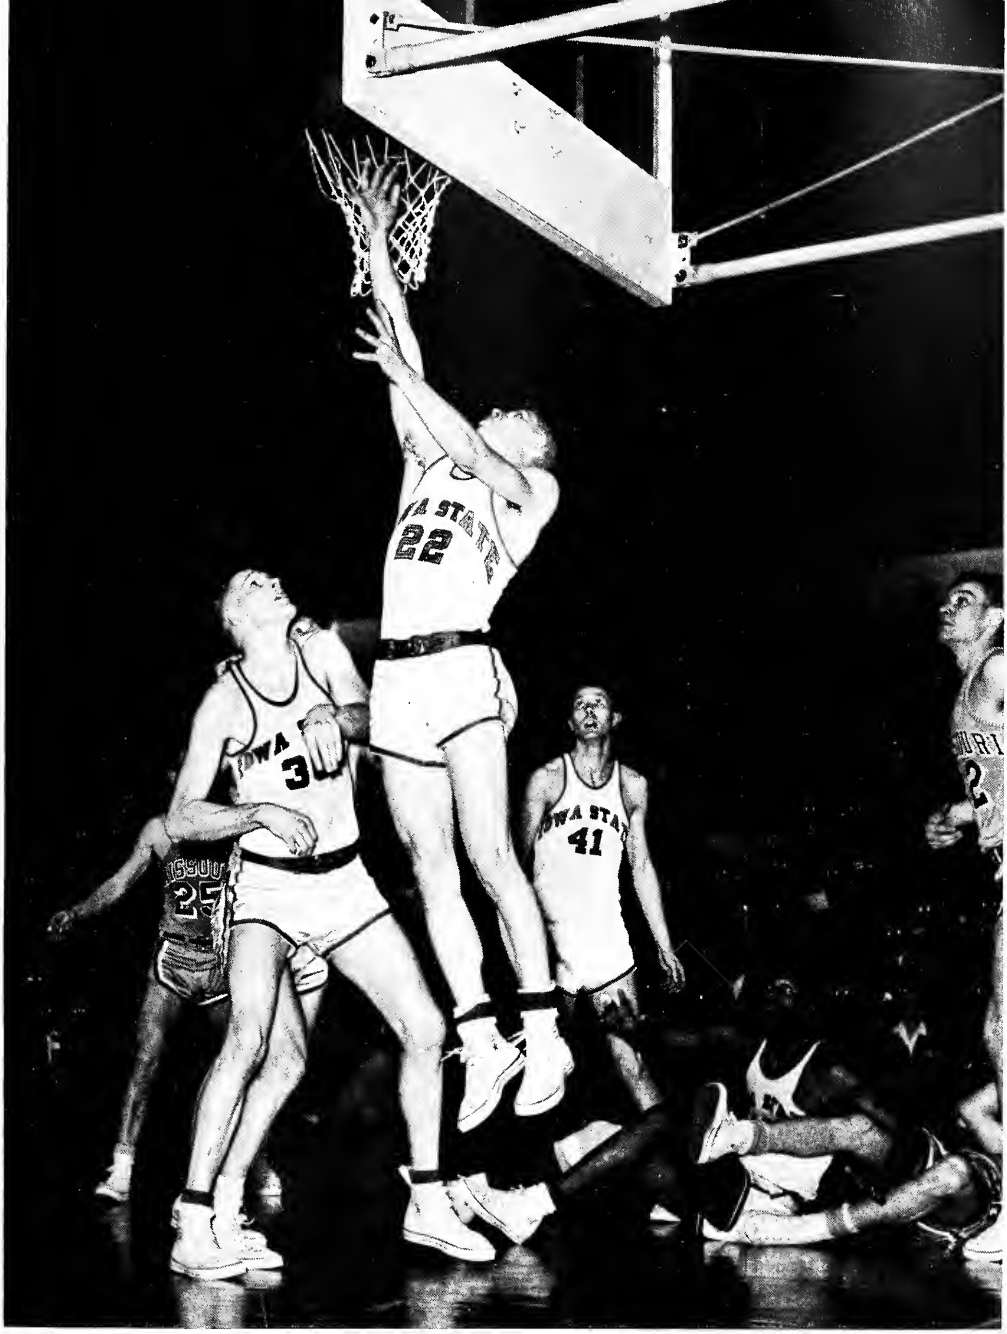

Providing the youth and heighth for the fighting Cyclones are a pair of hard-working sophomores who promise to give coach Strannigan plenty of power under the boards. Both John Crawford and Don Medsker were drawn here by Strannigan, and since then never have let him or the ISC fans down a bit.

Crawford, 6-5, and formerly the top prepster in the New York area, has gained quite a reputation as a fighting rebounder and follows on the heels of Thompson in the scoring department. Medsker, 6-8, played in the pivot post most of the time, and also had some bright scoring moments. Both of these boys made the UP All-Big Seven second team, while Thompson gained a spot on the first outfit.

Chuck Vogt, junior dependable from Clinton, started his second season at a forward post, didn't really hit his stride until the middle of the season, but then could be counted upon to come up with a creditable performance.

Alternating opposite Thompson in the other guard slot were Arnie Gaarde, a senior fireball, and Lyle Frahm, sophomore ball-hawk from Manning, Iowa. Both of these boys had the drive and fierce spirit that is so essential on a winning combination, and their combined floorplay did as much as anything to insure a Cyclone success.

Every crew, whether it be baseball, basketball, or football, needs a top reliefer, someone to come in and give that extra little punch that clinches a game. For the Cardinal and Gold this was Jerry Sandbulte, transfer from Nebraska, who more than once dunked the fatal bucket that turned defeat into a narrow margin win.

Two more points go down the bucket.

Caine House swung into its second year with great style this fall with the title of Class C Volleyball Champions of Spring '55. The men have adopted a widespread sports program which includes softball, football, volleyball, and baseball.

CONVERSE

CONVERSE HOUSE upheld its standing as one of the leading contenders in intramural bowling by placing third in its league. They also tied for third in free throw competition.

Dinner, dance, and dessert exchanges kept the Converse men busy socially as they entertained the women's dorms. The biggest event of the year was the annual spring picnic held at Sopher's Mill.

Converse House claims men active in departmental clubs, Promenaders, Tomahawk honorary, and a station manager for KMRI.

DODDS

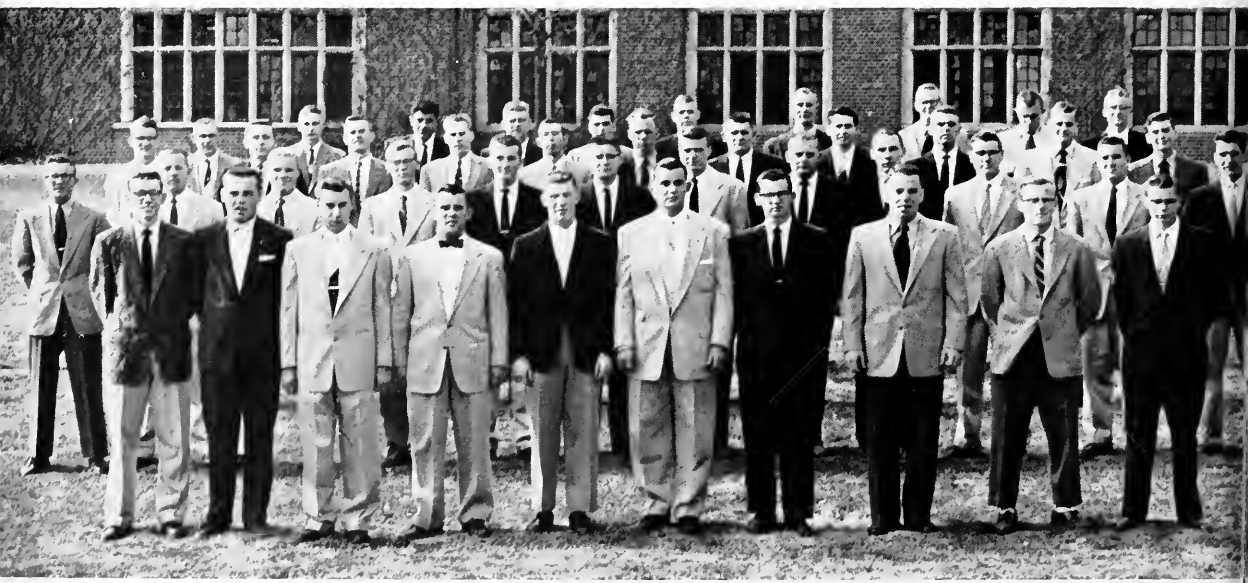

DODDS HOUSE has been and is going all the way in intramurals. With this as the main activity of the house, the men are kept busy participating in the vigorous intramural program.

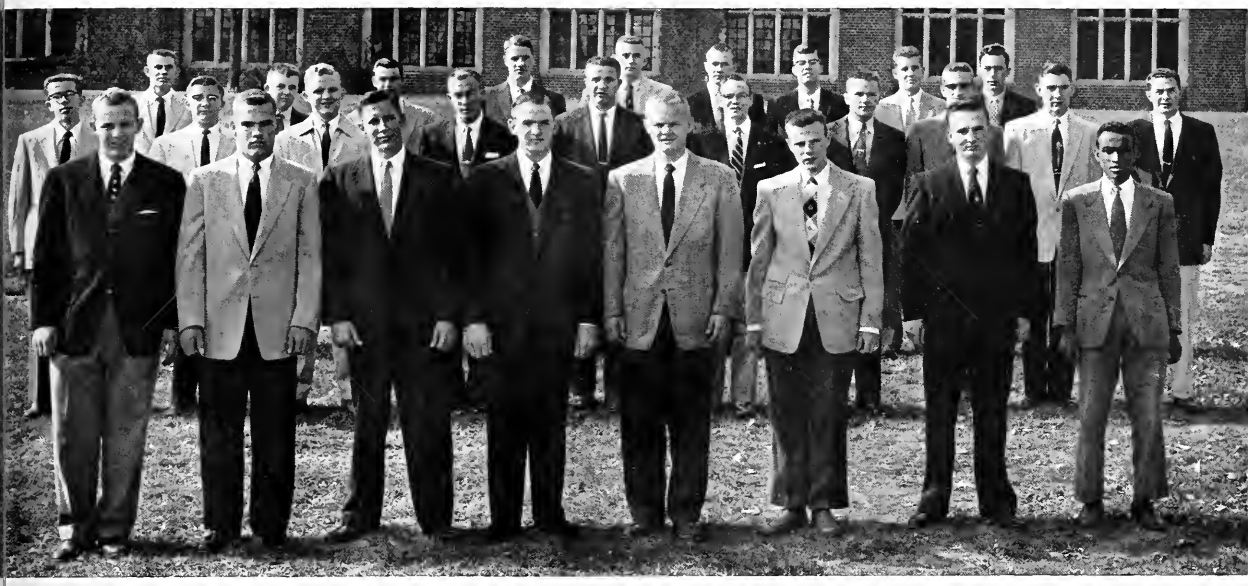

The house is selective in its activities as far as sports go and during spring and winter quarter of this year they took part in most of the team sports. The Dodds men took the Pro-League Bowling Championship in the spring.

With the coming of the Scrap Heap Scramble, Dodds was not to be left out. The house entrant was a 1929 Model A Ford with all the trimmings the men could find.

A welcome addition to Dodds House was the new house den completely decorated to a man's taste.

NOTHING IS MORE important than to get the incoming freshmen off to a good start, and Fairchild House did its share.

The "oldsters" of Fairchild entertained the new members on the first night of Freshman Days, and followed with the house's own program of orientation.

Fairchild is no exception when it comes to interest in sports. The men had an active program in intramurals, competing with other Friley-Hughes residences. Every member gave an enthusiastic boost to the house's Homecoming display and Veishea float.

When the first signs of spring appear, the Fairchilders uphold their tradition of an all-house picnic at the Ledges.

FAIRCHILD

FRANKLIN

FOR THE SECOND successive year the members of Franklin House sponsored a war child. This year the men are acting as parents to a Korean child under the "Parent's Plan for War Children."

Along the line of sports, the Franklin men ran away with two titles last year. They were winners of both the all-college Class C Softball tournament and the MRA ping-pong doubles tournament.

As far as social events were concerned, the house held numerous picnic and football exchanges and a Christmas party.

GODFREY

RELAXING IS a more-than-pleasant pasttime in Godfrey House since the addition of a new house den. Completely furnished and newly decorated, the den offers the men a place to get away from the study grind.

But don't think Godfrey men sit around all the time. Their social schedule included football exchanges and cook-outs during the warm fall and spring weather. An unusual exchange was arranged with a women's residence when the German ambassador spoke to the group.

At the end of fall quarter, a house dinner was held to honor the Godfrey graduating seniors.

HARRIMAN

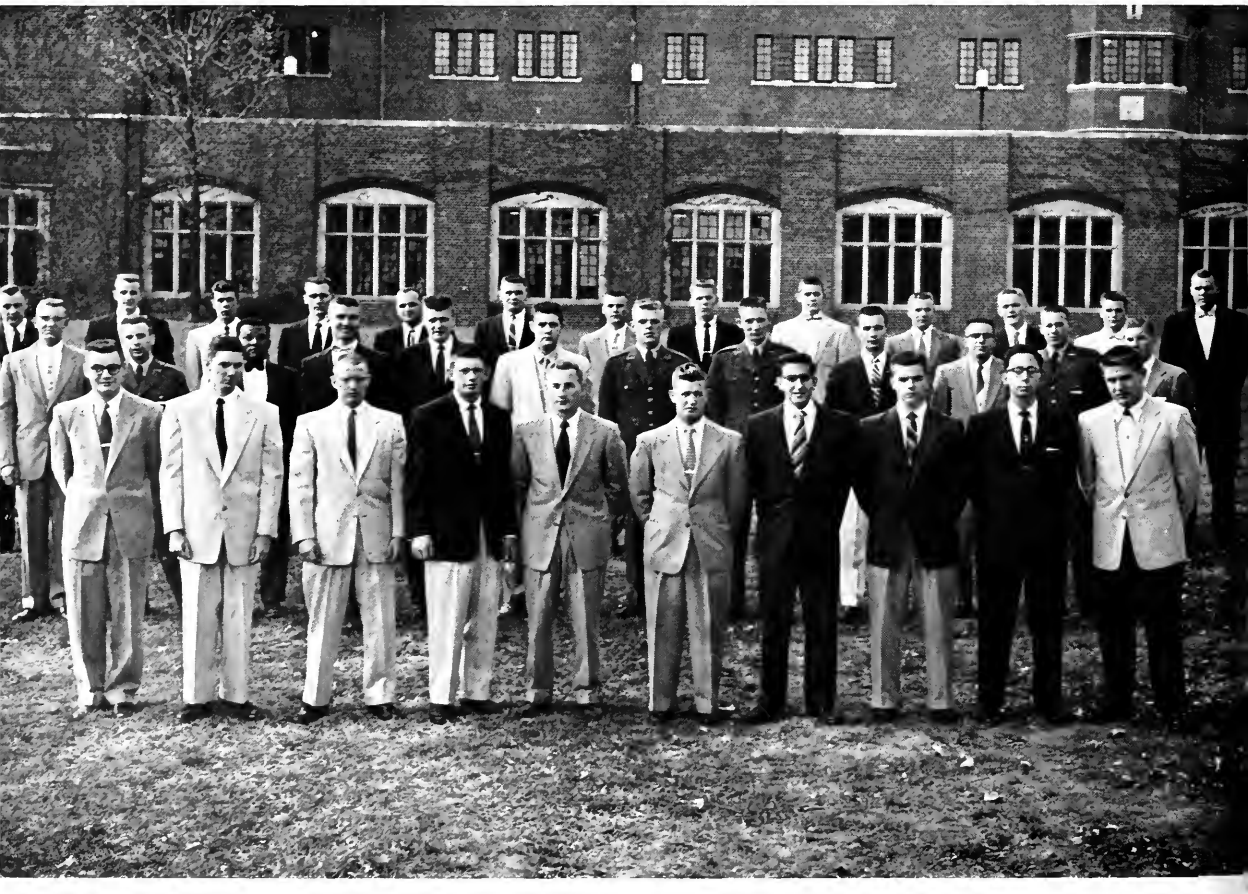

HARRIMAN HOUSE rings with house spirit and evidence can be found in many places.

The 50 members, about half of whom were freshmen last fall, pitched in and erected the first house display since 1953 for last year's Homecoming.

Interest in sports rated high and the enthusiastic "freshies" pushed a full intramural program. Harriman participated in many sports with volleyball highlighting the activity.

Harriman House was again host to the Hughes Hall Christmas party, an annual custom.

KIMBALL

KIMBALL HOUSE holds it's own Memorial Day each year in memory of a past pet. The occupants of Kimball hold a small ceremony annually near Lake LaVerne where Dick was buried. Dick was an eel.

True to past reputation, men from Kimball House were very active in intramurals. They ended the year with second highest honor points in Friley Hall for participation in the various intramurals.

Socially speaking, variety was the element. One of the highlights of the year was the annual house picnic. Football, dance, dinner, and work exchanges filled in the rest of the social calendar.

Along with erecting their own Homecoming and Veishea displays, Kimball men participated in many MRA and campus activities, having the MRA treasurer within their house.

FOR THE FIRST time in Knapp House history, freshmen were admitted as residents. Twenty-eight joined Knapp men last fall and things started off with a bang when the house scheduled a football exchange with one of the women's dormitories.

A pleasant addition to the house den was provided by the house members themselves. They all contributed toward a new television set which has brought many hours of pleasure.

House exchanges, parties, and dinners filled the Knapp House social calendar. Picnics are a house favorite in the spring.

SCHOLASTIC advancement from second to first place in MRA reveals Lange House's enthusiasm during winter and spring quarters of 1955. Intramural championships were captured by their volleyball and tennis teams spring quarter.

Beginning its second year, Lange House continued this enthusiasm with social exchanges with various women's dormitories and social sororities. Traditional parties for the men include "The Senior Swim Party," "Ice Cream Social," quarterly house dinners, a Christmas party, a hayride, and toboggan party.

SPRING 1955 was a busy quarter for the men of Lincoln House. Social activities ranked high with the men entertaining women's residence members at dinner, softball, and outdoor exchanges.

During the quarter, the house's annual Ice Cream Social was held and the house dinner honored its graduating seniors.

Athletics ranked high in the house all year 'round. The selection of Athlete of the Year is an annual event in Lincoln House. Each week during the year an athlete was named and out of this list is chosen the Athlete of the Year. The house also took the Class B volleyball championship last fall quarter.

LINCOLN

1st row: Takayama, Atwood, Chirinos, Schulze, Ttkashima, Joseivn, Meier, Miller, 2nd row: Kaplan, Hilburn, Bunz, Rix, Shaw, Primus, Vollerson, Blake, Albers, 3rd row: Stone, Gibson, Miller, Weichers, Stromer, Philmon, Hammerstrom, Jensen (pres.), Meverhoff.

ALTHOUGH LINDSTROM House is the smallest in Friley, the members were active as both athletes and as socialites.

The combined efforts of the 32 men in bowling, softball, pool, ping pong, tennis and track, won for them the first place MRA intramural trophy.

On the social side of life, the men from Lindstrom had dinner and dance exchanges and were well represented at MRA parties. Their big event of the year was the annual spring ice cream social.

WELCOME, ALUMS! We Have The Carpet Layed Out for You" copped first place for Meeker House in the Men's Dormitory Residence division during Homecoming last fall.

The winning display featured a 3-D football field with a door at the front opened by Cy, the ISC Cardinal. Falling out of the door was a flattened wildcat representing the carpet.

Meeker men were contenders for the Intramural trophy. In house activities, the fellows hold a house cribbage tournament and entertain with exchanges and picnics.

MEEKER

NILES

NILES HOUSE placed fourth in the 1955 Homecoming "Scrap Heap Scramble" with their humorous jalopy. The wreck featured a pole protruding from the rear which held the rider.

This year a novel activity was added to the busy spring quarter. Equipped with an experienced auctioneer, they held a sale in dorm court—selling everything from birds to radios.

Niles men and their dates danced in a night club atmosphere at their annual winter party. Other social events included dessert and dance exchanges which were very popular.

SECOND PLACE trophy went to the Nobilites last spring for their unusual Veishea float. The float, Bambi, in addition to its animals with human expressions, contained a mountain peak with a rushing waterfall.

Other keynotes of the year included picnics and football exchanges with Birch, Westgate, and other girls dorms, barbeques, and various intramural sports. To top off the events of the year the graduating seniors were escorted, quite against their will, to Union Fountain for a departing dip.

NOBLE

PEARSON

THE FROGMEN OF Pearson House splashed their way to a victorious first place in intramural swimming this year. They were champions in the singles tennis competition and runner up in individual ping-pong.

During the year the house planned a picnic at Brookside Park, a football exchange and a house party. The weekends were given over to games and refreshments.

There has been a lot of music in the "Pearsonite" den this year. The house purchased a new piano last fall to accompany it.

SPINNEY

SPINNEY HOUSE was awarded fourth place in MRA division for its 1955 Veishea float. In spring quarter 1955, the softball team captured second place in the Class A intramural championship.

An annual house auction to raise money for the Campus Chest is a proud tradition of Spinney House men.

Spring and fall quarter picnics at the Ledges are the major social events of the house. A highly competitive softball game between the two house intramural teams highlighted last spring's picnic.

STANGE

A HOUSE PROJECT always brings unity and Stange House has one such project — their support of a war orphan, Francesco D'Agostino.

Stange men also take an active part in intramurals. They participated in football, volleyball, bowling, track, basketball, and baseball. The outcome of all this activity was the Class B basketball award and the Class D volleyball championships last spring.

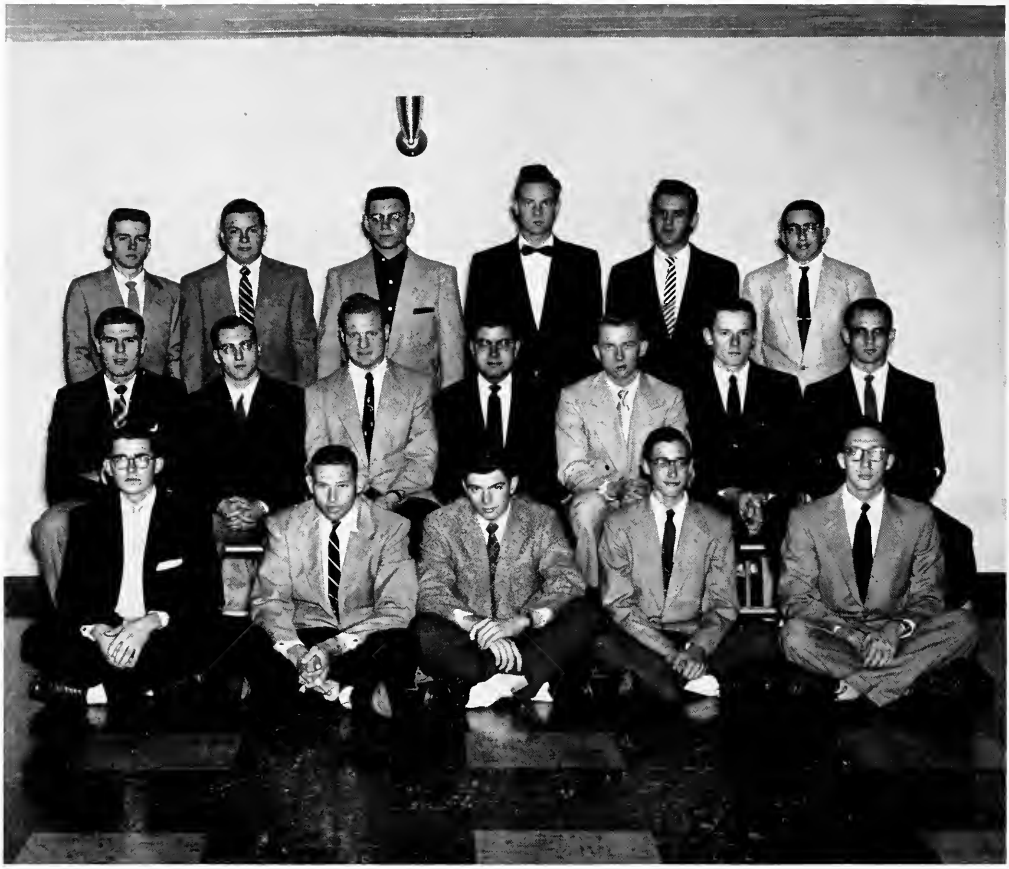

Stange social calendar included dinner exchanges, a hayride, a Christmas party, dance exchanges, and the annual house picnic.

STANTON HOUSE captured third place in the Men's Residence Dormitory Division with its 1955 Veishea float. The men used Abraham Lincoln as their theme and portrayed his life through the title "From Past to Present Through Books."

Stanton has also taken honors in other fields. The members have consistently won top scholastic ratings. Spring quarter found them ranking 5th in competition with the other 23 houses in Friley-Hughes Hall.

The house's social program consisted of new kinds of exchanges. The men captured sorority pledges, held a toboggan party, and of course, attended the annual "Ice Cream Social" in the spring.

STEVENSON

STEVENSON HOUSE may not have had the best entry in the 1955 Homecoming Scrap Heap Scramble but their "Moonshine Special" made headlines anyhow. The 1929 Model A was found resting on the banks of Lake LaVerne, partly submerged, two weeks after Homecoming. One member of Stevenson House said that, "Tugs might have been necessary to move the craft since it is doubtful that it could have moved under its own power."

The two year old house was one of the first Friley-Hughes Hall houses to present a house constitution to the MRA system. Another "first" that may continue as an annual event is the inaugural dip of the newly elected president in the Union fountain.

Stevenson House men were very active in intramurals and copped many victories.

The Alumni Hall Quartet brush up on the old favorites and a few new ones in the North Reading Room.

ALUMNI HALL

BILL GALLOWAY, president of Alumni Hall, found a lot of musical talent in his group of more than 70 men. Dave Mowry and Scott Smith won the Varieties-in-between acts, and the quartette consisting of Don Forsman, Keith Kelsey, Roger Anderson, and Richard Baldwin was in the Delta Zeta's Varieties. The chorus was in the finals of the Symphonia Sing.

On February 13, they sponsored the Sweetheart Swirl in the South Ballroom of Memorial Union. Each couple entered the room through a giant stuffed heart.

These men were prominent exchange-wise, too. Football and dance exchanges with Birch and Welch Hall, Pi Beta Phi, and Gamma Phi Beta filled their schedule. An informal house party and a hayride highlighted the autumn scene. There were, in addition, several abstainer's parties and the usual share of serenades.

Alumni Hall took on a new look this year. Rooms were painted, new furniture and drapes were added, and the lounge areas were redecorated.

WOMEN'S RESIDENCE Association is the governing body for the nine women's dormitories on campus. During spring quarter candidates are selected and extensive campaigns go on until elections and the winner of the presidency of the WRA is chosen.

Once the president is chosen the Executives Board is set up. This is composed of the president of WRA, the president of each dormitory, and a representative to Cardinal Guild, Social Bureau, and Student Religious Council. From this board are formed four other councils to regulate activities, social events and exchanges, scholarship, and the advisors. Officers chosen from the whole organization to serve as WRA officials are the vice president, secretary, corresponding secretary, and treasurer.

The WRA as a board and organization head takes on many responsibilities in dealing with certain requests and studies made by the dormitories. It works with MRA in a coordinating program of social events and activities and is a go-between for the dormitories and the college administration. The latter can be illustrated by the work done by the board in attaining television sets and milk machines for each dormitory. The board approved both moves first and then met with college advisors to arrange for the items.

Beacon, independent women's scholastic honorary, has its members chosen by the board. This honorary sponsors a Korean War orphan through a campaign carried on in the fall in the dormitories. The WRA formal, "Blue Rendezvous," the White Breakfast, the Activities Carnival, and "Cues for Coeds," published for freshmen women, are all projects of the WRA. When Westgate officers were chosen, applicants were selected by the board who worked with the women in organizing the new dormitory.

BIRCH HALL

BIRCH HALL became the proud possessor of the Scholarship Trophy awarded to the freshman dormitory with the highest grade point. This is the second year in a row that the hall has taken the honor.

In the hall itself, each quarter the corridor with the highest grade point receives a box of candy. Another honor the hall won was second place in the women's dormitory division in the Veishea 1955 parade.

A new television set and a milk machine were pleasant additions to the hall.

FREEMAN HALL

ONCE AGAIN Freeman Hall, primarily a transfer dorm, helped lighten the load of freshmen by housing 51 of them. Each corridor held an open house during the year to help get acquainted with all the new faces.

To encourage scholarship, the dorm offered a special prize to the girl with the most improvement in her grades and to the corridor with the highest grade point. To the lowest corridor went lemon drops!

Several new additions, including a new TV set, were added to Freeman Hall this year for the girl's enjoyment.

Individual residents of the hall also brought recognition by taking top honors as sweepstakes winner of the Pomology Division in the Horticulture Show; Grand Champion winner of the Little International on the campus; and as a tapped member of Mortar Board.

TROPHIES GALORE rolled into Oak Hall this year as the women took award after award in many all-campus activities.

The Women's Dormitory Scholarship Trophy became the permanent possession of the hall. The reason: it was the fourth consecutive year that the members took top scholastic honors.

In addition to scholarship, the women have an alert mind for music and this brought them second place in the 1955 Sor-Dor sing. Another second was awarded at Homecoming in the Knot-tying Contest.

Elm Hall Captures First Place In Dorm Lawn Display Contest

A LOT OF HARD work and co-operation paid off for the women of Elm Hall when they captured the first place trophy in the Women's Dormitory Division for Homecoming decorations. The open house held at Homecoming was such a success that they again held one on Parents' Weekend and opened the rooms so everyone could see dormitory life at I.S.C.

The gals had many spirited sports exchanges and created a volleyball team with their dining room waiters. These sports-minded women participated enthusiastically in intramurals and one was vice-president of Intramurals Board.

Social life is as important as study to these women. A new TV set proved a popular pastime as did many spreads. An Elm couple placed in the Engineers' Carnival jitterbug contest.

ROBERTS HALL

PERSONALITY AND beauty characterized the Roberts Hall girls as they won the trophy for having the most dates during Dames Daze. Their athletic ability won them the first place trophy in basketball intramurals.

Fun and friendship came to Roberts with fall quarter. Those on second floor celebrated Halloween with "open corridor." Rooms were decorated and refreshments served.

Dinner and dance exchanges kept the girls busy socially. They were also represented in departmental clubs, honoraries and numerous activities.

WELCH HALL

WELCH HALL girls did it again. They love to add trophies to their collection. This time, the new ones were a first for Sor-Dor, a second in the dormitory division of Homecoming displays, and a first for costumes in the Knot-Tying Contest. Another award should go to the girls and their housemother, Mrs. McCanon, for their work in redecorating the office and parlors.

A beautiful formal open-house was held in Welch on Valentine's Day; and in the spring, they again held their Cotton Ball. Using a southern theme and a quantity of Welch talent, they scored another success.

THE FIRST NEW women's dormitory at Iowa State in years was completed for occupancy in Fall 1955 and became the home for 145 graduate and undergraduate women.

The building, constructed in less than a year has the "modern" look prevailing throughout. The four story dorm has double suites accomodating four persons.

The airy, neutral colored suites were soon decorated with pictures, pennants, and bulletin boards as the residents moved in last fall.

One of the biggest treats for the women was the fun they had eating in the Friley-Hughes Hall dining room "with all those boys."

New officers did a great deal in expanding the dorm's activities by scheduling exchanges and organizational events.

HONORARIES

THE FRONTIER'S not gone yet — early each spring you can see a few braves and squaws in feathered headbands lurking in the murky corners of the Union or dashing to class. No need to fear for your scalp, though, they're pledges of Tomahawk, National Honorary Society.

Last spring 30 members were pledged to this freshman and sophomore honorary which recognizes outstanding independent men and women for their extra-curricular activities. During initiation the pledges wore pledge paddles around their necks and carried the traditional "goody boxes" for full-fledged tribe members.

For their service project the Tomahawks dotted the campus with signs such as "I want to be a lawn." They weren't cultivating a Garbo on the campus, just grass. The Tomahawk members put up these witty signs to warn absent minded professors and students to stay on the sidewalk.

The Tomahawk actives took time out from their residence decorations at homecoming to decorate the State Gymnasium for the reception for alumni who had been independents during college.

Their spirited war dance, complete with blood-curdling yells, around the pep rally bonfire got everyone warmed up to massacre the Kansas State Wildcats.

Tomahawk members from all over the nation congregated at Iowa State last spring for the national convention. Jay Cohen, Iowa State sophomore, took charge as president of the convention.

MORTAR BOARD

YOU SEE them dashing about campus from class to meetings, a load of books in their arms. You hear their names in connection with the most important college activities. They're the tops on campus in leadership, scholarship, and service — they're the members of Mortar Board, women's highest honorary.

Members of Mortar Board are announced each spring by the tapping ceremony. Only 3rd quarter juniors are eligible for membership. Residences of prospective members are serenaded a week before the ceremony. Mingling with the crowd surrounding the Campanille on the day of tapping, black-robed Mortar Board members suddenly clap their mortar boards on the heads of a members, amid squeals of surprise and delight.

In the darkness of dorm court Mortar Board women each fall lead the Freshmen Induction Service. From one flickering candle held by Sally Brunn, Mortar Board president, the flame spread to hundreds of candles held by freshmen women, in a challenge for each girl to make the most of her college opportunities.

Each year at Homecoming, Mortar Board members prepare and serve a luncheon for 400 alumni.

It's a woman's world — at least on Women's Day, when ISC coeds take over all governmental and service positions on campus. Women's Day, sponsored by Mortar Board, had as 1955 president this year, Marge Kirkpatrick.

Mrs. Dorothy Houghton, speaker at the first Women's Day Convocation in 1938, spoke on "Challenge of the Day" at Iowa State's 1955 Convocation.

CARDINAL KEY . . .

THEY'RE THE KEY men on campus — they're the men of Cardinal Key.

In the shadow of the Campanile these juniors and seniors were welcomed into Iowa State's highest honorary with a resounding slap on the back and a handshake.

Ten students and one faculty member were picked for their service to the college, scholarship, and leadership.

The tapping of the last man announced the president for the coming year, Jim Shaw.

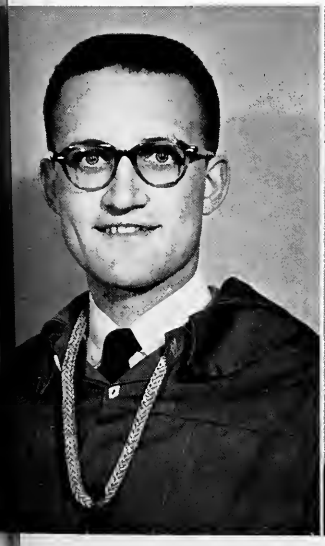

The new pledges gladly suffered through warm spring days in their red robes with the red key on a gold cord around their neck for the week before initiation.

An array of talent was recognized at the annual Leadership Day Banquet honoring outstanding men on campus. Those who attended were men who had been recommended for membership in Cardinal Key. They were given merit awards for their service to the college, leadership, high character and scholarship.

CARDINAL GUILD

Ron Moss, student body president, and Jerry Whittelsey, vice president.

Members strive to improve our campus, keep it running smoothly. A new advisory service summarizing activities is set up.

A PORTION OF the minutes in a Card-Guild meeting last fall recorded that the international students received a hearty welcome to our campus by Cardinal Guild. Cooperating with the YMCA, YWCA, and college officials, Guild arranged to meet students from such places as South America, Hawaii, and Japan. This also gave the students of other lands a chance to meet the leaders of our campus.

Starting out with this college project, the Cardinal Guild this year strived to improve our campus and keep it on top. The thirty-three members met to deal with campus affairs, school problems and many other decisions important in the smooth running of Iowa State.

A new project this year is the advisory service set up and sponsored by Guild. It attempts to keep a list of all activities and their presidents up to date in the Guild files which is available to anyone interested. Included also are brief summaries of the activities giving the purpose and duty of the clubs.

Under the expert leadership of Ron Moss, the Guild met the first and third Tuesdays of each month to voice the sentiments of the student body. The governing body maintains college traditions and attempts to further cooperation between the student body and faculty. Increasing unification and cooperation among the divisions of the school are a part of its job as the official representative of the student body.

Each meeting is open to all interested in the running of the school, and the proceedings of the meeting are published in the Iowa State Daily, to inform the students of any action.

New members of the Guild are selected each spring after extensive campaigning. These representatives are students elected by the student body.

Members of the Guild represent the various organizations and residences on campus. With the officers, this group is the leading and ruling body of Iowa State College.

9,140 Enrolled at Iowa State

by Dick Jacob

Enrollment for fall quarter took an unexpected upswing this year as 9,140 students registered at Iowa State.

"This increased enrollment is coming earlier and faster than we had anticipated," Dr. James H. Hilton, president of Iowa State, said today. "The tremendous rise in student numbers poses a critical problem this fall. If we have this large an increase next fall we will face a desperate situation in regard to ...ous ng, classroom and laboratory space."

The 9,140 figure compares with 8,368 students attending Iowa State ...rst fall and exceeds last ...'s ...ollment by more than ...

Daily Named "All-American" In National College Contest

Ray Kooser, editor, and Corky Trout, managing editor.

Posted on a bulletin board in the press building is the warning "Daily Workers, Big Brother is watching YOU!" Not only big brother, but all Iowa State is watching the Iowa State Daily. The crackle of its pages can be heard from the back of the chem lecture room. The usual before-breakfast greeting anywhere on campus is "Haven't those blasted Dailies gotten here yet?"

Campus news and events, women's features, reports on sports, editorials on campus problems and "who's pinned to whom" make up this mirror of college activity.

As essential as morning coffee is a glance at HubBub, the column that probably claims more readership than any other part of the paper. The Union dwellers, Grindley and his friends, are known by everyone, with their sage and silly comments on college activities and Union coffee.

Each day from Tuesday to Saturday the Daily is published, in spite of editors' frantic cries that "we'll never meet the deadline!" Ray Kooser edits the Daily, the only student-produced daily newspaper on campus.

Faculty advisor is Bill Ames.

Bob Norberg takes the slot — issue editor for a day.

Ballantyne, Wagner, Funk, Lourin, Lewis, Griffin.

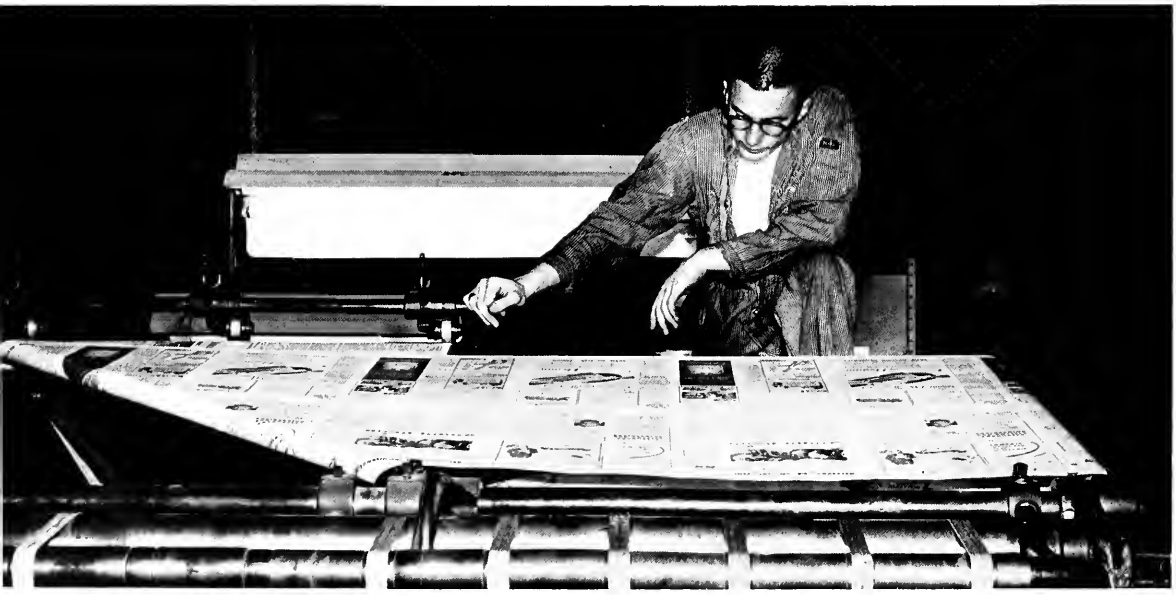

The writing is done by veteran journalists and the fledgings, the 221 and 222 technical journalism students. They can be seen in the Daily office any time of the day, especially during the dinner hour, when the essential last inch of copy "just has to be done."

Daily writers are a peculiar species. They exist on cokes and cigarettes (crushed neatly on the floor in true journalistic tradition). They bloom in the atmosphere of the acrid smell of printer's ink. After the copy has been wrenched out and the Daily is on the press at last, the cry "How about going out for a hamburger?" can be heard.

All day the Daily office buzzes with activity, both creative and otherwise. The stacatto click of typewriters punctuates the blare of a popular song or the enthusiastic screams of a football announcer on the radio. Copy writers shuffle through the eternally confused pile of papers, dictionaries, and empty coke bottles on the desks and chew on a pencil over an inspiration that won't come.

At the bottom of a completed page of copy, journalists write "30," a symbol of the end. And to end each quarter of work on college publications, they hold the "30" party.

A student pressman checks the web as tomorrow's issue of the Daily runs through the press.

ELAINE, Iowa State's white swan, may be as pure as driven snow, but when it comes to popularity, there's no question which bird is tops on campus — it's the "Green Gander."

The "Green Gander" struts its stuff four times a year, at Veishea, Christmas, Halloween and Valentine's Day. Then classes are filled with the rustle of pages and muffled giggles over jokes that the censor didn't catch.

The fellow who kept the "Gander" reasonably chaste and innocent this year was editor Bob Norberg. He was ably assisted by faculty advisor Harry Heath, department of journalism. Bob Armstrong was business manager.

Theta Sigma Phi and Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternities, sponsor this magazine of jokes, cartoons and cheesecake.

EDITED BY agricultural journalist Stan Meyer, the "Iowa Agriculturist" serves the students of this division through up-to-date articles and comment. Subject matter covers subjects ranging from forages to the new meat-type hog, from anti-biodics to bee-keeping.

Like other divisional publications, this magazine is aimed editorially at the students. Much of the information is made available through interviews with ISC scientists and experiment people. Nearly every article is student produced.

The magazine averages around 16 pages and is supported financially through sale of national and local advertising, which is sold by students. Advertising accounts are supervised by the magazine business manager, who is responsible for the publication's financial health.

CONTRACTS, sales, distribution, and the budget. These are the main jobs of the Bomb business staff. In the Spring, it's contracts and distribution. Staffers work overtime sealing envelopes and trying to see that every organization that might want space in the book gets a contract for consideration. The Fall sees the promotion of yearbook sales, along with Cardinal Cuts, for the same staff handles both. Budgetary problems descend on the staff about this time. Questions, like "Can we use any color" or "Must we cut the total number of pages" arise. These questions are no sooner answered than distribution begins. And then another business staff takes over.

PUBLICATION BOARD for the Bomb serves the function of a publisher. These representatives from the divisions of the college select the editor and business manager, and approve staff appointments, policy, and contractual obligations. Ames Forester 1955

Annual Issue Serves Department of Forestry

As the only departmental magazine at Iowa State, the "Ames Forester" supplies its students and faculty with technical and interesting articles on forestry at work. Stories inform students about forestry on the job, and others narrate the Forestry Club activities on campus. Editor Larry Axelton and business manager Andy Lindquist keep the staff busy all year round writing the stories and securing the ads that make the "Forester" one of the best in its field.

Seated: Lindquist (bus. mgr.), L. F. Kellogg (adv.), Axelton (editor). Standing: Prestemon, Muntz, Pillsbury, Schramm, Warner, Gill.

SKETCH

AUTHORS — at Iowa State? Yes, that creative spark still burns, despite all the smothering beneath scientific laws and formulas. It finds its outlet in "Sketch," a quarterly magazine of original poems and prose by Iowa State students. Sketch Editorial Board selects the best of the creative writing submitted for publication. Two members of this board are selected by the English Department and 12 are elected from the student body by the publications board.

The Editorial Board also sponsors Books and Cokes, with Phil Ellenberger as chairman. In an informal atmosphere amid cokes and cigarette haze students review both current and classic books every Thursday afternoon of fall and spring quarters.

Sitting: Sommer (associate bus. mgr.), Pearl Hogrefe (literary advisor), Goodale (member at large), Hightshoe (circ. mgr.). Standing: Sindt, Overholt, Smith (bus. mgr.), Orlovich (fac. adv.), Anderson (associate editor).

CARDINAL Cuts

THE SINGING bells of the carillon are the first sounds you hear on the Cardinal Cuts, a 45 r.p.m. record. Following them are two sides of the best sounds of Iowa State.

This year the Cuts promise to be just as full of all the important events — Homecoming, speakers, Christmas, Veishea, sports, and many others — as they were before.

C. W. Smith led his staff in the narration and production of the records, and the activities were taped as they happened. When the record is released, events of Iowa State are recorded for everyone for years to come.

RADIO WORKSHOP

Potential cast members audition for parts in one of the many productions put on WOI by Radio Workshop.

WOI PROGRAMS for both children and adults are the products of the 25 members of Radio Workshop. This year they produced a dramatized version of the "Life of Mozart," a program on Julius Caesar which ran four and one-half hours, and a documentary, "Wuthering Heights."

Membership is open to anyone who is interested. The group meets once a week, every Thursday, in studio A of the Service Building. Scripts come from a variety of places, but members often write them together. Radio Workshop also contributes to Veishea by developing a radio history of the event every year. Additional broadcasting this year included a series, "Religion in the World."

The Iowa Homemaker

Fashion, Frills and Advice For I. S. C. Women

Leave it to the women — to produce the only magazine of its kind in the world, the "Iowa State Homemaker."

Articles on everything from cocktail dresses to the details of a job in experimental cookery kept the female factor of Iowa State up to date on what's going on in campus life and in the field of home economics.

Doris Jirsa edited this monthly magazine.

Quarterly Publication Competes With Some Professional Vet Journals. Serves Both Vets and Students

A divisional magazine that has proven itself worthy of praise is the "Veterinarian." Published once a quarter, the magazine averages about 64 pages and is filled with stories and articles written especially for pre-vets and veterinarian students.

Since the "Veterinarian" competes with professional journals, the editor, Gordon Held, and business manager Ron Goldsmith accept articles from members of the field out on the job or in other schools. Many other articles are written by Iowa State students.

This year the Vet has, along with its circulation on campus, 1,450 subscriptions from vets and companies from the United States and many foreign countries. The library buys 50 magazines to exchange with foreign countries for their technical magazines.

Monthly Issues Reach Science Students and Faculty. Technical Reports of What's New.

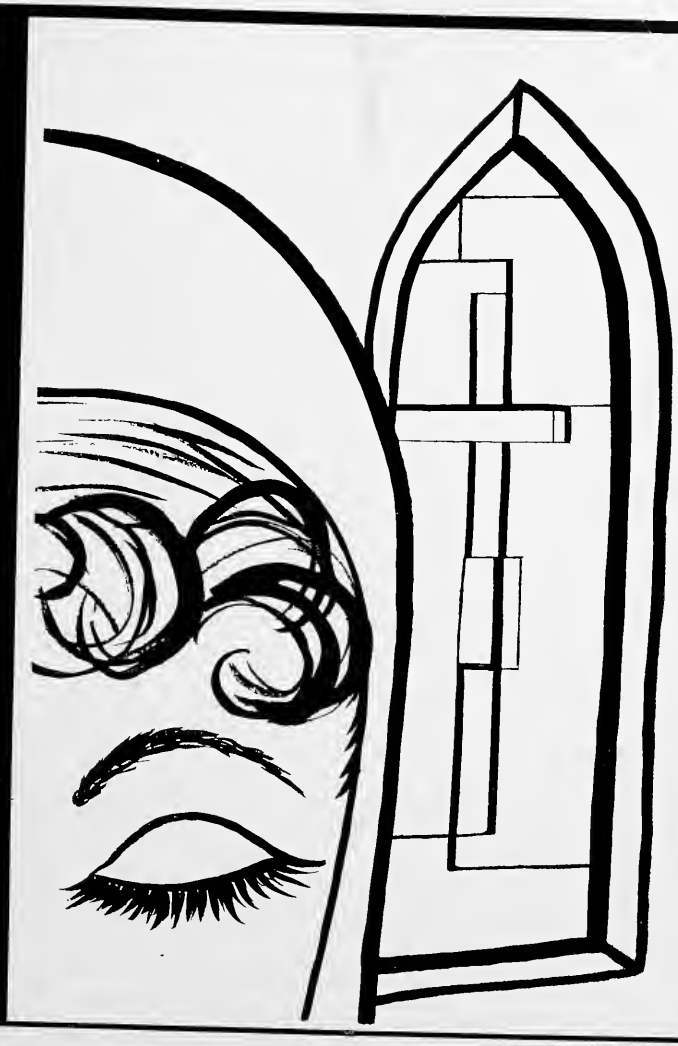

Published for Science students and faculty members, the "Scientist" is also read widely by many without a scientific title. Featuring interesting articles about the application of science in other fields, it also contains campus items and humorous stories.

Editor Sherri Hopewell and her staff see the publication through from its beginning at Saturday morning meetings to its distribution once each month. Ideas and criticisms are shared weekly to insure interesting issues. Prof. Ken Marvin is faculty advisor.

RELIGION

Religion in Life Convocations . . .

GAMMA DELTA

TWO MAIN PURPOSES of Gamma Delta are to maintain and increase Lutheran consciousness on the campus and to maintain and increase local and intra-campus fellowship among students of the Lutheran faith.

The organization, which was founded in 1934, had a membership of 109 last year. Interest in the group is the only requirement for membership according to president Gerald Paulsen.

Meetings are held every Sunday evening in the Memorial Lutheran Church and Student Chapel.

Two to four parties per quarter are sponsored by Gamma Delta, including a freshman welcome party in the Fall quarter.

Gamma Delta ice cream servers discovered they had ice cream left over after serving at a regular Sunday evening get-together. They helped themselves — and each other.

LSA

TAFFY-PULL, cherry pie bake and a Smorgasbord are some of the many social activities of LSA, Lutheran Student Association.

Members combine worship, recreation, fellowship and service by sponsoring "Ashram," a weekend at Riverside Bible Camp devoted to study, play and worship.

The big social function of the year is the LSA Banquet. During Veishea the group contributes a float, refreshment stand and an open house.

"The association was founded in the early 1940's and is composed of 800 members," said Rollin Branstad, president.

Other officers are Wallace Bergstrom, vice-president; Karel Nordgaard, secretary; and Paul Pietsch, treasurer.

YWCA

"WE PROVIDE women students with an opportunity to meet each other, to gain inspiration, to have fun . . . and to learn about their Christian faith," says Sara Guy, president for the campus YWCA. The YW has around 400 local members.

Mrs. Hector Thompson is executive director, and membership is open to any woman student enrolled at ISC who buys membership and accepts the purpose. This organization helps sponsor parties for foreign students and a get-acquainted picnic before classes at Lynn Fuhrer Lodge.

YMCA

GUIDED BY Wayne Northy, president, and the internationally YMCA avowed purpose, ". . . to serve in Christ . . .," this fellowship takes an active part in campus life. Perhaps best known is the Annual Freshman Y Camp or the YM-YW All College Mixer, both held in the fall. Their college boy's work program is one of the best in the country. "Our aim," said Northy, "is to round out a program designed to meet as many as possible of the needs of the entire male student body." Faculty advisor for the group is Harold Reinhart, and membership is now near 600.

NEWMAN CLUB

OUR PURPOSE is three-fold," says Jim Gaines, president of the Newman Club. "We stress religious, educational, and social aims."

Catholic students have made this the largest religious club — membership is around 650. Advisors are Father Supple and Father Voels, who are in charge of the Catholic Student Center, on Lincoln Way.

The club sponsors a membership dance which climaxes the fall membership drive, a winter formal, the Newman Nite Club during spring quarter in St. Thomas Moore Lounge, and a fireside every Friday night.

Outstanding speakers are also sponsored by the club. They include Dr. Vincent Smith, Paul Sheets, and Sen. Paul Douglas.

Incidental social entertainment includes picnics, weiner roast, hayrides, a coffee hour every afternoon, and a supper every Sunday. A senior banquet is held each spring.

STUDENT RELIGIOUS COUNCIL

MD. HELSER advises the newly-formed Student Religious Council. The group grew from a recent reorganization of the Interfaith Council and the Religion-In-Life Central Committee in the spring of 1955.

"We serve the college," says President Mary Elizabeth Dickerson, "by coordinating and promoting religious activity of the student body, providing administration for all-college religious activities, and encouraging the development of understanding among the faiths and denominations represented."

The group sponsors All-Out To Church Sundays and Religion-In-Life Week. They are also responsible for the Nativity scene at Christmas near Music Hall.

Dinner is served by the Wesley Foundation on Sunday after the group has heard speakers or participated in discussion talks.

WESLEY FOUNDATION

"WESLEY Wonderland," a program featuring movieland, Gay Paree, the wild west, and a worship service, was just one of the many events sponsored by Wesley Foundation, Methodist student group.

This year an average of sixty deputation teams visited other churches to share ideas and worship. The two national service fraternities, Kappa Phi and Sigma Theta Epsilon, planned projects such as baby-sitting, making hospital favors, church painting and cleaning and caring for a young German girl.

Discussion groups of the Wesley Foundation find many heads better than one when it comes to solving campus and group living problems.

Sunday evenings often find the more vocal members of the group gathered around the Church piano for a bit of impromptu harmonizing.

MUSIC

The Annual Tree-Lighting

IOWA STATE SINGERS

Prof. Robert McCowen, directing.

TRADITIONAL to campus music is the Singers annual Christmas caroling on the steps of Beardshear during the tree-lighting ceremony.

The casually passing student might have heard this same music weeks ahead of time near Morrill Hall, for the Singers practice several times each week on the third floor. Their vocalizing ranges from "The Bells of Iowa State" to "That Old Black Magic."

The Singers also present Old School Songs at the Homecoming Bar-B-Que.

Directed by Professor Robert McCowen, a selected number from the Singers groups make a tour of the state between winter and spring quarters. Program for this state-wide trip includes both popular and classical music. The performers, audience tested throughout Iowa, come back unified and enthusiastic.

All 300 vocal musicians present an annual winter concert which features quartets and solos, as well as music by the full group.

FESTIVAL CHOIR

ACCOMPLISHED singers and enthusiastic monotones combine their efforts at a session of singing once a week at Festival Choir. No try-outs are necessary — a common love of singing is the bond tying this group together.

With an unbeatable combination of musical talent and a vibrant personality Professor Robert McCowen whips this group of 600 individual singers into shape and produces a choir. The results of the Tuesday night practices can be heard in two concerts, one in the fall and one in the spring.

The stirring themes of the "Messiah" fill the state gym at Christmastime in the first concert. The long hours of practice at night seem small in comparison to the result, a masterful presentation of Handel's most famous and beautiful musical masterpiece.

The chorus, dressed in white shirts and blouses, stands like stiffly starched angels behind the concert band. A few sour notes as the band tunes up, a shuffling of music, then usddenly the majestic, familiar chords of the Messiah burst forth. The hundreds of voices blend into one unifying chorus. Christmas has arrived on the Iowa State campus.

Practicing to perfection under Prof. Robert McCowen.

ISC SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

THERE'S music and monkey-play in the air when the ISC Symphony Orchestra gets together for a practice session.

Biggest event of their season was the concert tour of Iowa between fall and winter quarters. Back home again, the orchestra presented a "pops" concert, and at a later concert accompanied solo pianist Byron Janis. They also accompanied Festival Chorus in the Messiah at Christmastime.

This 70 piece orchestra, under the direction of Dr. Alvin R. Edgar, has no membership requirements other than interest in music and the ability to play standard symphony orchestra music.

THE CONCERT BAND

AFTER THE BUSY fall season, some of the members of Marching Band audition and are accepted to play in the Concert Band.

Directed by Frank Piersol, Concert Band started the season with Club 2000. This concert consists of modern music performed in new and unusual styles.

Great Hall rang with the strains of the music of Leroy Anderson, Victor Herbert, and other favorite works at the Pops Concert. Winter quarter featured the Band in the annual Winter Concert, in Religion-in-Life Week events, and in their Spring Tour.

Concert Band toured Iowa, taking to the schools and towns the best music of Iowa State. Climaxing this trip, the Band returned to give the students the same excellent program.

WAY OUT front in brand new red and black uniforms is the Iowa State Marching Band. By performing for the home football games and Stars Over Veishea, these 120 musicians contribute to the spirit of our school and to the good quality of music Iowa State boasts.

Practicing three times a week, the musicians strive for perfection in timing, rhythm, and formations. Their success with this goal this year put the band in the same class with leading college bands all over the country.

President Jerry Dohrman helps director Frank A. Piersol in the arrangement of the band formations and the selection of music.

BLOCK AND BRIDLE ✦ ✦ ✦

Agriculture

Porkers of this size are hard to hang on to, whether greased or not. A quick eye, a pair of fleet feet, and a grip like iron does the job.

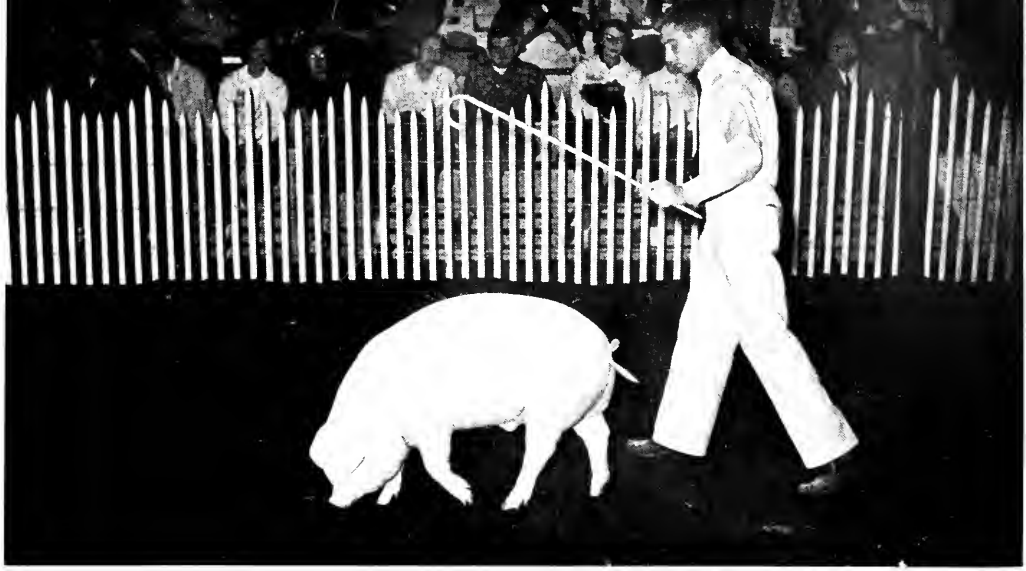

FOUNDED JUST after the first world war, the Block and Bridle Club strives to promote scholarship, to advance all phases of animal husbandry and dairy husbandry both at ISC and in Iowa, and to achieve a closer relationship among those pursuing these courses as a profession. Their more than 200 members voted Charles Elson for president.

The Veishea Horse Show is sponsored by the group, as well as an open house and a concession stand. Members hold an annual club banquet during winter quarter, spring and fall picnics, and initiation parties.

Membership is open to majors in animal or dairy husbandry, and the members meet twice a month.

The Cardinal Guild Service "I" Award was presented in 1955, for over-all activities, including the Little International Livestock Show and livestock and meat judging contests.

Animal showing and judging is the heart of The Little International, sponsored by Block and Bridle here every fall quarter.

DAIRY INDUSTRY CLUB

The Club was founded for the purpose of furthering the interests of students enrolled in the Dairy Industry curriculum.

MILITARY

AFROTC

PRESENT WORLD conditions dictate a situation of constant military readiness. To meet this need, land grant colleges and universities sponsor military training programs in cooperation with the national government.

The Air Force ROTC program at Iowa State is designed to select and train qualified young men to serve as commissioned officers in the United States Air Force. The program is divided into two parts, basic and advanced training. Underclassmen may elect the basic program to meet the college two-year training requirement.

Those who are selected for the advanced program receive training that will increase their abilities as Air Force junior officers. The program is designed to make the graduate ready to step into an Air Force career, utilizing his individual abilities and educational background. Or, he has an excellent background to fulfill his required national service.

THE STUDENTS' AFROTC training is not limited to the classroom. There are three other aspects of training designed for application of classroom theory. These are summer camp, leadership training and extra-curricular military activities.

The leadership training laboratory, conducted on the drill field during spring and fall, gives the cadet actual experience in practical leadership and the direction of group activities. The summer training camp, attended between the junior and senior years, is designed to supplement classroom instruction with actual first-hand experience. Activities such as the rifle team, Sabre Flight, Arnold Air Society, Pershing Rifles and the Drum and Bugle Corps give every cadet the opportunity to broaden his background and experience.

DISTINGUISHED MILITARY STUDENTS

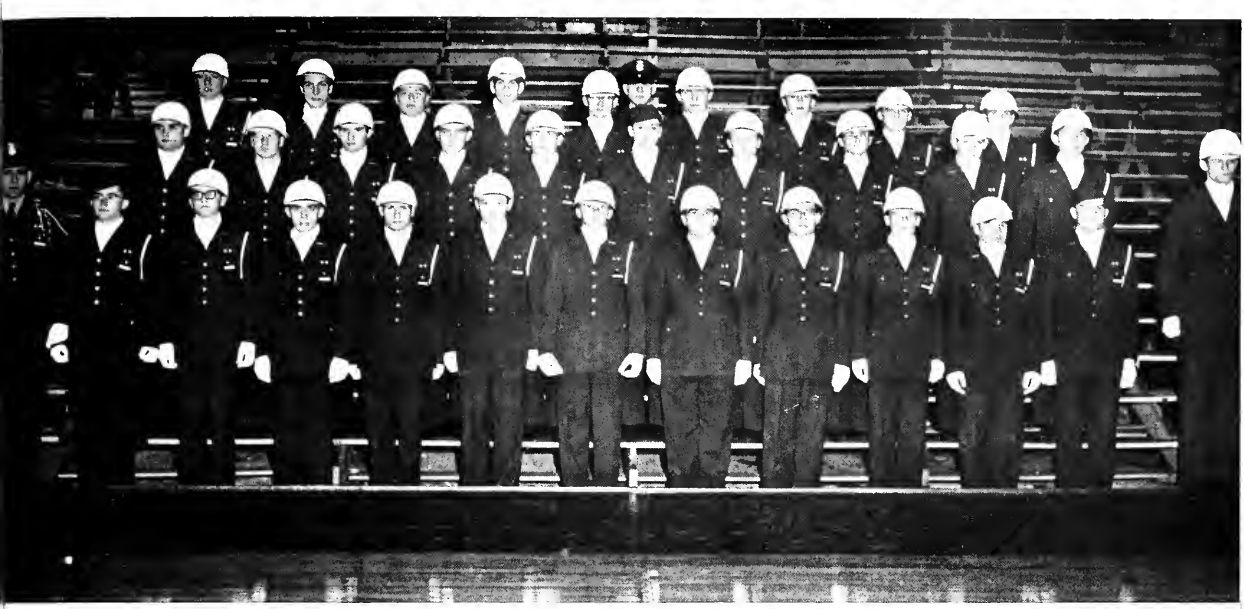

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY, national professional organization for AFROTC juniors and seniors, pledged 32 men this fall. As part of the initiation, the pledges rose at 6:45 a.m. to perform flag raising duties.

The group, composed of 41 active members, was adopted last year as an auxiliary branch of Air Force Society, which includes active Air Force officers.

The society meets twice a month, with Louis Eversmeyer as president.

PERSHING RIFLES

THE PERSHING RIFLES Ball, one of outstanding military social events of the year, is sponsored by the Pershing Rifles — a crack drill team of about 20 members made up of Army, Navy and Air Force ROTC undergraduates.

Highlights of the event are the naming of the Pershing Rifles Queen and the formal initiation of new actives.

The organization was founded in 1894 to promote proficiency in the elements of leadership, drill and exercise of command.

Faculty advisors for the group are Lt. Miller and Sgt. Cart, Army; Capt. Moore, Air Force; and Major Woods, Navy.

The drill team performs at the Drake Relays, Veishea and various other shows. The organization also furnishes color guards, flag raisers and firing squads for special occasions.

SCABBARD AND BLADE

FOUNDED on the Iowa State campus in 1915, Scabbard and Blade aims to raise the standard of Military Education in American colleges and universities, and to foster qualities of good and efficient officers, according to Bill McCulloch, president.

The 45 members compose the upper 25 per cent of Advanced Military, in all branches. They sponsor one of the largest social events of the year, the Military Ball.

Navy Reserve Officers Receive Pay, Make Annual Summer Cruise

The Navy Reserve Officers Training Corps at Iowa State represents one of 52 such organizations on United States campuses.

Selection to the NROTC is on a highly competitive basis. Only 2,000 of some 75,000 candidates are selected over the nation each year.

It is an attractive program. Regulars receive tuition, books, travel pay, and $50 per month. Contract students receive $30 per month during their junior and senior years. Both groups receive free uniforms.

Both regular and contract students look forward to summer cruises. Regular students make three cruises and contract students make one. These provide sea experience to round out professional studies and introduce midshipmen to life aboard a navy ship.

The Order of the Sextant is the honorary for the distinguished Naval students. Sextant sponsors the Navy dance and coordinates the unit efforts on their Veishea Open House.

The flag, the parade, the marching men. They are the military. This review represents the discipline and these flags represent the reason this discipline is necessary. It was a cold, grey day.
